Johnson Better, Lady Bird Also Sick in Hospital

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson and his wife Lady Bird were hospitalized Saturday with severe colds.

The President also suffered a throat infection that caused painful coughing and hoarseness. He was rushed to Bethesda Naval Hospital by ambulance before dawn with what was diagnosed as "tracheitis," an inflammation of the upper windpipe.

The White House said at 3 p.m. EST that Johnson's doctors reported he was "in excellent shape — couldn't be doing better." With rest and medication, his cough had eased considerably.

His temperature at 7:15 p.m. was 99.8 degrees. His blood pressure was described earlier as "well within the normal limits."

The chief executive was said to have eaten a steak sandwich for supper, was resting comfortably, and had "responded very well to the treatment."

Mrs. Johnson had no fever. She was hospitalized about 12 hours after the President.

Johnson demonstrated that he was responding to treatment when he allowed a small group of newsmen to interview him at his bedside.

"Yet each man kills the thing he loves," Oscar Wilde once said.

Is that what we're doing to the beauty of our city?

This series of articles pointing up the encroaching ugliness in our city has hit more nerve centers than a spinal operation.

Calls and letters have poured in from oldtimers and newcomers, city fathers and housewives, business men and senior citizens.

Whether written or oral, the messages have been fraught with emotion.

One 77-year-old woman called to say she was appalled at what had happened to her beautiful Long Beach.

"WHEN I first came here in 1919," she said nostalgically, "Long Beach was the most beautiful resort city on the coast."

She went on to say she left here 20 years ago to follow her husband's profession in faraway places—Europe, Arabia, Egypt. She returned a year ago "because this is my home, my love."

"But I just couldn't believe how Long Beach had changed. I can't believe the disrespect some people have for property, how so much of the beauty has been marred with tawdriness."

A doctor who has practiced here for 55 years called to expound on the change. "People here used to take such pride in their surroundings. Merchants were out at the crack of

Oil Blasts, Fire Hit Anchorage Harbor

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—A fire and explosions raged for more than three hours in a waterfront area Saturday, destroying a 600-foot-long Standard Oil Co. of California warehouse and office building.

Firemen apparently kept the blaze from spreading to dozens of nearby petroleum-storage tanks.

There were no reports of injuries.

Two railroad boxcars and a truck were burned.

The fire broke out at 2:48 p.m. Firemen said at 5:40 p.m. that it appeared to have been contained to the immediate area of the warehouse-office building.

FIGURE OF DESTINY He Wore the Mantle of Greatness With Ease

By United Press International

To the end of his life Sir Winston Churchill personified the tough English bulldog.

Plane crashes, three strokes, a run-in with a New York taxicab and the pressures of twice leading his nation in war and peace had taken their toll. But his indomitable spirit enabled the old warrior to amaze doctors with his remarkable recoveries.

Statesman, soldier, author, painter—Sir Winston was one of the great figures provided by destiny in moments of supreme world crisis.

HE WAS THE last of the trio—Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill—which guided the fate of the Allies in World War II. He was a man who sprang to the leadership of Britain in her greatest hour of peril in 1940, and who led her to the victory over Germany in 1945.

A good and old friend said of Churchill on his 85th birthday that he was the greatest man in the world for 500 years. On his 86th birthday, London's national newspapers echoed that sentiment with one calling him: "The World's Greatest Man."

And he went on and on. For all the last years of his life, few would deny that he was the greatest Englishman.

One of his dreams was an English speaking union. He loved the United States—his mother was American—and one of his fondest hopes finally was achieved when he was made an honorary citizen by the late President Kennedy in Washington on April 9, 1963.

PRESIDENT Kennedy, in making the presentation to Churchill's son, Randolph, who accepted the honor on behalf of his absent father, said: "He is the most honored and honorable man to walk the stage of human history in the time in which we live."

"By adding his name to our rolls, we mean to honor him—but his acceptance honors us far more. For no statement or proclamation can enrich his name now. The name Sir

Four Yanks Lost in Viet

WASHINGTON, Sunday (UPI)—Four Army enlisted men have been listed as missing after failing to return from a fishing trip in South Viet Nam, the Defense Department reported early today.

A search was under way for the men, missing near the village of Vic Tuy Nhon, the department said. There was no indication whether they had fallen into the hands of Communist guerrillas.

The four failed to return "after a reasonable time" from a fishing trip in a motorboat, the spokesman said. He said no trace had been found of either the boat or the men.

Death Comes Painlessly, Wife, Family at His Side

LONDON, Sunday (UPI)—Sir Winston Churchill is dead.

Churchill died shortly after 12 PST today 10 days after he suffered a stroke, it was announced officially. He was 90.

Sir Winston's secretary released the announcement signed by the statesman's physician, Lord Moran. It read:

"Shortly after eight this morning, Sunday, Jan. 24th, Sir Winston Churchill died at his London home. Signed Moran."

The Old Warrior's last illness began with a cold that confined him to his bed at his Georgian home at No. 23 Hyde Park Gate. A circulatory weakness developed, and he suffered a cerebral thrombosis, or stroke. From then until the inevitable end only his stalwart spirit sustained him.

Gradually weakening, he slipped painlessly toward death. Because of his age, his doctors decided against trying to move him from his bedroom to a hospital.

Announcement of Sir Winston's death eight weeks after his 90th birthday was made at 8:36 a.m.

Death came to the greatest commoner in English history as he lay in his room on the ground floor of No. 23 Hyde Park Gate in the capital where he rallied the forces of freedom during World War II.

WITH HIM AT HIS bedside when the end came were his faithful wife, Clementine, 79, his son, Randolph, daughters, Sarah and Mrs. Mary Soames, and grandchildren.

Lord Moran, Churchill's long-time friend and physician, also was at his side.

A state funeral was certain for this giant of a man who twice served Britain as Prime Minister and rallied her people to their "finest hour" when the armies of Adolf Hitler were sweeping across Europe to the English Channel.

Funeral services are expected to be held in St. Paul's Cathedral, last resting place of Britain's military immortals. But under present plans he will be buried in a simple parish church in accordance with his wish to be near his father and his American-born mother.

Before the funeral he is expected to lie in state in London's Westminster Hall, now a part of the Houses of Parliament in which Sir Winston served for 62 years.

UNTIL POLICE CLOSED OFF the dead end street leading to the Churchill home, Londoners by the thousands had paused for a look at the house where the old statesman was dying. It was there that the public had glimpsed him for the last time.

The occasion was the eve of his 90th birthday last Nov. 29. Nearly a thousand persons stood in the cold and drizzle on that day to sing "Happy Birthday to You" while Sir Winston made a brief appearance at a window. Although he had to be helped from his chair by a nurse and Lady Churchill, he seemed well and happy then and waved a greeting to the crowd.

Shortly after the news of his death was announced, the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) immediately began playing Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, whose opening notes formed the Morse Code letter V-for-Victory during the war.

As news of Churchill's death reached the small crowd at the entrance to Hyde Park Gate just after 8:35 a.m., they stood around in small groups in a light drizzle chatting quietly with each other.

Huge Quake Hits Indonesian Island

HONOLULU (UPI)—Seismologists said a powerful earthquake struck the Indonesian island of Halmahera Saturday. The fate of the island's inhabitants, at least 55,000 persons, was not immediately known.

Seismologists in Honolulu and California said the quake had a magnitude of 7.5 on the Richter scale.

The 1964 Good Friday earthquake which devastated parts of Alaska registered 8.5.

The quake was recorded at the Honolulu observatory of the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey at 2:12 p.m. HST (4:12 p.m. PST). It registered at the University of California in Berkeley and at Caltech in Pasadena at 4:25 p.m. PST.

The force of the quake was so strong that it tangled recording machinery in the California laboratories.

Authorities in Honolulu were investigating the possibility that the quake might have touched off a tidal wave. But they discounted the possibility that it would cause any trouble in Hawaii.

QUEEN SENDS CONDOLENCE

LONDON, Sunday (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II sent the following message today to Lady Churchill:

"The whole world is the poorer by the loss of his many-sided genius while the survival of this country and the sister nations of the commonwealth, in the face of the greatest danger that has ever threatened them will be a perpetual memorial to his leadership, his vision, and his indomitable courage."

The queen's message was signed "Elizabeth R."—her formal signature.

Queen Mother Elizabeth and other members of the royal family sent Lady Churchill their personal messages of sympathy.

CHURCHILL

Free Men Ever Will Laud Him

By MARK CLUTTER

It is not easy to tell young people today what Winston Churchill meant to the young people of the early 1940s.

After all, these kids have never gone up in rickety planes, flying by the seats of their pants, against superior forces. Or stood frozen mid-watches on the deadly Murmansk route. Or hiked across Europe with guns in their hands.

Nor can they quite believe that the gray-haired men they know—their dads—did these things. But they did. And one reason why they were able to do them was the inspiration they found in one man, Old Winnie.

NO OTHER man in all history has symbolized so well for so many the virtues of free men, which are valor, honor, endurance, reason, invincibility and compassion. To us who lived World War II he embodied all that a warrior, a knight on the side of right, should be.

The world of the 1930s was not a pretty one. The world moved slowly from the grim, hungry, insulating depression into murderous lunacy. The government of Germany was seized by men who, in other nations, would have been locked in prisons and mental hospitals.

Step by step, the Free World retreated before the demands of the Third Reich. Austria fell without a fight. Chamberlain bartered away the freedom of Czechoslovakia for "peace in our time." And many Americans argued that "Fortress America" could remain aloof from the down-

L.A.C. Says: Should Avoid This in Medicare Plan

A look at Britain's socialized medicine should be a warning that our own Medicare plan can bring about undesirable results. Not many people in England would vote to abolish the free medical program. But it is evident many are unhappy over the way it operates. A report by a staff member of Newspaper Enterprise Association points out some of the problems.

He says, "Under a system which is supposed to provide free medical care for all, Britons are discovering that some men are more equal than others." He tells of the desperate shortage of hospital beds. Patients are using subtle bribes to get admitted ahead of others whose cases may be more serious. The way it works is to pay a "consultant" a fee. The consultant then uses his hospital connections to get the patient admitted ahead of the waiting list.

Because there are usually at least 500,000 people awaiting admission to hospitals in Britain and Wales, there is considerable advantage in calling on a consultant who can add an extra $2,400 to his annual income. These consultant doctors are employed by hospitals.

Britain's 23,000 family doctors are considered overworked and underpaid. Average pay of the family doctor under socialized medicine is $7,742 a year. In order to boost this figure, he must try to expand his case load to the 3,500 maximum permitted. By comparison, there is a doctor for less than each 1,000 persons in the U. S.

It is estimated Britain is losing 500 to 600 doctors a year—which is equal to a fourth of the graduates from all her medical schools. They move to the United States. Canada and other Commonwealth countries where their earnings are so much greater. To check this loss of doctors, they are demanding an increase in pay to at least $9,000 a year—less than we pay many truck drivers.

Meantime the national health plan is literally dependent upon the 4,000 doctors who have gone to Britain from Asian and African countries—who go there to complete their studies and to gain experience. It is estimated half the emergency surgery in Britain is performed by these overseas visitors.

The plan now costs British taxpayers $3 billion a year. But this is due to increase as the Labor Government proposes to take off the present charge of 25 cents for prescriptions. This charge was placed on drugs after the free prescription system was so badly misused and made more costly.

There are some doctors who continue to give their services to patients who prefer to pay for private service. The plan permits such services. But this applies to only those patients who have the money and who are willing to pay the fees. The real problem is the overcrowding of hospitals—cost of free prescriptions and the overworked doctors attempting to care for 2,400 to 3,600 patients each.

This report should be considered by Congress in passing a Medicare plan. Unless it provides that everyone pays something for each day in the hospital, we will find ourselves in the same overcrowded situation. What you get for nothing, you usually misuse and make more costly to those who provide it—L.A.C.

County Reveals Disaster Plans

Residents of Los Angeles County can be assured of "the highest possible level of preparedness" on the part of county departments in the event of a major disaster.

Such a report will be submitted Tuesday to county supervisors by L. S. Hollinger, chief county administrative officer.

Hollinger explained that the report was prepared because the county had received many inquiries from residents since the recent floods in the north on the county's ability to respond to "a major disaster resulting from flood, earthquake, fire or other natural causes."

THE disaster preparedness plan of Los Angeles County has received nationwide recognition and has been copied by "an increasing number" of other cities and counties, Hollinger said.

Foremost among local procedures, he said, is the assignment of disaster operations, not to a centralized civil defense office, but to operating departments, "especially the regular emergency services."

To assure a 24-hour capability to respond to any emergency, Hollinger said, county supervisors have authorized every department head "to take all necessary actions to save and protect human lives endangered by a disaster or threat of disaster."

THIS authority includes the power to incur "all reasonable expenses," which may be charged against the county's general fund, he pointed out.

Every emergency service has a 24-hour duty roster, altering procedure and emergency call list, Hollinger said.

Radio communications are insured by 300 base stations and mobile headquarters communications vans and by 2,200 radio-equipped vehicles. This is supplemented by the Disaster Communications Service of more than 400 trained amateur radio operators.

VEHICLES and heavy equipment are available in disasters not only from county departments, but also state and city sources and from "Plan Bulldozer" of the Associated General Contractors. The latter agreement places equipment of AGC members at county disposal for disaster relief operations.

In the event of a catastrophic disaster, Hollinger said, the coroner has made arrangements with more than 200 private mortuaries and sufficient supplies have been stocked to handle 5,000 bodies.

All county employees are subject to assignment to disaster operations, Hollinger said, and specialized training has been given to these employees with specific disaster responsibilities.

THIS training includes radiological monitoring, light and heavy rescue, law enforcement and similar activities. Critical disaster services would be provided by such units as the sheriff's aero detail, the sheriff's special enforcement detail, the Small Craft Harbor Department's scuba diving team, Marshal's Emergency Enforcement Detail, radiological monitoring teams of the Air Pollution Control District, and rescue teams of the Forester and Fire Warden.

The 1,000-man sheriff's reserve also is on call, and arrangements have been worked out in advance for cooperation by the American Red Cross, Hollinger said.

THE RECENT mass shooting incident in Gardena, where 17 gunshot victims were delivered to Harbor General Hospital "with very short notice at a time when professional staff coverage was at its lowest level," proved a good, small-scale test of the disaster program, Hollinger said.

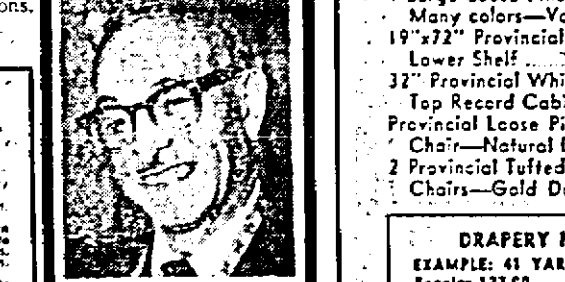

He pointed out that by the time the wounded arrived, stretchers were ready, six doctors and 10 nurses were present and 17 rooms were available.

"Two hours later, those who required surgery had been treated, and all those who remained in the hospital were in rooms," Hollinger said.

He acknowledged that the number of injured was "minimal in relation to the potential casualties resulting from a catastrophic disaster," but asserted it indicated "the highest possible level of preparedness on the part of each county department."

SCORE: 928-748 Lakewood Youths Play 12-Hour Basketball Game

"Eating goldfish is silly," so 10 Lakewood teen-agers inaugurated the annual rites of spring Friday and Saturday by playing basketball for 12 hours. The score was 928-748.

The marathon "overtime" contest was the idea of 16-year-old Wayne Caley, of 5237 Premiere Ave., a Lakewood High School student.

"I heard about some guys in Ohio who set a 10-hour and 10-minute record," young Caley explained, "so I rounded up some guys to top their record."

The Ohio group, fraternity members at Otterbein College in Westerville, set their record a week ago but it stood for only seven days in the face of the determined Lakewood challenge.

The boys taking part were Terry Bushman, 18; Bob Hulka, 16; Jim Branch, 15; Skip Cox, 16; Craig Pinchog, 19; Mike McGriff, 14; David Rolf, 16; Arden Pickler, 16; Gary Kroll, 18, and Caley.

Kroll captained the losing team, Caley the victors.

An 18-year-old Lakewood High graduate, Patty Branch, the only girl at the all-night game, kept score.

She gave high-point honors to Caley, crediting him with 437 points.

The young men, all neighbors on Premiere Avenue, started their record-shattering contest at 7 p.m. Friday in Mayfair Park, on Clark Avenue near South Street. Playing under the lights all night, with only a 15-minute break at 1 a.m., the no-substitution contest broke up at 7 a.m.

"We'll do it again if somebody breaks our record," Caley promised. "After the blisters on my feet heal."

However, in Wheeling, W. Va., ten Wheeling College students also claimed a record Saturday after they played a 12-hour basketball game. The final score was 787-666.

The high-spirited roundballers divided into two teams and played from 12:05 a.m. to 12:05 p.m. Saturday.

U.N.'s Bill Protested by France

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Secretary-General U Thant got a protest from France on Saturday against a report in which he said she was two years behind in her U.N. assessments and so left the implication that she had lost her General Assembly vote.

The protest came as Thant was making last-ditch efforts to break a Soviet-U.S. deadlock over that issue and head off a showdown that could come Tuesday.

The assembly will finish its opening policy debate that day.

The Soviet Union, the Ukraine, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Cuba made similar protests Thursday, two days after Thant put out a list of countries he said "should be considered" to be two years in arrears.

Johnson Doing Fine, Plans to Be Up Soon

If anything had to be done," he declared in a hoarse voice. "I think we'll be all right in a day or two."

Occasionally he leaned over a steaming vaporizer as he talked.

Mrs. Johnson was hospitalized when doctors examined her after she and her daughter Lynda visited the President. Lynda also had a cold but it was more of the sniffle variety.

Lady Bird, however, was urged to rest at the hospital and was placed in a room near the President's on the 17th floor.

White House physician Rear Adm. George G. Burkley told newsmen the President was "greatly improved" and there were no signs of complications. He conceded that Johnson might leave the hospital before the five days doctors prescribed. The physician said he would not object to the earlier departure if conditions warranted.

PRESS Secretary George E. Reedy told reporters besieging the hospital that "there certainly is no cause for alarm." He said precautionary electrocardiograms showed there was no recurrence of the heart attack which felled Johnson in 1955.

Johnson's news conference was proof of this. Had he suffered a heart seizure, newsmen would never have been admitted to his suite.

Doctors said Johnson probably will suffer hoarseness for a week. Reedy reported the chief executive is fully capable of making decisions and would carry on any necessary White House duties from his hospital suite.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's physician said Saturday he had given the chief executive a "good old reliable cough medicine."

Rear Adm. George G. Burkley, the physician, identified it as Brown's Mixture, an old standby in the medicine cabinets of many American homes.

ably will suffer hoarseness for a week. Reedy reported the chief executive is fully capable of making decisions and would carry on any necessary White House duties from his hospital suite.

THE President was asked if he expected to stay the five days that his doctors recommended.

He shook his head vigorously and replied, "I hope not."

Johnson described his illness as similar to what was called croup in his childhood days.

In medical terms, Reedy said, the President was suffering from "non-specific tracheitis." This he defined as "an inflammation of the trachea (or windpipe) which is caused by some type of a germ that has not yet been identified." In addition, there was an irritation of the bronchial tubes.

IN LAY language, Reedy commented: "He's like a man with a very bad cold."

Reedy reported that at one time Johnson's temperature reached a high of 101 degrees but had declined to 99.6 at 10 a.m. EST.

Johnson himself reported that he had gotten no sleep Friday night, either in the White House or in the hospital where he was admitted shortly before 3 a.m. But he said he had napped during the morning.

Dr. W. J. Gould, a New York ear, nose and throat specialist, was rushed here by plane Saturday morning to assist Adm. Burkley.

Johnson was being given antibiotics to suppress what Reedy said was a "miserable cough."

HE SHOWED first symptoms of his illness only two days after his Jan. 20 inauguration in which he engaged in many grueling activities. But Reedy said the doctors did not attribute his affliction to that. They conceded, however, that he had gone through a rather arduous schedule.

"They say when your resistance is down, your weakest spot shows up," the President commented.

Johnson, who sipped tea as he talked to newsmen, pointed out that he had had a long prior history of respiratory illnesses. He noted that before the development of modern antibiotics he had come down with pneumonia six or eight times and during the last 20 years had been troubled by bronchiectasis, another throat and chest ailment.

LADY BIRD Johnson and daughter Lynda arrive at naval hospital to visit President. Both have colds, and First Lady was hospitalized.

LBJ's Doctor Quiet but 'Always There'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man who sent President Johnson to the hospital in the early-morning darkness Saturday is quiet, unobtrusive and "always there."

He is Dr. George Gregory Burkley, 62, a rear admiral who seldom wears his uniform, and personal physician to the President.

Burkley is the graying, sandy-haired man with glasses, always carrying a bag, always near the President — riding in a car near him in motorcades, sitting in a car outside the church where Johnson goes on Sunday, riding in the presidential plane, working in a White House office.

"HE'S always there but stays out of the spotlight," co-workers say.

The doctor sees the President every day, and every week or 10 days gives him some kind of check.

Johnson summoned the physician to his White House bedroom at 1 a.m. EST. It was Burkley who made the diagnosis and recommended the hospital for treatment and complete rest.

Burkley has served three presidents.

During the Eisenhower administration he was commanding officer of the naval dispensary in Washington and was borrowed by the White House for Eisenhower's 1959 tour of the Far East.

On Feb. 1, 1961, after John F. Kennedy became President, Burkley became assistant White House physician. It became known in July 1963 that he had become "physician to the President" — but only through publication of the government organization manual. That was typical of the modesty of the man.

Humphrey Leads St. Paul Festival

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Saturday he was shaken by the news that President Johnson was hospitalized, but he could "smile again" when he learned the illness wasn't serious.

Humphrey flew back home to Minnesota Saturday with his wife, Muriel, to be grand marshal of the St. Paul Winter Carnival parade. He went ahead with the trip only after the President sent word to "tell Hubert to carry on his schedule."

Humphrey told a Winter Carnival luncheon group before the parade "I don't know if you can understand the kind of feeling that goes through your being and soul in a situation like this."

"I will be honest with you," he said. "Early this morning it was very doubtful whether I could make this visit."

"I worked in my office until midnight and got home around 1 a.m.," he said. "I was in bed when the call came (from White House assistants) the the President was hospitalized."

"I SAID nothing to Mrs. Humphrey. I went downstairs and just walked around the house. I went back to the bedroom. My wife was awake. She asked if Winston Churchill had passed away. 'No,' I said, 'The President is sick.'"

"We both went downstairs together and sat and talked until a second call came from the White House. I then realized my fears and apprehensions were unfounded and I can now smile again."

Humphrey said the President had told him through an aide to "carry on and fulfill your duties" and he decided he should go ahead with his trip to the Winter Carnival.

HUMPHREY planned to stay overnight in the Twin Cities and fly on tonight to Tucson, Ariz., for an anti-poverty conference Monday.

"The President wants us to get on with our work," Humphrey said. "I intend to do just that."

He said he had been told the doctors want Johnson to spend about five days in the hospital.

"But knowing the President, they may have a hard time keeping him there," Humphrey said.

Slain Professor's Students Quizzed

BERKELEY (AP) — Officers Friday that Hackett might have been shot by a hitchhiker, who then stole the professor's 1949 yellow convertible and his wallet with about $30 in it.

Two 9mm cartridge cases from a Luger pistol were found beside the body. Hackett had been shot twice through the head.

FINDING of the car about 1 a.m. Saturday "did not lend much weight" to the hitchhiker theory, Contra Costa Sheriff's Sergeant Joseph Walsh said.

The fact that Hackett's convertible was found so close to campus was either a coincidence or else indicated the slayer was connected with the university in some way, investigators commented.

Pilot Error, Bad Weather Cause of 2 State Air Crashes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adverse weather and poor pilot judgment were blamed Saturday by the Civil Aeronautics Board for two California plane crashes last year.

The CAB reported: Near San Clemente, July 9 —A plane that left San Diego shortly after midnight for Fullerton crashed in the mountains 47 miles north of San Diego, killing its pilot, John C. Hokinson, 39, of La Habra, and passengers David W. Smith of La Mirada and Jacqueline Louise McDonald of Norwalk.

The party had been warned that the weather en route to the Los Angeles area was unsuitable for visual flying.

Cause of the accident: Loss of control, resulting from the pilot's poor judgment in starting the flight under the existing weather conditions and the attempt by a pilot not rated to fly by instruments which killed 130 persons has reported that the accident probably was caused by an incorrect setting of the stabilizer. A failure of the electric motor when the pilot tried to correct the setting was an added factor.

The 122 passengers killed on the plane were mostly members of an Atlanta, Ga., cultural group who had been visiting European museums and were starting home.

The Boeing 707 jet failed to take off from Orly Airport outside Paris. Despite efforts by the pilot to check speed, the plane broke up and burned about 500 yards beyond the runway.

IT'S THE CAT'S MEOW TODAY IN THE ARENA

By Eleanor Avery Price
L.P.T. Pet Editor

The Southland's fanciest felines, as well as some from Oregon, Louisiana, Nevada and New Mexico, are in the spotlight today at Long Beach Municipal Auditorium.

The American Cat Fanciers Association-affiliated El Dorado Cat Club's Quadruple Championship two-day all-breed cat show opened Saturday. Traditionally the largest cat show in the nation, the event this year drew 297 entries.

They include long hairs and shorthairs of numerous breeds and such rare cats as the curly coated Rex, long-haired Manx, Havana Browns, Cameo Persians, Russian Blues and Himalayans. Several hundred dollars worth of trophies are at stake.

The cats will be on exhibit today from noon until judging is completed sometime in the evening.

Judges for the all-breed events are Mrs. Evelyn King of Portland, and Mrs. Willa K. Rogers of Oklahoma City. Judges for the long-hair and shorthair specialties are Mrs. Betty Haralampus of Seaside, Ore., and Mrs. J.

GOGEE'N TAMBA of Pitti-pat may be a quadruple champion on the cat-show circuit, but to six-year-old Cindie the rare blue-point Himalayan is just a cuddly, grownup kitten. Dr. Carlson's Family Back From Congo

CHICAGO (AP)—The widow and two children of slain missionary Dr. Paul Carlson came home from The Congo Friday night to a tearful reunion with relatives.

About 100 members of the Christian Reformed Church, the missionary's sponsor, were on hand to greet the Carlsons at O'Hare International Airport.

But as she stepped from the plane, Mrs. Carlson, followed by her children, Wayne, 9, and Lynette, 7, caught sight of her mother, Mrs. Elmer Lindblom of Menominee, Mich., among the well-comers.

Mother and daughter clasped each other tightly and burst into tears, as did many in the welcoming group. It was the first time Mrs. Carlson and her mother had met in two years.

Carlson, former resident of Torrance, Calif., was slain by Congolese rebels Nov. 24.

"We're OK, we're OK. Mom," the 36-year-old widow said as they embraced. "I'm just fine."

Burkley has served three presidents.

During the Eisenhower administration he was commanding officer of the naval dispensary in Washington and was borrowed by the White House for Eisenhower's 1959 tour of the Far East.

On Feb. 1, 1961, after John F. Kennedy became President, Burkley became assistant White House physician. He came known in July 1963 that he had become "physician to the President" — but only through publication of the government organization manual. That was typical of the modesty of the man.

SHAKEN, REASSURED

Humphrey Leads St. Paul Festival

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Saturday he was shaken by the news that President Johnson was hospitalized, but he could "smile again" when he learned the illness wasn't serious.

Humphrey flew back home to Minnesota Saturday with his wife, Muriel, to be grand marshal of the St. Paul Winter Carnival parade. He went ahead with the trip only after the President sent word to "tell Hubert to carry on his schedule."

Humphrey told a Winter Carnival luncheon group before the parade "I don't know if you can understand the kind of feeling that goes through your being and soul in a situation like this."

"I will be honest with you," he said. "Early this morning it was very doubtful whether I could make this visit."

"I worked in my office until midnight and got home around 1 a.m.," he said. "I was in bed when the call came (from White House assistants) the President was hospitalized."

"I SAID nothing to Mrs. Humphrey. I went downstairs and just walked around the house. I went back to the bedroom. My wife was awake. She asked if Winston Churchill had passed away. 'No,' I said. 'The President is sick.'"

"We both went downstairs together and sat and talked until a second call came from the White House. I then realized my fears and apprehensions were unfounded and I can now smile again."

Humphrey said the President had told him through an aide to "carry on and fulfill your duties" and he decided he should go ahead with his trip to the Winter Carnival.

HUMPHREY planned to stay overnight in the Twin Cities and fly on tonight to Tucson, Ariz., for an anti-poverty conference Monday.

"The President wants us to get on with our work," Humphrey said. "I intend to do just that."

He said he had been told the doctors want Johnson to spend about five days in the hospital.

"But knowing the President, they may have a hard time keeping him there," Humphrey said.

BERKELEY (AP) — Officers questioned students and colleagues of slain Prof. David P. Hackett Saturday after the biochemist's car was found in a parking lot two blocks from the building where he had worked.

THE BODY of the 39-year-old professor was found early Friday in a grassy field at Concord, 18 miles east of here and some 12 miles east of Orinda, where Hackett had lived with his wife and four children.

Pilot Error, Bad Weather Cause of 2 State Air Crashes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adverse weather and poor pilot judgment were blamed Saturday by the Civil Aeronautics Board for two California plane crashes last year.

The CAB reported:

The party had been warned that the weather en route to the Los Angeles area was unsuitable for visual flying.

Cause of the accident: Loss of control, resulting from the pilot's poor judgment in starting the flight under the existing weather conditions and the attempt by a pilot not

Dr. Carlson's Family Back From Congo

CHICAGO (AP)—The widow and two children of slain missionary Dr. Paul Carlson came home from The Congo Friday night to a tearful reunion with relatives.

About 100 members of the Christian Reformed Church, the missionary's sponsor, were on hand to greet the Carlsons at O'Hare International Airport.

But as she stepped from the plane, Mrs. Carlson, followed by her children, Wayne, 9, and Lynette, 7, caught sight of her mother, Mrs. Elmer Lindblom of Menominee, Mich., among the well-comers.

Mother and daughter clasped each other tightly and burst into tears, as did many in the welcoming group. It was the first time Mrs. Carlson and her mother had met in two years.

Carlson, former resident of Torrance, Calif., was slain by Congolese rebels Nov. 24.

WORDS, DEEDS THAT WILL NOT DIE

Winston Churchill is already a legend.

Randolph read his father's acceptance speech. Sir Winston said the honor was "without parallel" and he accepted "with deep gratitude and affection."

"It is a remarkable comment on our affairs that the former prime minister of a great sovereign state should thus be received as an honorary citizen of another."

IN HIS speech, Sir Winston recalled his American heritage and said, "In this century of storm and tragedy, I contemplate with his satisfaction the constant factor of the interwoven and upward progress of our peoples."

"Our comradeship and our brotherhood in war were unexampled. We stood together, and because of that fact, the free world now stands."

"Mr. President, your action illuminates the theme of unity of the English-speaking peoples, to which I have devoted a large part of my life."

But in accepting the honor, Churchill let it be known that Britain doesn't take a back seat to the United States or any other country.

"I reject the view that Britain and the Commonwealth should now be relegated to a time and minor role in the world," he said.

"OUR PAST is the key to our future, which I firmly trust and believe will be no less fertile and glorious. Let no man underrate our energies, our potentialities, and our abiding power for good."

Sir Winston and his wife, Clementine — together with millions he fought to liberate in World War II on both sides of the Iron Curtain — watched on television as Kennedy declared him a U. S. citizen.

Communist Hungary and Czechoslovakia joined five West European countries and Britain in picking up the White House ceremony which was transmitted across the Atlantic through space by the S. Relay satellite.

"We were thrilled," said his "Darling, Clementine," who had stood by his side during the years of drought and plenty and when he soared to history's heights.

CHURCHILL then had left for a two-week vacation on the French Riviera, where he broke his left thigh on June 29, 1962.

The then 88-year-old doughty statesman spent 54 days in London's Middlesex Hospital after he was flown back to England from Monaco.

While his leg was knitting, he suffered an attack of plebitis—a blood clot in the leg—and a recurrence of the lung trouble that had plagued him since childhood. Either was enough to kill a man of his age.

Throughout his long hospitalization, there were ominous bulletins that his condition was deteriorating.

But his son, Randolph, on the day the crisis was surmounted told newsmen that he found his father "sitting up in bed, smoking a cigar, sipping a glass of brandy and giggling his toes."

Churchill mystified his doctors with the way he washed down chicken and strawberries with champagne and brandy.

That he survived at all seemed to many a miracle. When he got out of the hospital, the first glimpse of the aging statesman was a shock for the crowd that fanned outside the hospital entrance.

HIS SKIN was pale and drawn. He looked much thinner than before he went to the Riviera in 1962. The wave he gave the crowd was not a vigorous salute but an old man's feeble gesture.

Churchill had not looked like the old warrior for at least a decade.

He celebrated his 88th birthday Nov. 30, 1962, with a 15-pound cake laced with brandy, his favorite drink. The cake was decorated with 106 roses made of red icing. It was a fruit cake which bore three quotations written in blue icing by Sir Winston's own sayings and writings.

"We have now at once to promote the cause of United Europe."

"I am not here to preside over the liquidation of the British empire."

"I am myself an English-speaking union."

ON NOV. 1, before his birthday last year, he made his first public appearance after his 1962 illness when he went to a dinner of "The Other Club" — the society of distinguished drinking and eating friends Churchill co-founded in 1911 as a place to meet outside the "Real Club" — his beloved House of Commons.

On Dec. 6, 1962, he braved a killer smog for a second such distinguished members as the Earl of Sandwich, Viscount Chandos, the Earl of Roseberry and others.

Until his last years he made two favorite "clubs" — the House of Commons and "The Other Club."

He was back in France in April of 1963 for a holiday in the sun.

When he returned to England, his visits to Parliament became less frequent as the last session drew to a close with the general elections of 1964.

CHURCHILL, who always described himself as "a child of Parliament," was persuaded by his family and medical advisers not to stand for reelection in the general election of 1964. He thus left the historic legislature in which he had figured for most of 64 years.

He was the oldest living member in years and in length of service. He was the last survivor of those who sat when Victoria was queen-empress.

Churchill's reason for retiring was his inability to move about as a result of the injury to his leg.

He celebrated his 90th birthday on Nov. 30, 1964, with tens of thousands of messages of good will from people all over the world (with the sour exception of Russia which accused him of starting the cold war). Queen Elizabeth and President Johnson were among the 54 heads of state who paid him tribute.

SIR WINSTON presided at a family dinner at his town house in Hyde Park Gate and tottered to the window to show himself to crowds which packed the narrow streets hour after hour and shouted "Happy Birthday" and sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Sir Winston was described by his physician, Lord Moran, who was among his birthday visitors, as in good health and spirits for his age.

A friend who asked Sir Winston how he felt on reaching 90, reported that the great statesman said: "All I can say for it is that it is a great age."

He found life as an old man boring — especially for one who had always been at the heart of action. He could not hear without a hearing aid or walk without a stick and the help of a nurse. He had more bad days than good ones, though from time to time the old wit would crackle and his opinions on world affairs.

pert but wrong advice. After a few hours after Allied troops had established the first bridgehead. He was given so obscure a job he took to painting to while away the time. He proved competent at painting that one of his pictures was exhibited in later years at the Royal Academy.

He returned to the cabinet in 1917, holding positions in the War Office and then as colonial secretary. He lost his next parliamentary election but returned to the government in 1924 as chancellor of the exchequer in the Stanley Baldwin government.

WHEN GERMANY began rearming he warned repeatedly that the Nazis were preparing for aggression. His warnings were unheeded.

He concentrated his fire on the political meanderings of the Neville Chamberlain government and called for mobilization. Of Munich, he cried: "We have sustained a total and unmitigated defeat."

On Sept. 3, 1939, World War II was declared. Churchill was given his old post at the Admiralty. But Chamberlain could not hold the government together. When he resigned on May 10, 1940, he suggested that the king call on Churchill.

In his first statement to the House of Commons as prime minister on May 13, 1940, Churchill began the series of extraordinary speeches in which he was said to have "mobilized the English language."

"I WOULD SAY to the House," he said, "as I have said to those who have joined this government, I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, sweat and tears."

On June 4, 1940, Churchill reported to Commons on the evacuation of British forces from the European Continent at Dunkirk and the impending fall of France when he declared Britain was ready to fight on "if necessary for years, if necessary alone."

"Even though large tracts of Europe and many old and famous states have fallen or may fall into the grip of the Gestapo and all the odious apparatus of Nazi rule, we shall not flag nor fail."

"We shall go on to the end. We shall fight in France; we shall fight on the seas and oceans; we shall fight with growing confidence and growing strength in the air. We shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills, we shall never surrender and even if, which I do not for a moment believe, this island or a large part of it were subjugated or starving, then our Empire beyond the seas, armed and guarded by the British Fleet, would carry on the struggle until in God's good time the new world, with all its power and might, steps forth to the rescue and liberation of the old."

AFTER THE WAR, the Dean of Canterbury, who sat beside Churchill while the speech was being recorded, said Churchill put his hand to the microphone and said in a smiling aside:

"And we shall hit them over the heads with beer bottles, which is all we really have got."

After the collapse of France, Churchill expected an immediate attempt to invade Britain and mobilized the famed "Home Guard."

Throughout the "blitz," Churchill was a familiar figure wherever bombs had fallen. To keep off the dirt, plaster and dust he wore his "siren suit," actually a pair of coveralls. The blitz was hard, but the RAF eventually blasted the Luftwaffe from the skies, prompting Churchill's immortal tribute to the brave British fliers: "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

HIS SUPREME accomplishment was to have the Royal Navy ready to fight the day World War I was declared. On Aug. 2, 1914, without the authority of the cabinet, he jeopardized his whole political future by ordering complete mobilization. Forty-eight hours later war began.

In 1915 came the disastrous Gallipoli campaign for which Churchill was blamed. Many years later a report was to clear him, backing his contention he had taken ex-

1954 gravely taxed his strength, and in April of 1955 he bowed out and handed the government to Sir Anthony Eden.

But the old fighter bounced back in time to celebrate his 85th birthday with a four-tiered cake baked from ingredients gathered from all parts of the world and to nibble at an 86th birthday cake soaked in brandy. His 86th year was marked by passably good health. Until mid-November, 1960, when he slipped on a scatter rug in his London home, fell, and broke a small bone in his back. The accident kept him bedded into his 87th year but he took it only as a temporary slowing down.

Through the waning years he kept up his travels, but limited them, as age demands, to journeys to France and to the Riviera, and to yachting trips with his old and good friend Aristotle Onassis.

It was on the Riviera, at Monte Carlo, that he fell while getting out of bed on June 29, 1962, and broke his left thigh bone. An Air Force plane rushed him back to London the next day, still flashing his famous sign, he underwent surgery to repair the damage.

His return on a stretcher that time was in contrast to another arrival in London from a Riviera holiday in recent years. At that time, puffing jauntily on a Churchillian cigar, Sir Winston ignored the "no smoking" signs at the airport. Whipping the cigar from his bulldog jaw, he reminded her and the nation that he had served her father, strip. Someone stamped out the burning butt, and an airport official remarked: "Sir Winston has a habit of doing this and, well, uh—we simply don't feel we should say anything to him about it. After advancing old age. But two all, he is Sir Winston Churchill—strokes suffered in 1953 and ill."

fall of European civilization was this was and what they it was a low, dishonest, shameful era.

AND THEN Hitler's new barbarism exploded into total war.

Churchill became prime minister of a nation defeated in every respect save one—the will to live. The British were outnumbered and outgunned. Badly trained pilots went aloft in poor planes to try to hold back the blitz. A British army was bottled up at Dunkirk. Invasion seemed likely.

But through it all, Churchill spoke calmly, wisely, poetically, urging fortitude, "blood, sweat, toil and tears." Britain bled. And he lived faithfully with a taste for the best food, and very much in love with his wife.

He was, above all, a gentleman. As such, in war and peace, he did all he could to make the world unsafe for a blackguards.

would command the rapt attention of his friends.

HE SPENT his time reading or chatting with friends who paid him calls in a steady stream to lighten the tedium of the days.

A man who had occasion to visit him at this time said:

"I am sure this is not the way Sir Winston hoped it would end. He would much rather have gone out with the trumpets blaring."

By any measure, Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill was a force in the world through some of the most magnificent, most trying and most challenging decades man has ever known.

As the wartime leader of an embattled Britain he won an imperishable place for himself in the annals of history—the man who offered his fellow countrymen only blood, toil, sweat and tears and who guided them to ultimate victory.

As a statesman, he failed in his greatest ambition—to end the cold war which followed World War II and to bring about a lasting peace between communism and the free West.

BUT HIS breadth of vision, his towering, though often erratic genius and his unswerving pursuit of close

grew from his statesmanship, he was also one of the masters of the English language.

Many of his words have become part of its permanent heritage — "Iron Curtain," "This was their finest hour" and "Never was so much owed by so many to so few."

HE WROTE more than a score of books, including his six-volume "History of World War II" and his four-volume "History of the English Speaking People."

Churchill's first press notice was in the birth section of the Times, Dec. 3, 1874.

"On the 30th of Nov., at Blenheim Palace, the Lady Randolph Churchill, prematurely, of a son." He was named Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill.

His father, a member of Parliament, was a dashing young member of the nobility. His mother, an heiress from New York, was pretty and gracious. It has been said she was a bit too successful in society to be a good mother. Churchill was to write in later years that his childhood was "the only barren and unhappy period of my life."

A SERIES of childhood illnesses and injuries, including a brutal thrashing by a schoolmaster, left him with a weak chest. At 13, he was to be sent to Harrow-on-the-Hill, not the traditional family school, Eton, in its deep meadows.

He was not a particularly good student. His father gave him the idea of a lawyer in his family, instead suggesting of the world knew him almost without exception as an all-around, most legendary figure.

He twice failed his entrance examinations for Sandhurst and barely made it the third time.

Churchill was unable to join the military staff in time for a punitive expedition in South Africa, so he went as correspondent for two newspapers and wrote his first book, "The Malakand Field Force," about the foray.

As a correspondent in the Sudan campaign of 1898 he participated in the last classic cavalry charge in British military history when 400 men of the 21st Lancers rushed the Sudanese positions at Omdurman and were almost cut to pieces in a Dervish ambush.

WHEN THE BOER War broke out in 1899 the Morning Post assigned him to head its staff of correspondents.

He was touring the front in an armored train when it was derailed by Boers, and Churchill was among those taken prisoner. He made a spectacular escape and hid in an unused mine for several days while the Boers searched frantically and offered a reward.

The escapade and accounts of his adventures made him a hero back in England. He hurried home and parlayed the press dispatches into a House of Commons seat.

In March of 1904 he broke with the Conservative Party and crossed the floor to the Liberals. It was not his first change of party before he settled permanently with the Conservatives. His critics charged he always changed to the "winning side." He retorted, "To improve is to change. To be perfect is to have changed often."

IN 1908 HE married the beautiful Clementine Hozier, daughter of Col. Sir E. M. Hozier and Lady Blanche Ogilvy, daughter of the Seventh Earl of Airlie. "I married and lived happily ever after," he once wrote.

They had three daughters — Diana, who married a rising Conservative politician, Duncan Sandys; Sarah, an actress, and Mary, who married Capt. Christopher Soames. His only son, Randolph, served in the Army in World War II, sat for a time in Parliament and then became a journalist and lecturer.

Churchill became president of the Board of Trade in 1908. In 1910 he was moved to the Home Office.

In 1911, Churchill was moved up to First Lord of the Admiralty. Although he became known as "the best-hated member of the cabinet" through his aggressiveness, his achievements at the Admiralty were remarkable.

HIS SUPREME accomplishment was to have the Royal Navy ready to fight the day World War I was declared. On Aug. 2, 1914, without the authority of the cabinet, he jeopardized his whole political future by ordering complete mobilization. Forty-eight hours later war began.

In 1915 came the disastrous Gallipoli campaign for which Churchill was blamed. Many years later a report was to clear him, backing his contention he had taken expert but wrong advice. After the disaster, however, he was given so obscure a job he took to painting to while away the time. He proved so competent at painting that one of his pictures was exhibited in later years at the Royal Academy.

He returned to the cabinet in 1917, holding positions in the War Office and then as colonial secretary. He lost his next parliamentary election but returned to the government in 1924 as chancellor of the exchequer in the Stanley Baldwin government.

WHEN GERMANY began rearming he warned repeatedly that the Nazis were preparing for aggression. His warnings were unheeded.

He concentrated his fire on the political meanderings of the Neville Chamberlain government and called for mobilization. Of Munich, he cried: "We have sustained a total and unmitigated defeat."

On Sept. 3, 1939, World War II was declared. Churchill was given his old post at the Admiralty. But Chamberlain could not hold the government together. When he resigned on May 10, 1940, he suggested that the king call on Churchill.

In his first statement to the House of Commons as prime minister on May 13, 1940, Churchill began the series of extraordinary speeches in which he was said to have "mobilized the English language."

"I WOULD SAY to the House," he said, "as I have said to those who have joined this government, I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, sweat and tears."

On June 4, 1940, Churchill reported to Commons on the evacuation of British forces from the European Continent at Dunkirk and the impending fall of France when he declared Britain was ready to fight on "if necessary for years, if necessary alone."

"Even though large tracts of Europe and many old and famous states have fallen or may fall into the grip of the Gestapo and all the odious apparatus of Nazi rule, we shall not flag nor fail."

"We shall go on to the end. We shall fight in France; we shall fight on the seas and oceans; we shall fight with growing confidence and growing strength in the air. We shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills, we shall never surrender and even if, which I do not for a moment believe, this island or a large part of it were subjugated or starving, then our Empire beyond the seas, armed and guarded by the British Fleet, would carry on the struggle until in God's good time the new world, with all its power and might, steps forth to the rescue and liberation of the old."

AFTER THE WAR, the Dean of Canterbury, who sat beside Churchill while the speech was being recorded, said Churchill put his hand to the microphone and said in a smiling aside:

"And we shall hit them over the heads with beer bottles, which is all we really have got."

After the collapse of France, Churchill expected an immediate attempt to invade Britain and mobilized the famed "Home Guard."

Throughout the "blitz," Churchill was a familiar figure wherever bombs had fallen. To keep off the dirt, plaster and dust he wore his "siren suit," actually a pair of coveralls. The blitz was hard, but the RAF eventually blasted the Luftwaffe from the skies, prompting Churchill's immortal tribute to the brave British fliers: "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

IN AUGUST of 1941, Churchill held his first wartime rendezvous with President Roosevelt aboard HMS Prince of Wales and the U.S. cruiser Augusta.

In all, Churchill met Roosevelt on eight occasions during the war. He met Stalin three times, De Gaulle five and Chiang Kai-shek once.

To Roosevelt, Churchill was known by the code name "Former Naval Person." He called the president "Frank."

Americans were beginning to understand what kind of a blackguards, 1954 gravely taxed his strength, and in April of 1955 he bowed out and handed the government to Sir Anthony Eden.

But the old fighter bounced back in time to celebrate his 85th birthday with a four-tiered cake baked from ingredients gathered from all parts of the world and to nibble at an 86th birthday cake soaked in brandy. His 86th year was marked by passably good health until mid-November, 1960, when he slipped on a scatter rug in his London home, fell, and broke a small bone in his back. The accident kept him bedded into his 87th year but he took it only as a temporary slowing down.

Through the waning years he kept up his travels, but limited them, as age demands, to journeys to France and to the Riviera, and to yachting trips with his old and good friend Aristotile Onassis.

It was on the Riviera, at Monte Carlo, that he fell while getting out of bed on June 29, 1962, and broke his left thigh bone. An Air Force plane rushed him back to London the next day, and, still flashing his famous "V" sign, he underwent surgery to repair the damage.

His return on a stretcher that time was in contrast to another arrival in London from a Riviera holiday in recent years. At that time, puffing jauntily on a Churchillian cigar, Sir Winston ignored the "no smoking" signs at the airport. Whipping the cigar from his bulldog jaw, he flicked it into the landing strip. Someone stamped out the burning butt, and an airport official remarked: "Sir Winston has a habit of doing this and, well, uh—we simply all, he is Sir Winston Churchill."

CHURCHILL hung onto the reins of government despite, advancing old age. But two strokes suffered in 1953 and

THIS ONE man may have changed all history for the minister of a nation defeated better. Think what might in every respect save one have happened had a coward the will to live. The British or incompetent been prime minister in those days after Dunkirk.

Churchill's long life shows the variety and glory that can be achieved by one man. He was soldier, journalist, a leader in World War I, author, artist, historian, even bricklayer. He was an epicurean, the best liquor, the best tobacco. And he lived faithfully with a taste for the best food, and very much in love with his wife.

He was, above all, a gentleman. As such, in war and peace, he did all he could to make the world unsafe for blackguards.

"FOR GOD, QUEEN, AND COUNTRY"

Churchill was honored shortly before his retirement as prime minister in April, 1955, by a gala dinner hosted by Queen Elizabeth II. Here, wearing Order of the Garter, he holds the car door for the young Queen of England.

CHURCHILL

Sir Winston Churchill's lifetime spanned some of the most dramatic and vital periods in the history of the world.

He grew up in a world of war and oft-times terror, survived two of the bloodiest conflicts in the era of man.

Churchill was a man of many facets... a soldier, a lawmaker, a diplomat, but foremost a leader of men.

He was a man of many moods, jocular conviviality to stony determination.

Most of all—he was "Winnie."

These pictures reflect many of the ways we remember Sir Winston best.

dawn washing down their sidewalks. Now they don't seem to care anymore. There are more weeds than flowers; more trash than grass."

A LADY who moved here from Laguna recently rented one of the expensive high-rise apartments on the beach so she could have a beautiful view of the city.

"Two months later," she reports, "a huge billboard was hoisted on top of the building next door and there went the view."

The complaints have been from all areas of the city and from all walks of life.

Some fret about deterioration of the downtown area; others hit the unsightly approaches to the city and the lack of visionary planning.

BUT THE greatest number come from citizens angry at conditions in their own neighborhoods... rubbish in alleys and streets, junk-ridden vacant lots, rundown buildings, overflowing trash cans, litter and dirt.

And that, Mr. and Mrs. Long Beach, hits home.

It also hits where it hurts: the pocketbook.

Conditions such as these affect your property values, your tax dollar, your mental and psychological attitudes—even your performance on the job.

"Litter is lethal," says Allen H. Seed, executive vice president of Keep America Beautiful. "It blights and corrodes. It lowers land values, drives away tourists and shoppers, discourages new industries."

AND IT costs a ton of money. Litter cleanup, he reports, costs U.S. taxpayers $500 million a year.

It costs Long Beach residents a pretty penny, too, reports Worth Johnson, superintendent of the city's refuse division.

"City housecleaning is a gargantuan task," he said. "With a crew of 223 men and a fleet of 19 garbage trucks, 72 rubbish trucks, 15 motor sweepers and eight hand sweepers, we cover 758 miles of paved streets and 127 miles of paved alleys within the city's area (14 square miles)."

Also on the cleanup schedule, of course, are entrances to the city, park areas and the beach.

"WE HARVEST a huge crop of litter every day from the beach," he said. "When the beach is crowded with tens of thousands of people, you can't see the litter. When they leave, you can't see the beach for the litter."

The litter problem in Long Beach is a prime objective of the Civic Beautification Committee of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, which has named this the "Year of Beauty."

Says Mrs. George P. Taubman, chairman: "This is a project that needs public action. Not only is a clean city important to our aesthetic environment, it's good business."

And city hall is attacking the problem with an educational program. Jack O'Neil, assistant city manager, reports that during the coming month folders will be enclosed with all trash-bill mailings stating requirements for trash receptacles and garbage cans.

HE EMPHASIZED that trash areas should be kept orderly and should not pose a fire hazard or be in a condition to depreciate the value of adjacent properties.

'Pressure' Urged by Speaker Here

The 29-year-old director of the Mississippi Freedom Project Saturday called for pressure on California congressmen "so they will be firm in voting to unseat the Mississippi members of the House of Representatives."

Robert Parris Moses, who holds a master's degree from Harvard University and who later taught at New York's Horace Mann School, declared here that the five Mississippi congressmen should be unseated because they won office without benefit of free elections.

Moses said the House is conducting an investigation and the question of the Mississippi representation will come to the floor in June.

"PRESIDENT Johnson," he said "is for the Great Society. But, is he also for free elections in Mississippi? It is possible to oust them (the five representatives) if congressmen don't have to fight presidential pressure."

In an interview before a speech in First Congregational Church, Moses blasted the 18 Mississippians indicted for the murder of three civil rights workers as "moral idiots." Approximately 1,000 persons heard his speech here.

However, he predicted they would not be convicted. Moses said the 18 will appear before Federal District Judge Harold Cox, "Judge Cox," Moses charged, "was Kennedy's first appointment, in deference to a Mississippi senator, and he has been overruled in 89 of his 90 civil rights decisions."

Moses took issue with a national magazine which recently characterized Ku Klux Klan members as "outcasts of society." Such a declaration, he said, "lets them off the hook for being socially responsible for their actions," he said. It also lets the rest of society off the hook, allowing it merely to of weeds and rubbish, they can become neighborhood gardens," the civic beautification chairman said.

It's the year to join the fight, to learn to see again, to turn the tide of apathy and ugliness that infect much of the city's business and residential areas.

It can be accomplished ONLY with unified citizen action!

Mahalia Jackson Rests in Hospital

CHICAGO (UPI) — A hospital spokesman said Saturday that gospel singer Mahalia Jackson, 53, will be hospitalized for an indefinite period of rest because of an "acute lower back strain." Moses' talk was made on behalf of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee. Also appearing at the church was Pernel Roberts, a star of the "Bonanza" television series, and a singing group called "The Women-folk."

ACCORDING to a SNCC spokesman, Moses has been arrested, beaten and shot at since he went to Mississippi in 1961 to launch a pilot voter-registration project in McComb. He characterized Moses as "a marked man."

He said Moses' appearances in California are to raise funds for SNCC's badly depleted treasury. The organization drive through the entire South next summer.

Volunteer Drivers for Blind Sought

Persons who would like to help the blind to "see" can do so by volunteering to be drivers for the Braille Institute of America.

Blind adults from Long Beach, Bellflower, North Hollywood, San Fernando, Palmdale and Sunland are in need of transportation.

"We especially need drivers for our Boy Scouts," Mrs. Kitty Morris, director of volunteer services, said Saturday.

Braille Scout Troop 82 meets every Monday at 7 p.m. at the institute. There are requests for rides from blind youngsters living in Compton.

"We also need Eagle Scouts to help blind boys who are Tuesday, was described in working condition. The spokesman said her ailment is unrelated to a heart condition which recently hospitalized Morris at the institute, 741 the singer.

ORGANIZES STRIKERS

Militant Red Upsets Car-Wash Industry

By CHARLES SUTTON
L.P.T. Staff Writer

A young, self-proclaimed Marxist, thumbing his nose at American labor unions and bosses alike, has triggered a strike at seven local car washes that threatens to engulf Southern California's vast and thriving car-wash industry.

The strike, now entering its second week, already has shaken the industry to its foundations.

It is being led by a boyish-looking, serious-minded 23-year-old named Mike Laski, a native of Brooklyn and a product of Southern California.

The former UCLA student, who invokes the names of Marx and Lenin in an unending litany that amuses some and infuriates others, is leading a ragtag army of car washers on a crusade that, by any historical reckoning, properly belongs to the fervid, strife-torn 30s, rather than the sophisticated 60s.

Wage 'Miserly,' He Says

His Auto Maintenance Workers' Union, now two months old and composed mostly of poor Negroes, is striking for higher wages and the right to represent the hundreds of car washers who put a gleam on thousands of Southern Californians' cars every day.

Laski said from the picket line in front of the Rosecrans Car Wash at 2420 W. Rosecrans Blvd., Gardena, that the employees make an average of $1.15 an hour—a "miserly" wage by American standards. (The operators say it's actually $1.25.)

What's more, charged Laski, many work 6 to 7 days a week, and almost invariably without a lunch hour on busy weekends.

From Laski's ideological perspective, then, the whole situation spells "capitalist exploitation" and must stop. The men must be paid "a decent wage," he declared, though he declined to say what that is.

In the context of organized labor's current aims — the guaranteed annual wage, hospital benefits, pensions, job security and the like — the fledgling AMWU's goals appear almost crude in comparison, and its brash young organizer seems a misplaced relic of history.

An Era Resurrected

Openly embracing a Communist philosophy that went the way of the antihumanism and the Model T, Laski has resurrected an era that most American Communists would as soon forget.

It was a day when they sang Freiheit and Joe Hill, and when they didn't mind waving the red flag or proclaiming the promise of a workers' America.

Today it's a fading memory for most — and an embarrassment to many who were then in the party or close to it.

But Laski is too young to have known the 30s. And where the early Reds had emerging Communist Russia to point to and admire, young Laski has the Chinese colossus and Mao Tse-tung.

Had he been born 35 years earlier, he would have had ample company. Today, however, he stands virtually alone, though he is by no means a solitary revolutionary.

His most immediate ally is a pleasant, dedicated young woman named Eva Rodriguez, who was born and raised in an East Side section of New York known as Little Korea because of its almost constant street fighting.

Linked to 2 Groups

Between the two of them, apparently, they give the AMWU its tone and shape. They also provide the union with its link to two organizations of a definite ideological coloration: the Workers Organizing Committee, a labor federation of sorts, or the beginning of one; and the Provisional Organizing Committee to Reconstitute the Marxist-Leninist Communist Party in the United States, known to its members simply as POC.

POC, composed of a small group of ex-Communist Party members who were expelled from the party after Khrushchev's famous denunciation of Stalin in 1956, might truly be called a Stalinist party. Its communism is a tough, unbending, no-holds-barred philosophy.

"Our goal," frankly declared Laski, "is to establish a Soviet or workers' America."

The young ideologue foresees a violent revolution in America. It's not that he relishes violence, he explained, it's just that the "ruling class" seldom if ever gives up power when its time is up. "It will take a concerted effort of the masses and a reconstituted Communist Party to effect the revolution," he added.

Splits Sharply

Where the POC splits sharply with most of the world Communist camp is on the issues of nuclear war and coexistence. It contemptuously rejects Russia's fears of mutual incineration.

"We agree with Mao," declared Miss Rodriguez, that "power does not lie in powerful weapons. Weapons do not create history, masses of people do."

To the POC, the Communist Party of Gus Hall and the late Elizabeth Gurley Flynn has long since sold out to the capitalists, says Laski.

If Laski lards his talk with musty terms like imperialism, Soviets and masses, his approach to the workers is deliberately simple.

"We shall stand and the bosses will fall. We are strong and the bosses are weak," he proclaimed in a recent strike bulletin.

One of Laski's first pronouncements to those rallying to his flag is that he is a Communist, and that the charge will be thrown at him—and the union—with all the force and contempt his enemies can muster.

Fear, Violence, Hope

To Laski's gratification, the bulk of the men have ignored the accusation.

As one of them explained, "We're not Communists. But the Communists were the only ones who came along to help us. You see what I mean?"

Now in its ninth day, the strike against the car washes has been a turbulent mixture of fear, violence, hope and, above all, a gritty determination on each side to subdue the other.

To the workers, it's a struggle for a living wage. To the operators, it's a life and death contest against the evil forces of communism.

"Look," declared Bob Burglin, head of the Car Wash Association, "this may sound corny, but I love my country. And I hate anything that has to do with communism. When a man comes out and says he's a Communist and he's going to do away with bosses, this is contrary to everything we believe in this country. We can't let it happen."

Business Plummets

Though all of the struck car washes are still operating, having hired new men, their businesses have been hit hard in some cases.

Volume at the Rosecrans wash, the hardest hit of all, has dropped 60%, perhaps more.

"What we need most now is public support," declared Robert Schwartz, co-owner of the wash.

"Without the public's business," he said, "we're lost. Please tell them to support us."

Even as he spoke, Laski's men were distributing leaflets announcing a fund-raising dance. "We need money badly," the organizer said. "We must build our strike fund."

For the time being, pickets are concentrating on the Blauson Car Wash in Los Angeles. A-1 wash in Norwalk, Kwik in Downey, Welsh in South Gate and Imperial and Lennox washes in Inglewood, in addition to the Rosecrans wash in Gardena. The operators agree, however, the dispute could spread.

Death Takes Portraitist B. C. Moore

AMONG several famous persons he painted was Dwight Whitney Morrow, former United States Senator and ambassador to Mexico.

With his wife, Doris, who survives him, Moore owned the Hang Ten Swimming Suit Factory, a worldwide distributor of swimwear.

Moore studied under the famed portrait artist John Singer Sargent, and once won the Tiffany Foundation Award. He studied at the National Academy of Art in New York.

Hard of Hearing?

It is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss. So many have told us we have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else. Many who have tried this new and proven method are overjoyed. Just like magic in certain cases, they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the very first treatment.

The treatment is simple and painless, and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition, a special treatment is given. If the loss is due to catarrh a different treatment is given. If you have a hearing loss no matter how slight or how bad, it may be helped. Why not find out?

The total charge is $3.00 for the first treatment and the examination. And if you see no improvement from the first treatment, you are under no obligation to return. Assure your appointment by calling 591-1365, 2067 Atlantic Ave., L. B. Dr. H. L. Hutchings, D.C., director.

Urge Dumke Be Ousted

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Leaders of the Association of California State College Professors called Saturday night for the replacement of State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke.

The association's executive committee charged Dumke, among other things, had mismanaged financial affairs and had leveled what they believed was unwarranted public criticism at the faculty and the faculty organization.

Executive Secretary Ross Y. Koen said the group was prodded into calling for his ouster last week when Dumke recommended and the state college trustees approved a move to cut the pay of professors and associate professors by 1.8% from Feb. 1 to June 31.

Curator Bernard Fagg said 191 items of a total collection of more than 1,000 have been stolen from a display case point with a diving capsule and drawers. ## Hard of Hearing?

It is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss. So many have told us, we have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else. Many who have tried this new and proven method are overjoyed. Just like magic in certain cases, they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the very first treatment.

The treatment is simple and painless, and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition, a special treatment is given. If the loss is due to catarrh a different treatment is given. If you have a hearing loss no matter how slight or how bad, it may be helped. Why not find out?

The total charge is $2.00 for the first treatment and the examination. And if you see no improvement from the first treatment, you are under no obligation to return. Assure your appointment by calling: 591-3905, 2907 Atlantic Ave., L. B. Dr. H. L. Hutchings, D.C., director.

Urge Dumke Be Ousted

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Leaders of the Association of California State College Professors called Saturday night for the replacement of State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke.

The association's executive committee charged Dumke, among other things, had mismanaged financial affairs and had leveled what they believed was unwarranted public criticism at the faculty and the faculty organization.

Executive Secretary Ross Y. Koen said the group was prodded into calling for his ouster last week when Dumke recommended and the state college trustees approved a move to cut the pay of professors and associate professors by 1.3% from Feb. 1 to June 31.

200-Year-Old Church Destroyed by Fire

said the proprietor of a nearby market.

clumps of trees that make windbreaks for citrus groves.

In these pathetic campsites the migrant and his family live out of his car or in cardboard shacks. He is for the most part, hiding, because occasionally the sheriff raids the campsites, burns down the shanty and routs the migrant and his family.

The Independent, Press-Telegram, guided into these desert jungles over a circuitous route known only to the fruit-tramp escort, met the migrant worker. He is:

Prune picker Albert Thomas, 53, who expertly rolls a "makings" cigarette between his thumb and index finger as he chats with earthy philosophy about his way of life.

"I made $1,000 last year, but I ain't startin' off so well this year. You gotta work like hell to make anything in carrots. I put in a 10-hour day and topped everybody in the field with $3.50."

Tony Roski, 53, who began following the harvest "because of divorce and disgust," discusses carrots. "Carrots are a tough way to make a living. You make just enough for a pound of bacon and a loaf of bread. But it is winter work and the only nice thing I found in India is the sunshine."

Roski said he tried to stay in a labor camp operated by some farmers, but the food (which cost him $2.50 a day) was "downright sorry. They fed us beans and tire patches (tortillas)."

In "the hole," a section of the camp surrounded by sand dunes on three sides, three families have just arrived and pitched tents.

While bouncing his young daughter on his knee, Jim Phillips, 37, the father of four children, talks about his last job, two weeks' work in the citrus groves in Ventura.

"The rancher seemed bent on running us off. He wasn't treating us right. He forced me to leave, I think, because he wants the bracero back. The foreman called me white trash and kept yelling 'why don't you quit?' One day I had about all I could take, so I quit."

PHILLIPS is an experienced farm laborer and has worked most of his adult life picking fruit in Washington, Oregon and California. "I've made as high as $35 a day in apples and you can't do that unless you are fast."

Pitching his tent alongside Phillips is full-blooded Cherokee Indian Bill Fivecoats, 35, the father of three small children. He had been working on the same ranch in Ventura with Phillips.

"The foreman yakked at me all day. He said I was too slow, and when I complained he had assigned me a poor picking area, he told me I could quit. I had to pick five trees to get one box of lemons. The rancher was paying 18 cents a box. I picked nine boxes in eight hours. How do you feed a family, pay rent and utilities on that kind of money?"

gasket, so Ray Loomis, 37, a man who "ain't done nothing but farm work, I reckon," had torn into the engine to get the car running again. His wife, Eva, 48, ill from the flu sat in the front seat of the automobile and complained of a splitting headache.

"I've been here for three months," Loomis says, "living out of my car and working in the fields alongside my wife. I haven't made enough money to buy enough gas to move on. About $3 is my best and Eve can't hardly pick enough for $2.50 a day."

Adm. Irvine in Command of 46-Ship Battle Flotilla

By BUCK LANIER

The Navy's largest flotilla, Pacific Cruiser-Destroyer 3, changed commands Saturday in a rich pageant at Long Beach Naval Station.

As a somber fog rolled across the cruiser USS Topeka Rear Adm. Donald G. Irvine unfurled his flag to take over the 46-ship flotilla from Rear Adm. William H. Groverman.

This is Adm. Irvine's third assignment in Long Beach. He commanded the oiler Passumpsit and the cruiser Bremerton in 1955 and 1959. He just concluded an assignment in Washington as assistant chief of naval personnel for education and training.

ADM. Groverman has led the flotilla for the past 22 months. In his outgoing remarks to the 500 personnel and guests on the Topeka's fantail he said:

"I am privileged to report as outgoing chairman of the board to you—stockholders in the defense of the Free World—that the flotilla has played an integral part in keeping threats to the Far East minimized. The importance of this investment grows daily and we have the capabilities to keep things in order."

(In the flotilla are six missile ships plus 25 others with nuclear retaliatory force.)

"Our work, with the cooperation of all segments of Long Beach, has helped us to be 'damn good' and I know that under Adm. Irvine it will continue to be so."

GROVERMAN pointed out that Adm. Irvine was a "key man" in eliminating the German U-boat menace in World War II and was credited with sinking 10,000 tons of Japanese shipping as commander of the submarine Piranha. The careers of these flag officers, while markedly different, depict two of the forerunners of the modern Navy. While Adm. Groverman has spent most of his career with destroyers, Adm. Irvine's background is keyed to the submarine's silent service.

Groverman reports in so Washington to the chief of naval operations as director, Anti-Submarine Warfare Division.

Big Carrier America Put in Commission

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—The Black aircraft carrier America, second largest warship in the world, was placed in commission Saturday, adding a formidable link in the nation's first line of defense.

More than 6,000 guests assembled with the ship's officers and men on the hangar deck of the 77,000-ton, 1,047-foot-long flat-top, heard Secretary of State Dean Rusk acclaim the vessel as "a unique instrument of the American commitment both to peace and to freedom."

Rusk told the ship's 2,800

Flu Fells Thousands in Russ City

MOSCOW (AP)—Leningrad, the Soviet Union's second-largest city, has been struck by a virulent flu epidemic, according to reliable reports reaching here Saturday.

The sources said the epidemic has felled several thousand persons a day for the past week. Up to a third of the city's working force was reported sick.

Schools were closed in mid-week and all unessential travel to or from the city has been discouraged.

The sources said medical authorities had not determined whether the virus is of the Asian variety.

Medical specialists here last autumn predicted especially severe flu outbreaks in the Soviet Union this winter. Flu epidemics here usually run in cycles of from three to four years.

The epidemic had not been reported in the Soviet press.

hook of his 1950 Dodge sedan parked in the desert sand at the campsite. "I've been in the onions and the carrots for six weeks now and my biggest day was $4.50 for 11 hours work. Hard work. I'm fast, but the carrots are slow. I'm polishing this car because it is the only thing I own in this world."

His frail wife, Teresa, 44, stood silently at his side. She had been at his side in the fields, too.

MONROE PEELER, 46, proudly shows his living quarters in the rear of his panel truck and chuckles about "the sorry conditions of looking after another man's farm."

"A man just as well be on the moon trying to make a living as to follow this farm work. I got hurt falling off a rickety ladder picking fruit and now I can't climb, so I got to do this stoop labor. I've been working eight days in the carrots and I made $14.55. Not for long, though. I got emphysema and death is just a gasp away."

CROUCHING around an open fire to cut the desert chill, Henry Pennington, 50, his wife, Daisy, 43, and their three children were recovering from the flu. Pennington, who described himself as a spent most of his career with fruit tramps as if he were destroyers, Adm. Irvine's background is keyed to the submarine's silent service.

Groverman reports in so Washington to the chief of naval operations as director, Anti-Submarine Warfare Division.

The Penningtons both work in the fields, sacking carrots, and say they average $7 a day between them.

IN THE CARROT fields, lined up to be paid for his day's work, George Smith, 43, speaks of his plight. "I've been here six weeks and I can't average more than $2.50 a day in carrots. There are six of us living in a one-room shack that's costing $15 a week, plus gas and lights. If we weren't all eating off the same table we couldn't make it."

Abe Jenkins, 54, spat chewing tobacco out the corner of his mouth and wiped the surplus off his chin. He said the city's working force was dwindling.

"I can't find no place I can afford to live so I just sleep in the bushes with one eye open for the sheriff."

With a flare of humor, he made remarks:

"I don't think I've been unemployed just out of work. I move on when the harvest is over and look for a new one. I can't draw no rocking chair (unemployment compensation) money so I got to keep up with the harvest."

As Jenkins was telling his story, a field boss dressed in order The Independent, Press-

Telegram reporting team off his property. He threatened to have the newsmen arrested if they refused to leave. The team stayed.

JOHN WADDELL, 40, and his wife, Pat, 39, walked arm in arm across the furrows of freshly dug carrots. The couple have two children, a boy, 10 and a girl, 8. They had just finished working 10 hours sacking carrots.

As a team, they had the record that day—74 sacks. Their combined net income was $10.36. If the farmer had paid Mrs. Waddell according to what the state law demands, a $1-an-hour minimum, she would have made $10 alone.

WHILE THESE workers sacked carrots many of their children, old enough for school, played alongside the roadway leading to the farm fields.

"How they gonna put them in school?" questions Ralph Goforth, 55, as he rubs his calloused hands. "The school asks them where they live and when they say they are sleeping in cars, the school says they got to have a house before they go to school."

Back in the jungle, Charles Hisle, a 35-year-old ex-Marine, has arrived at sun-down with his family, a wife, and four small children. He has come to India from El Centro where he quit his job of pulling onions, which paid him 10 cents for 12 dozen.

HE CUDDLES his three-month-old son, Charles Wesley, sick and ill-clothed. His changing moods are revealed in the light of the bonfire he has built to keep his family warm. One moment he is serious and in the next, his witty Arkansas humor—a poetic language in itself—comes through.

"I heard the damned depression was over with, but you shore can't prove it by me. Last year I must have made at least $1,200 here and yonder, but I ruind five cars doing it. I owe $45 on this one to a feller down in Ontario," he said pointing to a battered two-door sedan loaded with all his earthly possessions.

HIS WIFE, Ruby, 23, and three other children, Betty Jane, 4, Irene, 3 and Ann 2, warmed themselves by the fire Ruby, never smiling scolds Irene who keeps loo-ing her things—the only pair of "shoes" she has.

"All I know about them berries is that I got ran off jobs every time they showed up. Those Mexicans may be a poor, but I'm a sight poorer. You believe me? I'm a fast picker and I'll stand up to any three of them Mexicans if the government needs a test."

HISLE SAID he objected to being called lazy. "I ain't lazy or I'd go somewhere and wash dishes until I had enough time to sit on my welfare."

This is the migrant—the American agricultural gypsy. Sadly, his plight—and that of the nation—is summed up by Roger Pennington, the 15-year-old son of fruit tramp Henry Pennington, who responds to the question, "What would you like to be when you grow up?" thusly: "I don't know, a fruit picker I guess."

(Next: The farmer speaks: "The fruit picker should leave his family home.")

Viet Cong Steal Saigon Uniforms

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—The Communist Viet Cong have begun a campaign to steal government uniforms in what may be a prelude to a new deceptive twist in their fighting tactics.

A Vietnamese government employee disclosed Saturday that guerrillas twice stopped a bus taking him back to Saigon and made government soldiers aboard surrender their uniforms.

The official, who declined to permit use of his name, added:

"At each place there were about 30 heavily armed Viet Cong, all dressed in the uniforms of government rangers, complete with insignia and steel helmets.

"They were very polite to us. They told us first in a very friendly and intimate way they were not going to harm or arrest any of us because of the approaching lunar new year (Viet Nam's most important holiday).

Library Burned

SAIGON (UPI) — A mob of 3,000 Buddhists stormed the U.S. Information Service Library in the ancient capital of Hue Saturday, burned most of the 10,000 books, smashed furniture and stoned the U.S. vice consul when he tried to put out the fires.

Police stood idly by as the mob demonstrated in front of the U.S. Consulate to demand the recall of U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, then broke into the USIS library and made bonfires of the books. Police promised to place a squad car in front of the building later.

No Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP)—A top U.S. spokesman on Far Eastern policy said Saturday that U.S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam is "unthinkable." He held open the possibility of enlarging the war in response to Communist actions.

Assistant Secretary of State William P. Bundy said that in the past year infiltration of Red guerrilla fighters and supplies from North Viet Nam through Laos and South Viet Nam has "markedly increased."

This infiltration from the north "has included for the first time significant numbers of indigenous North Vietnamese trained in North Viet Nam in regular military units," he said.

Bundy's discussion of Vietnamese problems and U.S. policy for dealing with them was contained in a speech prepared for the Chamber of Commerce in Washington, Mo.

Belgians Seized

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Rebel invaders struck across the River Congo Saturday and seized a small town less than 200 miles from Leopoldville, radio reports said.

Radio messages from Bolobo, opposite a rebel training base at Gamboma, in the Congo, (Brazzaville) Republic, said a war party crossed the river frontier and occupied a plywood factory. They were holding members of the factory's Belgian staff as hostages.

Dock Strike Worse

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Negotiators trying to end a Maine-to-Mexico dock strike appeared to have suffered a setback here Saturday.

Lawrence C. Gayle, chief negotiator for the New Orleans Steamship Association, said on emerging from a four-hour afternoon bargaining session:

"I now feel we are further apart than we have been in some time. Points on which I felt we had reached agreement in principle have now become matters of apparent disagreement, such as hiring practices, sling-load sizes and scope of work."

Sheriff Enjoined

SELMA, Ala. (UPI) — A federal judge ordered Sheriff Jim Clark Saturday to quit interfering with Negro voter applicants, and warned that "violence on either side will not be tolerated."

District Judge Daniel H. Thomas issued the order from Mobile following Friday night's confrontation in which Clark and his deputies routed more than 100 Negro teachers from the courthouse steps, using their clubs as prods.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Viet Cong Steal Saigon Uniforms

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—The Communist Viet Cong have begun a campaign to steal government uniforms in what may be a prelude to a new deceptive twist in their fighting tactics.

A Vietnamese government employee disclosed Saturday that guerrillas twice stopped a bus taking him back to Saigon and made government soldiers aboard surrender their uniforms.

The official, who declined to permit use of his name, added:

"At each place there were about 30 heavily armed Viet Cong, all dressed in the uniforms of government rangers, complete with insignia and steel helmets.

"They were very polite to us. They told us first in a very friendly and intimate way they were not going to harm or arrest any of us because of the approaching lunar new year (Viet Nam's most important holiday).

Library Burned

SAIGON (UPI)—A mob of 3,000 Buddhists stormed the U.S. Information Service Library in the ancient capital of Hue Saturday, burned most of the 10,000 books, smashed furniture and stoned the U.S. vice consul when he tried to put out the fires.

Police stood idly by as the mob demonstrated in front of the U.S. Consulate to demand the recall of U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, then broke into the USIS library and made bonfires of the books. Police promised to place a squad car in front of the building later.

No Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP)—A top U.S. spokesman on Far Eastern policy said Saturday that U.S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam is "unthinkable." He held open the possibility of enlarging the war in response to Communist actions.

Assistant Secretary of State William P. Bundy said that in the past year infiltration of Red guerrilla fighters and supplies from North Viet Nam through Laos and South Viet Nam has "markedly increased."

This infiltration from the north "has included for the first time significant numbers of indigenous North Vietnamese trained in North Viet Nam in regular military units," he said.

Bundy's discussion of Vietnamese problems and U.S. policy for dealing with them was contained in a speech prepared for the Chamber of Commerce in Washington, Mo.

Belgians Seized

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Rebel invaders struck across the River Congo Saturday and seized a small town less than 200 miles from Leopoldville, radio reports said.

Radio messages from Bolobo, opposite a rebel training base at Gamboma, in the Congo, (Brazzaville) Republic, said a war party crossed the river frontier and occupied a plywood factory. They were holding members of the factory's Belgian staff as hostages.

Dock Strike Worse

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Negotiators trying to end a Maine-to-Mexico dock strike appeared to have suffered a setback here Saturday.

Lawrence C. Gayle, chief negotiator for the New Orleans Steamship Association, said on emerging from a four-hour afternoon bargaining session:

"I now feel we are further apart than we have been in some time. Points on which I felt we had reached agreement in principle have now become matters of apparent disagreement, such as hiring practices, sling-load sizes and scope of work."

Sheriff Enjoined

THE COMPLETE ROOM ON SALE FOR

IT WAS Lyndon Johnson's week, and he ended it in a hospital.

The President is mortal man and some good advisors must slow him down. Mr. Johnson has been described recently as showing "boundless energy" but no man in his mid-fifties has boundless energy.

Key part of Mr. Johnson's responsibility to us all is that he take care of himself and preserve his health, which means pacing himself.

This writer was in Washington last April attending an editor's convention, then went on to New York to another convention and the opening of the World's Fair. I heard Lyndon Johnson in speeches at least four times in the two cities in the course of a very few days, and was at one affair where he danced with a dozen or so ladies. In fact, some of us were run ragged just getting to the events at which Mr. Johnson appeared.

The killing pace can live up to its name. Somebody should remind Lyndon Johnson about that.

IT SEEMED to me that Mr. Johnson's inaugural appearance and speech showed him in a benign, grandfatherly attitude toward the people of the U.S.

He didn't need to do any fire-eating. He didn't need to be belligerent. He didn't need to throw down any gauntlets. He's in office with a tremendous majority vote and a huge majority on his side in the Congress.

One suspects that Mr. Johnson casts himself in the role of a great unifier, leading the country with the support of all major factions and avoiding bitter disputes that can delay or prevent action.

Strategically, he's in a better position to try that role than any president in many a term.

If Mr. Johnson wants to be a Dutch Uncle to us, well and good. But it looks at this moment as if somebody ought to talk a little Dutch Uncle business to him with respect to his health.

REFERRING again to the N.Y. World's Fair, it is noteworthy that it is having financial troubles reminiscent of some of the problems that harassed the proposed fair here.

Five leading New York bankers have resigned from the fair's financial advisory committee. The Times calls this "the latest and most dramatic evidence that something is in fact seriously wrong with the fair's finances."

The Times joins others in complaining that it can't get the full picture of the fair's money situation. It's possible that New York City may not get back a $24 million loan to the non-profit corporation.

All of which has a familiar ring.

EVER wonder how much time you "waste" waiting for red lights to change to green?

Lloyd Baum, the insurance man, did some checking on his own waits the other day with some interesting results.

After a lot of computing, he came up with the report that in his 19 years of driving in the Long Beach area, he has spent 152 hours waiting at red traffic signals.

That's nearly a week.

If there's anything wrong with Lloyd's figures, I think he underestimates. A while back I found that in the course of a day I spend five minutes waiting for the elevator in our building. In 310 working days in a year, that's about 25 hours. In the 15 years I've been here, I've spent 375 hours (over 15 days) waiting for elevators. I'm not making any claims, however, as to how constructively I would have spent those 15 days if my office had been on the ground floor.

RIDING HIGH ON HIGH TIDE

The 10,000-ton American freighter SS M. M. Dent looks like it is about to sail right over the top of its berth at Pier A in the Port of Long Beach. Combination of year's highest (more than seven feet) and lowest (minus two feet) last week brought freak conditions to the waterfront this week. At high tide, water line moved with 18 inches of concrete wharf in harbor.

VFW Sends 19 Tons Flood Aid

Ex-GIs from five counties teamed up to send 19 tons of food and clothing Saturday to victims of Northern California's recent floods.

Three C119 cargo planes left with the relief goods from Long Beach Airport when the fog lifted late Saturday morning.

Stowed aboard the planes were food and clothing—including six tons of canned goods—collected in a county-wide effort by Veterans of Foreign Wars posts. Also swelling the loads were contributions from posts in Orange, San Diego, Riverside and San Bernardino Counties.

DIRECTING the relief project was George Varden, Fourth District VFW commander. On hand for the send-off was VFW Commander Allen Martin of La Puente.

"This project started Christmas Eve," Varden said. "I figured we might get a truckload or two of food and clothing to send to the disaster areas. But post after post joined in, and the project snowballed into 19 tons of materials."

Varden said VFW arrangements for the flight were made with the assistance of Col. Robert Murphy of the 47th Artillery Brigade at Fort MacArthur.

FLYING the planes were Air Force Reserve officers and crew members of the 452nd Troop Carrier Wing, with Col. Walker M. Mahurin in charge of the flight operation.

The planes were flying to Arcata, with the relief goods to be distributed among families in Fortuna, Eureka and other hard-hit communities in the disaster area, the VFW reported.

A widely known authority on hypnosis will address the newly formed Harbor Society of Hypnosis at 8 p.m. Monday in Edgewater Inn.

'Y' to Bestow 'Man of Year'

Long Beach YMCA will bestow its annual "Man of the Year" award Monday night at the annual meeting of the organization in the Armed Forces YMCA.

The meeting, beginning at 7 p.m., will honor the individual judged as having made the greatest contribution to the group in 1964.

New YMCA board members will be nominated at the dinner meeting.

The fund would be used to help pay for professional consultants to assist local arts groups in improving their own programs.

The request is included in the commission's first annual report to the governor. The body was set up late in 1963, and its first meeting was held Feb. 11, 1964.

The $125,000 fund would be in addition to the administrative budget of the commission—currently $50,000 a year.

THE FUND WOULD finance a 1965-66 "pilot" program which would provide communities with the following:

"1. First-rate professional performing companies in the fields of music, theater and dance to communities where responsible local sponsoring groups have made satisfactory arrangements with the touring companies. In the event of a loss, the commission would underwrite a prescribed percentage of this loss. The primary initiative and responsibility would rest with the local sponsoring group or community."

"2. The touring of approved first-rate professional exhibits of the visual arts to museums, educational institutions and art centers, supported by responsible local sponsoring groups."

"3. The provision of qualified consultants to make their expertise available to approved local arts councils, cultural agencies, museums and performing groups, to assist them in improving the quality of their offerings and the efficiency of their operations."

The commission has undertaken a survey of 26 communities and will present its findings to the governor, with possible additional recommendations next month.

Dr. Abbott Kaplan, director of University Extension, UCLA, is commission chairman. Martin Dibner is executive secretary.

All dogs will be vaccinated with chick embryo serum, good for two years, at a cost of $1.50.

License clerks will be available at the clinics to license all dogs four months old. To be licensed, dogs must have a valid rabies vaccination certificate. License fee is $3, with a 100% penalty for late licensing.

Dog licenses are due Jan. 1 (or any time during the year when the dog reaches the age of four months). The penalty goes into effect after March 1.

'SI' Tests to Tell Social Abilities

By LOU JOBST

Your future success may depend on how high is your "SI."

"SI" or social intelligence is a measure of man's ability to cope with, understand and get along with his fellow humans.

It has no relationship to the long familiar "IQ" (intelligence quotient), says pretty psychological researcher Maureen O'Sullivan, but may play just as important a role in your life.

Miss O'Sullivan, an attractive blonde "egghead," is one of several psychologists attempting to devise tests to measure a human's SI.

THE USC Aptitudes Research Project is headed by Dr. J. P. Guilford, professor of psychology. It is only one of several research projects on intellectual functioning headed by Dr. Guilford. He is also looking into critical thinking, memory and concept formation.

While still not completed, "SI" tests employ many novel (not as staid as IQ tests) devices including cartoons, drawings, baby pictures, "weird" sounds, silhouettes, and stick figures.

The key characteristic of a person with a high SI, say scientists, is that he or she is "very observant."

SHAKESPEARE was a classic example of man who had a high SI," Miss O'Sullivan said. "He was observing human traits long before psychology came into existence."

"His Lady Macbeth, for instance, kept washing her hands because of what we today call compulsion neurosis. This was an expression of her guilt."

SI was first recognized as a capability apart from IQ by the famed psychologist E. L. Thorndike in 1920.

It still remains difficult to measure and assess.

"When a person says 'no,' his intonation, facial expression and bodily gesture might mean a reluctant 'no,' a vengeful 'no,' an angry or apologetic 'no'—the subtleties are endless and it depends on a man's SI to catch just the right meaning."

Poll Slated for School Directors

Two seats on the five-member board of education of the Long Beach Unified School District will be at stake in the district's biennial election April 2.

Trustees are elected for four-year terms. Three were elected in 1963. This year's election involves the seats of M. A. (Bud) Duncan and Mrs. Elizabeth F. Hudson, both expected to seek re-election.

NONE HAS filed for the offices yet. Deadline for declarations of candidacy is Feb. 15. Declaration forms may be obtained at the Board of Education Building, 701 Locust Ave., Room 302. They must be filed with the County Superintendent of Schools, 115 W. Washington Blvd., Los Angeles 90015. They may be mailed but must reach the superintendent's office by 5 p.m., Feb. 15.

THE DISTRICT, in cooperation with the Long Beach League of Women Voters and the Los Angeles County Registrar of voters will conduct a massive voter-registration drive at 22 school-system locations Thursday and Friday.

District residents who may have lost their registration for failure to vote last November, or who have just reached the age of 21, may take advantage of the drive as well as other unregistered persons. Deadline for registering to vote is Feb. 7.

COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE ADDITION . . . Work Progressing

IT WAS Lyndon Johnson's week, and he ended it in a hospital.

The President is mortal man and some good advisors must slow him down. Mr. Johnson has been described recently as showing "boundless energy" but no man in his mid-fifties has boundless energy.

Key part of Mr. Johnson's responsibility to us all is that he take care of himself and preserve his health, which means pacing himself.

This writer was in Washington last April attending an editor's convention, then went on to New York to another convention and the opening of the World's Fair. I heard Lyndon Johnson in speeches at least four times in the two cities in the course of a very few days, and was at one affair where he danced with a dozen or so ladies. In fact, some of us were run ragged just getting to the events at which Mr. Johnson appeared.

The killing pace can live up to its name. Somebody should remind Lyndon Johnson about that.

IT SEEMED to me that Mr. Johnson's inaugural appearance and speech showed him in a benign, grandfatherish attitude toward the people of the U.S.

He didn't need to do any fire-eating. He didn't need to be belligerent. He didn't need to throw down any gauntlets. He's in office with a tremendous majority vote and a huge majority on his side in the Congress.

One suspects that Mr. Johnson casts himself in the role of a great unifier, leading the country with the support of all major factions and avoiding bitter disputes that can delay or prevent action.

Strategically, he's in a better position to try that role than any president in many a term.

If Mr. Johnson wants to be a Dutch Uncle to us, well and good. But it looks at this moment as if somebody ought to talk a little Dutch Uncle business to him with respect to his health.

REFERRING again to the N.Y. World's Fair, it is noteworthy that it is having financial troubles reminiscent of some of the problems that harassed the proposed fair here.

Five leading New York bankers have resigned from the fair's financial advisory committee. The Times calls this "the latest and most dramatic evidence that something is in fact seriously wrong with the fair's finances."

The Times joins others in complaining that it can't get the full picture of the fair's money situation. It's possible that New York City may not get back a $24 million loan to the non-profit corporation.

All of which has a familiar ring.

EVER wonder how much time you "waste" waiting for red lights to change to green?

Lloyd Baum, the insurance man, did some checking on his own waits the other day with some interesting results.

After a lot of computing, he came up with the report that in his 19 years of driving in the Long Beach area, he has spent 152 hours waiting at red traffic signals.

That's nearly a week.

If there's anything wrong with Lloyd's figures, I think he underestimates. A while back I found that in the course of a day I spend five minutes waiting for the elevator in our building. In 310 working days in a year, that's about 25 hours. In the 15 years I've been here, I've spent 375 hours (over 15 days) waiting for elevators. I'm not making any claims, however, as to how constructively I would have spent those 15 days if my office had been on the ground floor.

Year of Beauty

UNLIKE MARK TWAIN'S observation on the weather, city beautification is not simply an idle topic of conversation about which nothing can be done. Much can be done, must be done, and this—Long Beach's Year of Beauty—is the year in which to do it.

It is an interesting coincidence that this vigorous move toward making ours a more beautiful city comes at a time when the President of the United States is emphasizing an "America the Beautiful Theme" and is preparing to call a White House conference on natural beauty. There can be no better way to endorse the President's worthy objectives than we are undertaking here.

Residents of a city can become so acculturated to their environment that its beauty is melded with its tawdriness to become a single gray mass of familiar scenes—so familiar that neither the beauty nor the deterioration is noticed until someone points it out.

Mary Ellis Carlton of our staff has been pointing it out in her series of Sunday feature stories. And the response from the readers shows that they have long been concerned with pockets of ugliness in the city but have said nothing because "nothing can be done." The dozens of telephone calls and scores of letters received since the series began have said "something should be done, and done now."

That response is praiseworthy, because it shows a genuine public concern, without which any community will wither. But the concern is empty and pointless, unless it is followed by community-wide action and cooperation with the Year of Beauty, from the city's top civic leaders down to first-grade students.

Surely, the public response will encourage those who have indicated a willingness to lead the city beautification program, notable among them the Civic Beautification Committee of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce as well as social clubs, service clubs, fraternal organizations and business and professional groups.

It is hoped that these leaders will point the way at a planned public meeting. Such a meeting is sorely needed because civic beauty is not solely the concern of city officials. Business people must clean up business property and residents must see to their private property.

It is not enough simply to admit that there is trash in the city's front and back yards and scattered here and there between them, and to agree that someone should get out there with a rake.

Once the problem is admitted, as apparently it has been, those who agree that "something must be done" must be the ones to do it.

Voter Sign-Up

THE VOTER registration drive next Thursday and Friday throughout the Long Beach Unified School District is good citizenship in timely application.

Scheduled for 22 school system locations, this most massive registration campaign in city history provides a convenient way for re-registration of some 25,000 area persons who lost their registration for failure to vote at the November general election.

It also invites those just turned 21 and others not now registered to become franchised—and all just in time for the April 2 district school board election. Registration for that election closes Feb. 7.

Cosponsors of the registration drive are the school district and the Long Beach League of Women Voters in cooperation with the Los Angeles County Registrar of Voters.

The drive is all the more important in its promise of building interest in the school election, a biennial vote notorious for poor turnout. Voter participation has averaged an incredibly bad 13%. However, after a similar registration drive two years ago, the turnout for the April 1963 school board election inched upward to 15.26%.

By registering now the voter assures his chance to take part in naming two board members to the highly important Long Beach Unified School District—an enterprise with a larger budget than the City of Long Beach—and also will be properly registered for next year's city, state and national elections.

The drive has been unanimously endorsed by the Long Beach City Council. Times and places for the registration, published Jan. 19, will be repeated in news columns of these newspapers.

Many Negroes at Capital Fetes

WASHINGTON — Sociological news sometimes blends significantly with political news. On the night of the inauguration, President Johnson and Vice President Humphrey and their wives attended five lavish balls in different parts of the national Capital. While Negroes have been guests at many a social function of the Republican or Democratic Party in the past, the number attending the Democratic Party celebrations here this week was far in excess of anything witnessed heretofore.

The Negro couples were as well dressed as any of the whites, and they usually danced only with each other. President Johnson danced with a colored woman at the ball in the Armory. This is probably the first time in history that a President has done so on such a public occasion. The Negroes, however, for the most part stayed in small groups apart from the rest of the celebrants. Maybe this was due to the fact that, because of the large attendance, people were inclined to mingle and dance with their friends anyhow.

In the inaugural parade also there was integration. Every military unit seemed to have its percentage of Negroes marching with white youths in uniform. Personnel of the orchestras at the inaugural balls, however, were all-white or all-Negro. In the restaurants and hotels, there was a considerable patronage by Negro women in fashionable attire accompanied by Negro escorts in formal dress.

THERE IS, of course, very evident nowadays in most states, movements designed to eliminate discrimination, particularly in political fields. This is true also in the theater, and especially in television, where a palpable effort is made to put Negro performers on the stage whenever possible. It has not been uncommon for Negro singers, dancers and comedians to be featured, but only in recent months have Negro women been given prominence in plays with white men or women. Programs on TV thus far have not included dramas in which love affairs involving a Negro and white person have been portrayed. In theaters in New York City, however, there recently have been several such shows in which the leading players have been Negro and white. The audiences, moreover, are more mixed than they ever have been.

SO FAR as official life here is concerned, hosts and hostesses who have any connection with a political party or the government usually invite Negro couples. This correspondent has observed a politeness and warmth of greeting at such affairs which would make a foreign observer wonder if much of what he has been reading on the subject of racial discrimination hasn't been somewhat exaggerated.

There was, incidentally, an item of news on the subject of racial intermarriage which came over the wires on inauguration day and doubtless in other parts of the country. A UPI dispatch from Indianapolis read as follows:

"A House Judiciary committee of the state legislature voted unanimously to recommend repeal of Indiana's 125-year-old ban on racially mixed marriages. The vote came after a brief hearing at which three speakers voiced approval of the bill to repeal the 1940 law which makes it a felony to contract such a marriage or to counsel persons considering such a marriage."

This goes to the heart of the racial problem, especially as it is closely related to southern efforts to permit only token integration, if not to maintain complete segregation. For decades it has been recognized that there have been many children born of illegitimate unions between Negroes and whites in the North and the

State Solons Taking Tough Line on Law Enforcement

Independent, Press-Telegram Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The 1965 Legislature is likely to take a harder line on law enforcement than any session in recent years.

Best index: the initial batch of anti-crime bills and get-tough statements of key legislative leaders.

Previously, the Assembly Criminal Procedures Committee has dragged its feet on tighter gun-control laws. But in the aftermath of the recent mass shooting of Gardena poker patrons by a crazed gunman, the climate has changed.

Chairman Gordon Winton of the committee—a one-time roadblock to tougher gun laws—personally has proposed some.

In recent years, traffic safety legislation has faced tough battles. The 1965 Legislature's attitude is more promising.

GOP Still Locked in Factional War

CALIFORNIA REPUBLICANS are hauling hard in opposite directions—a tug of war which threatens to nullify the victory formula they used so well last November.

Except for the Goldwater loss, California was an oasis for the GOP with its victory in the U.S. Senate race and the gain of three State Assembly seats.

All wings of the GOP joined for one quick "hurrah" and then resumed their fighting.

How serious, how real is the intraparty conflict? Some examples: Goldwater Republicans are making speeches entitled, "We'd rather fight than switch!"

National Committeewoman Ann Bowler attacks the ouster of National Chairman Dean Burch and suggests U.S. Sen. Thomas Kuchel, one of the state's most successful GOP campaigners, should join the Democratic Party.

The state's GOP volunteer groups—the California Republican Assembly (CRA), United Republicans of California (UROC), Young Republicans (YR) and California Republican Women Federated—are overwhelmingly Goldwater conservatives and give no indications of "rolling over and playing dead because of Goldwater's defeat."

The League and the Alliance contend they are "plugged in" to Republican incumbents—their term for accenting electability through mainstream appeal as opposed to defeat in extremism.

Thus Republicans continue building two disparate houses in California and the seat of party leadership is vacant.

Despite the schism, Republicans on both sides think chances are excellent for winning the governorship in 1966. Their reckoning is that a good candidate can duplicate Sen. George Murphy's common-ground campaign and bridge the party's ideological gulf at least long enough to elect a Republican.

TOP CONSERVATIVE candidates at this writing are TV-film personality Ronald Reagan, state cochairman of Citizens for Goldwater last year, and former Assembly GOP Leader Joseph C. Shell, another Goldwater booster who ran against Richard Nixon in the 1962 gubernatorial primary. Reagan has hired a public relations consultant and is meeting the great demand for speeches. Shell has authorized a "Go, Go, Joe" teen-age group to continue its promotion.

Moderates would probably head their list with former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher, who ran for lieutenant governor in 1962, and former U.S. Attorney Laughlin Waters, who worked for Nelson Rockefeller in last year's primary and fought against the right-wing takeover of the CRA. Both these men would rank second to Senator Kuchel in the unlikely event he should abandon his seat to run for governor.

In the next echelon of prospectives are Congressman Alphonzo Bell of Santa Monica, whose administrative assistant has left Washington to set up a Los Angeles office, and State Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. Max Rafferty, who was honored at a two-year anniversary testimonial dinner recently and who is making a lot of speeches.

Craig Hosmer, Long Beach Congressman, is getting more and more mention for state office as the result of his series of spectacular victories in the Long Beach area despite adverse registration.

Robert Finch, former Nixon aide credited with masterminding Murphy's upset victory for U.S. Senate last November, is interested in running again for public office (he tried for Congress in 1952 and 1954) and could pick his spot, party leaders says. They believe, however, that Finch won't pick the top state office for his run.

OTHERS COMMON to most lists of prospects are Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess, Chairman Bill Knowland's right-hand man on the Goldwater delegation at San Francisco last July; L. A. County Supervisor Warren M. Dorn and State Sen. John M. McCarthy of San Rafael, who ran for lieutenant governor in the 1962 primary.

Republican hopes, other than attractive candidates, reside now in the leadership of the party's official organizations. This leadership at present accounting is first rate in such figures as Dr. Gaylord Parkinson of San Diego as State Chairman and Jud Leatham as Los Angeles County Chairman.

Both men have accented a broad-based Republicanism without qualifying labels. Next hope would seem to be peace talks between leaders of the feuding volunteer groups and also among top potential candidates representing the diverse viewpoints of those groups.

Defends Industry in Smog Situation

EDITOR:

I read with interest John D. Copping's learned discussion of the major sources of smog. As with so many well-intentioned citizens, Mr. Copping did not determine the final disposition of the sulfur compounds removed from petroleum.

Instead of being incinerated and discharged into the atmosphere as sulfur dioxide, he alleges, the hydrogen sulfide is converted to elemental sulfur (a solid) and sulfuric acid (a liquid) and sold to users of these products.

Further, Rule 62 and 62.1 of the Air Pollution Control District rules and regulations specifically forbids the burning of any gaseous fuel containing sulfur compounds in excess of 50 grains per 100 cubic feet (0.08 vol. %).

or any liquid or solid fuel having a sulfur content in excess of 0.5% by weight and these rules are rigidly enforced.

Los Angeles basin atmosphere is among the lowest in concentrations of sulfur dioxide compared to other major metropolitan areas in the United States. Such data are published in the Air Pollution Measurements of the National Air Sampling Network, (1957-1961), Public Health Service, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Industry has for many years now expended millions of dollars to put their houses in order to control emissions to the atmosphere. The only uncontrolled major source of air contaminants is the automobile. No amount of name calling or finger pointing is going to change that fact. To correct it will be expensive for all of us.

Year of Beauty

UNLIKE MARK TWAIN'S observation on the weather, city beautification is not simply an idle topic of conversation about which nothing can be done. Much can be done, must be done, and this—Long Beach's Year of Beauty—is the year in which to do it.

It is an interesting coincidence that this vigorous move toward making ours a more beautiful city comes at a time when the President of the United States is emphasizing an "America the Beautiful Theme" and is preparing to call a White House conference on natural beauty. There can be no better way to endorse the President's worthy objectives than we are undertaking here.

Residents of a city can become so acclimated to their environment that its beauty is melded with its tawdriness to become a single gray mass of familiar scenes—so familiar that neither the beauty nor the deterioration is noticed until someone points it out.

Mary Ellis Carlton of our staff has been pointing it out in her series of Sunday feature stories. And the response from the readers shows that they have long been concerned with pockets of ugliness in the city but have said nothing because "nothing can be done." The dozens of telephone calls and scores of letters received since the series began have said "something should be done, and done now."

That response is praiseworthy, because it shows a genuine public concern, without which any community will wither. But the concern is empty and pointless, unless it is followed by community-wide action and cooperation with the Year of Beauty, from the city's top civic leaders down to first-grade students.

Surely, the public response will encourage those who have indicated a willingness to lead the city beautification program, notable among them the Civic Beautification Committee of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce as well as social clubs, service clubs, fraternal organizations and business and professional groups.

It is hoped that these leaders will point the way at a planned public meeting. Such a meeting is sorely needed because civic beauty is not solely the concern of city officials. Business people must clean up business property and residents must see to their private property.

It is not enough simply to admit that there is trash in the city's front and back yards and scattered here and there between them, and to agree that someone should get out there with a rake.

Once the problem is admitted, as apparently it has been, those who agree that "something must be done" must be the ones to do it.

Voter Sign-Up

THE VOTER registration drive next Thursday and Friday throughout the Long Beach Unified School District is good citizenship in timely application.

Scheduled for 22 school system locations, this most massive registration campaign in city history provides a convenient way for re-registration of some 25,000 area persons who lost their registration for failure to vote at the November general election.

It also invites those just turned 21 and others not now registered to become franchised—and all just in time for the April 2 district school board election. Registration for that election closes Feb. 7.

Cosponsors of the registration drive are the school district and the Long Beach League of Women Voters in cooperation with the Los Angeles County Registrar of Voters.

The drive is all the more important in its promise of building interest in the school election, a biennial vote notorious for poor turnout. Voter participation has averaged an incredibly bad 13%. However, after a similar registration drive two years ago, the turnout for the April 1963 school board election inched upward to 15.26%.

By registering now the voter assures his chance to take part in naming two board members to the highly important Long Beach Unified School District—an enterprise with a larger budget than the City of Long Beach—and also will be properly registered for next year's city, state and national elections.

The drive has been unanimously endorsed by the Long Beach City Council. Times and places for the registration, published Jan. 19, will be repeated in news columns of these newspapers.

Many Negroes at Capital Fetes

WASHINGTON — Sociological news sometimes blends significantly with political news. On the night of the inauguration, President Johnson and Vice President Humphrey and their wives attended five lavish balls in different parts of the national Capital. While Negroes have been guests at many a social function of the Republican or Democratic Party in the past, the number attending the Democratic Party celebrations here this week was far in excess of anything witnessed heretofore.

The Negro couples were as well dressed as any of the whites, and they usually danced only with each other. President Johnson danced with a colored woman at the ball in the Armory. This is probably the first time in history that a President has done so on such a public occasion. The Negroes, however, for the most part stayed in small groups apart from the rest of the celebrants. Maybe this was due to the fact that, because of the large attendance, people were inclined to mingle and dance with their friends anyhow.

In the inaugural parade also there was integration. Every military unit seemed to have its percentage of Negroes marching with white youths in uniform. Personnel of the orchestras at the inaugural balls, however, were all-white or all-Negro. In the restaurants and hotels, there was a considerable patronage by Negro women in fashionable attire accompanied by Negro escorts in formal dress.

THERE IS, of course, very evident nowadays in most states, movements designed to eliminate discrimination, particularly in political fields. This is true also in the theater, and especially in television, where a palpable effort is made to put Negro performers on the stage whenever possible. It has not been uncommon for Negro singers, dancers and comedians to be featured, but only in recent months have Negro women been given prominence in plays with white men or women. Programs on TV thus far have not included dramas in which love affairs involving a Negro and white person have been portrayed. In theaters in New York City, however, there recently have been several such shows in which the leading players have been Negro and white. The audiences, moreover, are more mixed than they ever have been.

SO FAR as official life here is concerned, hosts and hostesses who have any connection with a political party or the government usually invite Negro couples. This correspondent has observed a politeness and warmth of greeting at such affairs which would make a foreign observer wonder if much of what he has been reading on the subject of racial discrimination hasn't been somewhat exaggerated.

There was, incidentally, an item of news on the subject of racial intermarriage which came over the wires on inauguration day and doubtless in other parts of the country. A UPI dispatch from Indianapolis read as follows: "A House judiciary committee (of the state legislature) voted unanimously to recommend repeal of Indiana's 125-year-old ban on racially mixed marriages. The vote came after a brief hearing at which three speakers voiced approval of the bill to repeal the 1840 law which makes it a felony to contract such a marriage or to counsel persons considering such a marriage.

This goes to the heart of the racial problem, especially as it is closely related to southern efforts to permit only token integration, if not to maintain complete segregation. For decades it has been recognized that there have been many children born of illegitimate unions, between Negroes and whites in the North and the South. This point has been raised in discussions about the intermarriage problem, as predictions are often heard that, if the laws on mixed marriages are repealed, there would be substantially more of such mixtures.

Some sociologists believe that this would increase the number of light-skinned Negroes, of whom there are already many in positions of leadership in Negro organizations and communities in different parts of the country. It is this social or sociological factor which is frequently discussed by women and is believed to be at the root of the racial controversy in America today.

For some time, state officials have been puzzled how to ban the Minutemen or other citizen's groups from forming private armies. However, Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch has proposed such a bill and Sen. Eugene McAteer, D-San Francisco, has introduced it.

Assemblyman C. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, led the battle to beat the 1963 proposal for temporarily suspending the death penalty. Deukmejian is in a stronger position this session to defeat a new proposal for abolishing capital punishment. This session, the Long Beach legislator is GOP assembly whip.

And there have been some changes on capital punishment loyalties. In 1963, Gov. Brown prodded the Assembly into passing the moratorium measure—though it subsequently was defeated in the Senate.

This time, Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh has indicated the bill may not even get through the Assembly. Unruh revealed some assemblymen voted for the bill last time merely as a favor to the Governor. Gov. Brown's honeymoon with the legislature is over.

LBJ Health Message Ignored Smoking

WASHINGTON — Though cigarette smoking is now blamed for more American deaths than any other curable hazard, President Johnson didn't mention this in his recent health message.

He touched upon just about every other subject in the medical books, but he ignored the nation's No. 1 health problem.

He called upon Congress to give the Food and Drug Administration more authority to make sure hazardous substances are properly labeled, but didn't mention cigarette labeling, which has been left to the Federal Trade Commission to pursue in the terest of truthful advertising rather than public health.

While the President was omitting the cigarette hazard from his otherwise sweeping health proposals, the National Inter-Agency Council on smoking and health warned soberly that smoking causes at least 125,000 deaths in the United States each year. The figure might even be as high as 300,000, the council declared.

No attempt has been made to estimate all the sickness caused by cigarettes. Cancer, heart disease, and emphysema, for example, have been closely linked to the use of tobacco.

President Johnson has endorsed the antismoking pronouncements that have been handed up to him by government agencies. But he has given them little more than lip service.

He himself has given up smoking and religiously refrains. But he has been reluctant about doing too much damage to the $10-billion-a-year tobacco industry. Insiders say he will go along with an anti-smoking educational campaign, however.

President Johnson isn't alone in appearing to put tobacco profits ahead of public health. Last year tobacco-state senators and congressmen quietly killed a $2 million appropriation to help educate children on the dangers of smoking. Though this was a mere fraction of the $200 million that is spent on cigarette advertising, Congress refused to authorize a nickel to counteract the tobacco ads.

The Federal Trade Commission heroically ordered the tobacco companies to label their cigarette packs with a health warning by Jan. 1. But Arkansas Congressman Oren Harris, whose House Commerce Committee has jurisdiction over the FTC, put pressure on the commissioners to hold up their order.

After marching boldly up the hill, the commissioners marched right back down again.

OREGON'S Sen. Maurine Neuberger, whose first husband died of lung cancer from too much smoking, has introduced a bill that would compel tobacco companies to include a health warning not only on cigarette packs but in advertisements as well.

She got nowhere with the bill last year, but she used her seniority this year to get assigned to the Senate Commerce Committee. Already she has persuaded Chairman Warren Magnuson of Washington to hold hearings on the bill within the next 30 days.

Meanwhile, he has introduced a watered-down bill of his own, which probably will get priority. The tobacco lobbyists reportedly have decided the best strategy is not to oppose the measure, but to slip through a meaningless compromise.

They would be willing to print on cigarette packs, for example, that tobacco is not a health tonic.

Meanwhile, the tobacco industry belatedly has started to police its own advertising.

HOMESPUN Muriel Humphrey, who prefers the simple life and likes to sew her own clothes, is rebelling sweetly over the pomp and show of being the Vice President's wife.

She has gently notified President Johnson, who wants to install the Vice President in a suitable mansion for entertaining distinguished guests, that she would just as soon remain in their modest suburban home.

It is improvement enough over the attic apartment where the Humphreys lived while Hubert was attending college.

FREDERIC W. COLLINS

Time for European Critics of U.S. Policy to Grow Up

WASHINGTON—Some foreign politicians, especially Europeans, are afraid that President Johnson is turning isolationist.

The real cause of their worry may be that they haven't completely grown up yet, or, to put it more charitably, that they don't know their own strength.

Their apprehensions reached a new intensity after Mr. Johnson's inaugural address on Wednesday, in which he dealt almost exclusively with this country. (Apparently mentioning a prospective television show from just off Mars isn't evidence enough of breadth of outlook.)

This trend of thought, if it is thought instead of a tendency to carp and cavil and pick lint off the American lapels, has been developing for some time.

The foreigners didn't like the fact that the foreign affairs section of the State of the Union message was so highly compressed. They didn't like the fact that Mr. Johnson rejected a policy of seeking to force Europe and the United States into an abstract design. They were worried by the bare-bones nature of the foreign-aid program he has just sent up to Congress—not, let it be said in fairness, because there was so little in it for them, but because it again seemed to signify a turning inward in Johnsonian thinking. And they were also exercised by what were in effect Mr. Johnson's instructions to Europe to figure out what it wanted to do about sharing nuclear responsibility and then talk with him about it.

The way things look from here, the Europeans, tragically obliged to depend upon the United States for so many things in the reconstruction period after World War II, and in the case of West Germany, actually in the status of subjects of a conquering and occupying power, developed habits of mind in their relationship with the United States which it is time they shook off.

There isn't any particular reason why a Western European government should wait for a signal from Washington, these days, before making up its mind what it wants to do. As a matter of fact, the Europeans have shown a tendency to be painfully independent when it seemed to suit their private purposes, critical when they chose to feel that the United States was trying to tell them what to do—and at the same time, devoting great energies to persuading the United States to maintain its presence and its protective strength in Europe.

Nor is there anything in particular in Lyndon Johnson's record of 30-plus years in Washington to suggest that he harbors isolationist instincts which he might now indulge in the Presidency.

He may not possess the delight in history and the taste for the intellectual stimulus of dealing in world designs which animated some of his immediate Democratic predecessors. But his friends make a telling point: He regards foreign affairs as an extension of the dynamics of politics in which he is, indeed, compulsively interested, and is not about to neglect an area providing such broad scope for his political talents.

Abolition of Reserve Units Irks Capitol Hill Members

I. P. T. Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Considerable congressional thunder and lightning soon may be crashing and flashing about the head of Defense Secretary Robert McNamara.

The hard-headed Defense Secretary almost certainly will be hailed before either the House or Senate Armed Services Committees to explain recent orders which amalgamate reserve forces with the National Guard.

Deep seated congressional resentment of the former Ford Motor Co. "whiz kid" was inflamed when he ordered the Army Reserve absorbed by the Guard. Worse yet, he abolished three Capitol Hill Reserve units which numbered many senators and representatives in their ranks.

One congressman who held a high rank in one of the outfits was so incensed that he refused to talk to McNamara when they came face-to-face at a recent Washington soiree.

An order for the Air Force Reserve to be absorbed by the Air National Guard is expected later this week, and this may cause even more chagrin on Capitol Hill.

But the abolition of the Capitol Hill units may generate heat that's even more intense than that being generated by the Reserve Officers Assn. and similar groups.

For a corollary order probably will involuntarily retire from the reserves many congressmen.

One, Rep. William C. Mailliard, R-San Francisco, commander of the Congressional Naval Reserve unit abolished by McNamara, charges that the latter order removes from a congressman the option of staying in office or going with the military in the event of mobilization.

He recalled that during World War II, President Franklin Roosevelt issued an order that gave congressmen in service the choice of returning to the Capitol or remaining in uniform.

Mailliard said the one congressman, who had won the Silver Star medal for service in the South Pacific, opted to return to Congress. He was Lt. Cmdr. Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson, D-Texas.

"We should have the same choice,"

Mailliard said. "McNamara has not left it to us."

WHILE MANY inferior courts take up to two hours for lunch, the granddaddy of them all manages to dispose of the noon meal in only 30 minutes.

The nine justices of the Supreme Court adjourn promptly at noon and reconvene at 12:30 p.m.

"They usually gather in a private dining room, although sometimes one of them will dine in his office while studying briefs or legal documents," a court attache said. "I've never heard of any of them complaining that a half hour wasn't ample time for lunch."

THE PRESIDENT's inaugural address evoked very little applause or reaction during delivery, but has stimulated lively discussion in its wake. It was one of those speeches which reads better than it sounds. The basic draft was produced by a White House staff member, but underwent extensive revision. The President himself took a major hand in the rewriting, and White House sources say there is "more" of LBJ in it than in any speech he has delivered since becoming President. That means LBJ did most of the work himself.

THE FRUITS of military research continue to pay off. One development could radically alter the nation's transportation. In the President's State of the Union message, he spoke of a special high-speed rail line to connect Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Washington at speeds of up to 150 miles an hour. But the Army, in its research on advanced helicopters, has come up with some new wrinkles that will enable vertical take-off and landing aircraft using helicopter principles, to handle passenger traffic at speeds up to 230 miles an hour. The possibility of downtown-to-downtown long distance transportation, free of airport delays, has long tantalized the experts. Now as a result of research for war, it may be within realization.

LBJ Health Message Ignored Smoking

WASHINGTON — Though cigarette smoking is now blamed for more American deaths than any other curable hazard, President Johnson didn't mention this in his recent health message.

He touched upon just about every other subject in the medical books, but he ignored the nation's No. 1 health problem.

He called upon Congress to give the Food and Drug Administration more authority to make sure hazardous substances are properly labeled, but didn't mention cigarette labeling, which has been left to the Federal Trade Commission to pursue in the interest of truthful advertising rather than public health.

While the President was omitting the cigarette hazard from his otherwise sweeping health proposals, the National Inter-Agency Council on smoking and health warned soberly that smoking causes at least 125,000 deaths in the United States each year. The figure might even be as high as 300,000, the council declared.

No attempt has been made to estimate all the sickness caused by cigarettes. Cancer, heart disease, and emphysema, for example, have been closely linked to the use of tobacco.

President Johnson has endorsed the antismoking pronouncements that have been handed up to him by government agencies. But he has given them little more than lip service.

He himself has given up smoking and religiously refrains. But he has been reluctant about doing too much damage to the $10-billion-a-year tobacco industry. Insiders say he will go along with an anti-smoking educational campaign, however.

President Johnson isn't alone in appearing to put tobacco profits ahead of public health. Last year tobacco-state senators and congressmen quietly killed a $2 million appropriation to help educate children on the dangers of smoking. Though this was a mere fraction of the $200 million that is spent on cigarette advertising, Congress refused to authorize a nickel to counteract the tobacco ads.

The Federal Trade Commission heroically ordered the tobacco companies to label their cigarette packs with a health warning by Jan. 1. But Arkansas Congressman Oren Harris, whose House Commerce Committee has jurisdiction over the FTC, put pressure on the commissioners to hold up their order.

After marching boldly up the hill, the commissioners marched right back down again.

OREGON'S Sen. Maurine Neuberger, whose first husband died of lung cancer from too much smoking, has introduced a bill that would compel tobacco companies to include a health warning not only on cigarette packs but in advertisements as well.

She got nowhere with the bill last year, but she used her seniority this year to get assigned to the Senate Commerce Committee. Already she has persuaded Chairman Warren Magnuson of Washington to hold hearings on the bill within the next 30 days.

Meanwhile, he has introduced a watered-down bill of his own, which probably will get priority. The tobacco lobbyists reportedly have decided the best strategy is not to oppose the measure, but to slip through a meaningless compromise.

They would be willing to print on cigarette packs, for example, that tobacco is not a health tonic.

Meanwhile, the tobacco industry belatedly has started to police its own advertising.

HOMESPUN Muriel Humphrey, who prefers the simple life and likes to sew her own clothes, is rebelling sweetly over the pomp and show of being the Vice President's wife.

She has gently notified President Johnson, who wants to install the Vice President in a suitable mansion for entertaining distinguished guests, that she would just as soon remain in their modest suburban home.

It is improvement enough over the attic apartment where the Humphreys lived while Hubert was attending college.

FREDERIC W. COLLINS

Time for European Critics of U.S. Policy to Grow Up

WASHINGTON—Some foreign politicians, especially Europeans, are afraid that President Johnson is turning isolationist.

The real cause of their worry may be that they haven't completely grown up yet, or, to put it more charitably, that they don't know their own strength.

Their apprehensions reached a new intensity after Mr. Johnson's inaugural address on Wednesday, in which he dealt almost exclusively with this country. (Apparently mentioning a prospective television show from just off Mars isn't evidence enough of breadth of outlook.)

This trend of thought, if it is thought instead of a tendency to carp and cavil and pick lint off the American lapels, has been developing for some time.

The foreigners didn't like the fact that the foreign affairs section of the State of the Union message was so highly compressed. They didn't like the fact that Mr. Johnson rejected a policy of seeking to force Europe and the United States into an abstract design. They were worried by the bare-bones nature of the foreign-aid program he has just sent up to Congress—not, let it be said in fairness, because there was so little in it for them, but because it again seemed to signify a turning inward in Johnsonian thinking. And they were also exercised by what were in effect Mr. Johnson's instructions to Europe to figure out what it wanted to do about sharing nuclear responsibility and then talk with him about it.

The way things look from here, the Europeans, tragically obliged to depend upon the United States for so many things in the reconstruction period after World War II, and in the case of West Germany, actually in the status of subjects of a conquering and occupying power, developed habits of mind in their relationship with the United States which it is time they shook off.

There isn't any particular reason why a Western European government should wait for a signal from Washington, these days, before making up its mind what it wants to do. As a matter of fact, the Europeans have shown a tendency to be painfully independent when it seemed to suit their private purposes, critical when they chose to feel that the United States was trying to tell them what to do—and at the same time, devoting great energies to persuading the United States to maintain its presence and its protective strength in Europe.

Nor is there anything in particular in Lyndon Johnson's record of 30-plus years in Washington to suggest that he harbors isolationist instincts which he might now indulge in the Presidency.

He may not possess the delight in history and the taste for the intellectual stimulus of dealing in world designs which animated some of his immediate Democratic predecessors. But his friends make a telling point: He regards foreign affairs as an extension of the dynamics of politics in which he is, indeed, compulsively interested, and is not about to neglect an area providing such broad scope for his political talents.

CAPITAL CAPERS

Abolition of Reserve Units Irks Capitol Hill Members

I. P. T. Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Considerable congressional thunder and lightning soon may be crashing and flashing about the head of Defense Secretary Robert McNamara.

The hard-headed Defense Secretary almost certainly will be hailed before either the House or Senate Armed Services Committees to explain recent orders which amalgamate reserve forces with the National Guard.

Deep seated congressional resentment of the former Ford Motor Co. "whiz kid" was inflamed when he ordered the Army Reserve absorbed by the Guard. Worse yet, he abolished three Capitol Hill Reserve units which numbered many senators and representatives in their ranks.

One congressman who held a high rank in one of the outfits was so incensed that he refused to talk to McNamara when they came face-to-face at a recent Washington soiree.

An order for the Air Force Reserve to be absorbed by the Air National Guard is expected later this week, and this may cause even more chagrin on Capitol Hill.

But the abolition of the Capitol Hill units may generate heat that's even more intense than that being generated by the Reserve Officers Assn. and similar groups.

For a corollary order probably will involuntarily retire from the reserves many congressmen.

One, Rep. William C. Mailliard, R-San Francisco, commander of the Congressional Naval Reserve unit abolished by McNamara, charges that the latter order removes from a congressman the option of staying in office or going with the military in the event of mobilization.

He recalled that during World War II, President Franklin Roosevelt issued an order that gave congressmen in service the choice of returning to the Capitol or remaining in uniform.

Mailliard said the one congressman, who had won the Silver Star medal for service in the South Pacific, opted to return to Congress. He was Lt. Cmdr.-Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson, D-Texas.

"We should have the same choice,"

Mailliard said. "McNamara has not left it to us."

WHILE MANY inferior courts take up to two hours for lunch, the granddaddy of them all manages to dispose of the noon meal in only 30 minutes.

The nine justices of the Supreme Court adjourn promptly at noon and reconvene at 12:30 p.m.

"They usually gather in a private dining room, although sometimes one of them will dine in his office while studying briefs or legal documents," a court attache said. "I've never heard of any of them complaining that a half hour wasn't ample time for lunch."

THE PRESIDENT'S inaugural address evoked very little applause or reaction during delivery, but has stimulated lively discussion in its wake. It was one of those speeches which reads better than it sounds. The basic draft was produced by a White House staff member, but underwent extensive revision. The President himself took a major hand in the rewriting, and White House sources say there is "more" of LBJ in it than in any speech he has delivered since becoming President. That means LBJ did most of the work himself.

THE FRUITS of military research continue to pay off. One development could radically alter the nation's transportation. In the President's State of the Union message, he spoke of a special high-speed rail line to connect Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Washington at speeds of up to 150 miles an hour. But the Army, in its research on advanced helicopters, has come up with some new wrinkles that will enable vertical take-off and landing aircraft using helicopter principles, to handle passenger traffic at speeds up to 230 miles an hour. The possibility of downtown-to-downtown long distance transportation, free of airport delays, has long tantalized the experts. Now as a result of research for war, it may be within realization.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Mart Hit Record High as DJI Neared '900'

By C. J. PARNOW
NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market broke through to a new all-time high last week and the Dow-Jones Industrial average came within striking distance of the "magic 900" level, but then prices began to backtrack.

The Dow-Jones Industrial average (DJI) already was on the verge of breaking the record high of 891.71, set Nov. 18, a week ago but ran out of steam at the crucial moment. However, Monday's session proved more bullish and the indicator sailed to a peak of 895.21 on a gain of 4.06.

A stunned gain of 1.06 pushed it still higher Tuesday and it was within 3.73 of touching the long hoped-for 900 mark. As expected the going got rougher in that area and considerable resistance was applied to any further upward movement. The indicator fell 2.05 Thursday, but managed to finish up 0.33 in the final session.

HOWEVER, brokers were not dismayed by the decline, but rather they were surprised by the market's stubborn resistance to selling. After a string of 11 consecutive sessions in which more prices advanced than declined there was the normal expectation that a bit of profit-taking was in order, but as prices backedtracked to lower levels there was a ready supply of buyers waiting.

The DJI gained 2.44 on the week at 895.59. Rails slipped 0.84 to 212.09, but utilities gained 1.86 at 159.91. Standard & Poor's more inclusive 500 stock index rose 0.53 to 86.74.

Volume totaled 26,965,680 shares compared with 28,154,665 shares a week before and 26,265,942 shares in the same week last year.

Of the 1,524 shares traded, 787 advanced while 559 declined. There were 246 new 1964-65 highs and only 21 new lows.

TEXAS Gulf Sulphur took honors for activity with a gain of 2 1/4 at 59 3/4 on 409,600 shares. Pan American World Airways was second with a gain of 3/4 at 30 3/4 on a total volume of 342,000 shares, which included a 100,000-share block sold by an institution Friday.

Improved earnings in the fourth quarter and for all of 1964 put Burroughs in third loaded with students.

spot with a gain of 2 1/4 at 30 3/4 on 336,700 shares.

Steels put on a better performance that has been seen in many recent weeks as prices advanced modestly. There have been several advisory service recommendations on the section. Most of these have been based on the fact that steel users are having a hard time meeting demand much less building up inventories against a possible strike this spring.

Lukens jumped 5 1/2. Jones & Laughlin and Republic added 1 1/2. Bethlehem 1 1/2 and U.S. Steel 1 1/2.

CHRYSLER dropped 2 1/2 in fairly active dealings. General Motors, also active, advanced 2 1/2. Ford tacked on 1 1/2. DuPont and Eastman Kodak shared the spotlight with gains of 2 and 2 1/2 respectively. Union Carbide and Allied Chemical advanced 1 1/2 each and International Minerals & Chemical rose 2.

Standard Oil (Ohio) rose 1 1/2 on a favorable earnings forecast and indications from the company of a possible dividend boost. Pure Oil eased 1 1/2. Pure Oil and Hercules apparently have broken off their merger talks and a new group, headed by an investment banking firm, is expected to make an offer for Pure Oil's assets shortly.

United Aircraft dropped 3 1/2 and Grumman gave up 4 1/2, both apparently in reaction to a proposed cut in the defense budget. Coca-Cola

Students Demand Freedom to Hoist Friendly Glass

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Members of the Hiram College Student Senate are perturbed over what they call a curtailment of individual freedoms—there is no place in "dry" Hiram township where a student can hoist a friendly glass of ale.

The seven-member Senate has presented a resolution to village solicitor Chester F. Enloe stating that legal counsel will be sought and that a special election may be required.

A spokesman for the Senate said the chief reason for the resolution was that many students consider it dangerous to drive to other communities to drink beer, then fourth quarter and for all of 1964 put Burroughs in third loaded with students.

at rose 3 1/2, and Pepsi-Cola gained 3 1/4. A few advisory services have made recommendations in the soft drink industry.

Trans World Airlines recovered from a mild sinking spell which followed news it set March 30 for redemption of more than $38 million of its 5 1/2% convertible debentures. It was up 1 1/2.

SUNSHINE Mining advanced 2 1/2 in fairly active trading. Fibreboard Paper gained 2 1/2 on rumors it was discussing a merger with Evans Products. Both firms denied the report. Evans slipped 1/2.

IBM tacked on 12 in a fractionally mixed electronics group. Beckman rose 3 1/2 following a favorable earnings statement. Polaroid rose 4 1/2 and Xerox added 4 1/2. The long dormant Gillette advanced 2 1/2.

Link-Belt jumped 4 1/2 following a dividend boost. Cigarette stocks fared well with Philip Morris up 2 1/2. Liggett & Myers 2 1/2 and Lorillard 1 1/2.

Governor's Book on Politics ---Clean Record

ANNAPOLIS, MD., (AP)—When Gov. Millard Tawes walked into the state house carrying a book, a small crowd gathered.

The book bore the title: "What I Know About Politics," by J. Millard Tawes.

The governor consented to let the crowd see what was inside the leather-bound, gilt-edged volume.

He flipped through the hundreds of pages in the book. They were all blank.

"There's not a damn thing in it," he said, "nothing."

U.S. Officer Returns Samurai Sword

HONOLULU, (UPI)—An American naval officer received a Japanese doll as a thank-you gift for returning a Samurai sword to its Japanese owner.

CMDR. Paul H. Simars acquired the sword as a war souvenir in Japan in 1945 during an inspection trip to Kendari in the Celebes. In recent years he made two more visits to Japan and got to know the people.

"It was then I decided to return the sword to its owner," Simars said.

After a long search, Simars finally turned the sword over to Tomitaro Koizumi, a former Japanese Naval officer who had surrendered the sword to allied authorities at Kendari in August, 1945.

Black Market in Exams Quashed

KYOTO, Japan (AP)—Japanese students got wind that copies of spring entrance examinations papers for Kyoto University—an elite school and one of the hardest to enter—would soon be available on the black market. So did police.

The Kyoto prosecutor's office said they uncovered a plot and seized three persons involved in the plan to smuggle rejected prints of the examination papers out of Kyoto to prison. Such papers generally are printed in Japanese prisons because they are regarded safe.

Foreign-Breds, Batteur Share Stakes Honors

By ERNIE MASON

Desert Chief III, a 9-year-old from New Zealand, raced to a surprise win in the $23,700 San Marcos Turf Handicap Saturday at Santa Anita after Batteur captured the $28,700 Santa Maria Handicap for fillies and mares.

Both victories were unexpected as Batteur pinch-hit for stablemate Face The Facts, who bolted on the first turn and finished last.

In the 1 1/4-mile grass stakes, Desert Chief III coasted along in the middle of the field of 11 until the final turn where jockey Donald Ross put him to a drive and he out-gamed Polizante in a stretch battle to win by three-quarters of a length.

Cadiz, also from New Zealand, was third and Or Et Argent finished fourth. The first four horses all were foreign bred, Polizante coming from Argentina and Or Et Argent from France.

THE WINNER was timed in 2:01 for his first major American stakes victory and he returned $27.20, $11.60 and $7.00. Polizante paid $13.40 and $8.50 while Cadiz paid $6.80 to show.

In the Santa Maria, Batteur was impeded by her own stablemate when Face The Facts bolted and headed for the outer fence. With Batteur well off the pace, jockey Fernando Alvarez did not hurry the 5-year-old mare and kept her in seventh position.

Meanwhile, Affectionately and Curious Clover staged a duel on the pace. But as the field came to the second turn, Batteur began moving up on the inside and when they hit the stretch she came to the outside and caught the leaders inside the sixteenth pole.

PUTT-PUTT AT PEBBLE

ROCKY THOMPSON isn't the only sleeper in the field at Pebble Beach. Walking the course for the third day was just too much for this girl from Carmel, who conked out on her motor bike.

It's Rocky Beach Windup--Thompson (?) Leads by Two

By JERRY WYNN

PEBBLE BEACH — The winds howled, the stars cowed and along came Rocky Thompson.

Hugh (Rocky) Thompson is the astounding two-stroke leader of the $84,500 Bing Crosby national amateur golf championship heading into today's final round.

While Tony Lema was shooting 79 and PGA champion Bobby Nichols soared to 90 in a 45-mph gale and late afternoon rainstorm on the ocean-bordering Pebble Beach links Saturday, Thompson sneaked in early at Monterey Shore with a three-under par 68 for a 54-hole total of 212.

WHO IS Rocky Thompson?

He is 25, from Wichita Falls, Tex., and Houston U., a sophomore on the pro golf tour who won $1,151.98 in 1964. Stocky and moon-faced, he was "honestly overwhelmed" by the freak happenstance which saw him vault from 34th to first position.

Who is Rocky Thompson? "He's a prize-fighter, isn't he?" joked Lema.

No one gives Thompson a prayer today when the entire field plays at Pebble Beach, where conditions were so bad Saturday that a PGA official commented, "Those aren't whales out there in the ocean. They're golfers washed away."

First off the tee Saturday and playing in competitively gentle weather, Thompson will be last off the tee today. He shot 74 at Pebble Beach in good weather Thursday.

In second place at 214 are two other players who did not have to battle the late typhoon Saturday. They are Harold Kneese, a squat South Carolinian, who shot 69 at Cypress Point, and Bobby Harris of Winnetka, Ill., who came in with a 73 at Monterey Shore.

A three-stroke leader at the start of play, Lema dropped into a three-way tie for fourth place at 215 with Australia's Bruce Crampton and Texan Jacky Cupit.

Crampton tied for low round at Pebble Beach with Bud Holscher at 73, but they also missed the moon-son.

WINDY ACE ON 3-IRON

Normally a pro would flip a wedge shot to the hole.

But Saturday the wind was so strong that B&I Air Country Club pro Ed Merriins decided to use a 3-iron. It was a wise choice of clubs.

The ball went into the cup on the second bounce for a hole-in-one.

—JERRY WYNN

Bill Casper shot 76 at Pebble to stand alone at 203.

At Cypress Point, many scores were ruined on the final four ocean holes. On the 367-yard 17th hole "it was blowing so hard I couldn't even hold the club," said Al Bessellink, who used two drivers, 3-wood, 4-iron, 7-iron and two putts for a 7 in a round of 92.

Big George Bayer and his long-time partner, Morgan Barofsky, took over the lead in the pro-amateur division with 61 for 193. They are one stroke ahead of George Archer and San Francisco golf writer Nelson Cullenward.

Among Long Beach amateurs, Julie Besco and Fred Hawkins had 74 at Pebble for 208 and Dan Riddler with Jerry Krueger 77 at Cypress for 223. Both missed the cutoff mark of 203.

The score of no return for the pros was 224 and among the casualties was Wayne Sleppy of Long Beach, who shot 81 at Monterey for 248.

Thompson went out in 32 Saturday. He birdied the first hole on a 7-foot putt, the third on a 9-footer and missed putts of 6 and 4 feet for birdies on the next two holes. He came back to birdie the sixth on a 15-footer and the seventh on a 66-foot snake, which he paced off himself and described as a "Wes Ellis Special."

Coming home in 36, Rocky hit the green with a 4-wood for a birdie on the 449-yard 11th, but bogied the 13th with "three terrible shots" and the 17th by taking three putts.

"THE WIND didn't start blowing until the back nine," said Thompson, "and it didn't bother me much. I was very lucky."

Lema battled all the way for his 79. "I haven't made 80 in a long time, but was really sweating this one out."

At Cypress Point, many scores were ruined on the final four ocean holes. On the 367-yard 17th hole "it was blowing so hard I couldn't even hold the club," said Al Bessellink, who used two drivers, 3-wood, 4-iron, 7-iron and two putts for a 7 in a round of 92.

Big George Bayer and his long-time partner, Morgan Barofsky, took over the lead in the pro-amateur division with 61 for 193. They are one stroke ahead of George Archer and San Francisco golf writer Nelson Cullenward.

Among Long Beach amateurs, Julie Besco and Fred Hawkins had 74 at Pebble for 208 and Dan Riddler with Jerry Krueger 77 at Cypress for 223. Both missed the cutoff mark of 203.

The score of no return for the pros was 224 and among the casualties was Wayne Sleppy of Long Beach, who shot 81 at Monterey for 248.

Thompson, who won only $180 in the L.A. and San Diego Opens, is playing in his first Crosby tournament.

"I've got 18 sponsors," he revealed. "I had to sell shares in myself to get enough money to get on the tour. I sold them for $1,200 a full share, $600 a half share and $300 a quarter share."

Asked if his girl friend has a share, Rocky responded, "No. She only has an interest."

Thompson went out in 32 Saturday. He birdied the first hole on a 7-foot putt, the third on a 9-footer and missed putts of 6 and 4 feet for birdies on the next two holes. He came back to birdie the sixth on a 15-footer and the seventh on a 66-foot snake, which he paced off himself and described as a "Wes Ellis Special."

But Saturday the wind was so strong that B&I Air Country Club pro Ed Merriins decided to use a 3-iron. It was a wise choice of clubs.

The ball went into the cup on the second bounce for a hole-in-one.

MILLS HAS BEEN toasted in half the hamlets of America since his 10,000-to-1 victory in the Olympic 10,000 meters, but Young roasted him.

Gerry Lindgren, a little fellow who would have to put on 10 pounds before he could be called undernourished, blazed off with a 61.3 lead lap and remained on top of the pack by margins up to 20 yards until Mills surged ahead with 800 yards to glory.

Lindgren was right behind Mills, and Young was right behind Lindgren until only 440 yards remained. Lindgren moved at Mills, but Young blurred past and sprinted like a sure thing all the way home.

HIS LAST quarter mile was clocked at 58.3, his margin over Mills was 20 yards, while Lindgren was another 15 yards back. Young's time of 8:41.2 broke the arena and meet records. Mills, a young husky who runs like a freight train but much faster, was timed in 8:44.8, Lindgren in 8:47.2.

Young, voted "athlete of the meet," said "I'm running for fun now. My workouts are just 30% of what they used to be. I'll continue running as long as it's fun. This was my fastest two-mile, but I still prefer the steeplechase."

"Too many banquet commitments, I guess," laughed Mills. "I've had only three or four hard workouts this year. I was delighted with my time, the fastest I've ever run. I figured Lindgren was out of shape and to win I would have to build up a big lead over Young. But he just went past—whoosh!"

Lindgren's plan was "to kill 'em off with a fast pace, but it just didn't work."

McCullough was the greatest high school hurdler in the U.S. last year. This year he may be the greatest college hurdler.

It was a rout. McCullough, showing the greatest pickup since the U.S. Olympic team invaded Tokyo nightclubs, was a gun to tape winner.

The final field of five broke together, but by the time they reached the first hurdle the race was over. McCullough was a yard ahead, and there was more margin to come.

McCullough was a decisive winner in 7.2. Rex Cawley, Olympic champion at second in the two-mile relay 400 meter hurdles, was given (dropped baton), with Ralph the same time in second place, Lee anchoring in an outstanding Walt Butler third in 7.3 ing 1:53.9 880 that carried the and two-time Olympic long 49ers from fourth to second.

TWO NOTABLE Olympians scratched. Meet director Herschel Smith agreed that they had noteworthy reasons. Shot-putter Randy Matson was grounded by a Texas blizzard. Pole vaulter Don Jesy broke his leg in practice early in the week.

Dyrol Burleson toyed with the mile field. His big sprint won easily in 4:07.2.

Long Beach State finished second in the two-mile relay (dropped baton), with Ralph the same time in second place, Lee anchoring in an outstanding Walt Butler third in 7.3 ing 1:53.9 880 that carried the and two-time Olympic long 49ers from fourth to second.

Foreign-Breds, Batteur Share Stakes Honors

By ERNIE MASON Desert Chief III, a 9-year-old from New Zealand, raced to a surprise win in the $28,700 San Marcos Turf Handicap Saturday at Santa Anita after Batteur captured the $28,700 Santa Maria Handicap for fillies and mares. Both victories were unexpected as Batteur pinched for stablemate Face The Facts, who bolted on the first turn and finished last. In the 1 1/4-mile grass stakes, Desert Chief III coasted along in the middle of the field of 11 until the final turn, where jockey Donald Ross put him to a drive and he out-gamed Polizonte in a stretch battle to win by three-quarters of a length. Cadiz, also from New Zealand, was third and Or Et Argent finished fourth. The first four horses all were foreign bred, Polizonte coming from Argentina and Or Et Argent from France.

THE WINNER was timed in 2:01 for his first major American stakes victory and he returned $27.20, $11.60 and $7.00. Polizonte paid $13.40 and $8.80 while Cadiz paid $6.80 to show. In the Santa Maria, Batteur was impeded by her own stablemate when Face The Facts bolted and headed for the outer fence. With Batteur well off the pace, jockey Fernando Alvarez did not hurry the 5-year-old mare and kept her in seventh position. Meanwhile, Affectionately and Curious Clover staged a duel on the pace. But as the field came to the second turn, Batteur began moving up on the inside and when they hit the stretch she came to the outside and caught the leaders inside the sixteenth pole.

PUTT-PUTT AT PEBBLE

ROCKY THOMPSON isn't the only sleeper in the field at Pebble Beach. Walking the course for the third day was just too much for this girl from Carmel, who conked out on her motor bike.

It's Rocky Beach Windup--Thompson (?) Leads by Two

By JERRY WYNN 1, PUT Staff Writer PEBBLE BEACH — The winds howled, the stars cowed and along came Rocky Thompson. Hugh (Rocky) Thompson is the astounding two-stroke leader of the $84,500 Bing Crosby national pro-amateur golf championship heading into today's final round. While Tiny Lema was shooting 79 and PGA champion Bobby Nichols soared to 90 in a 45-mph gale and late afternoon rainstorm on the ocean-bordering Pebble Beach links Saturday, Thompson sneaked in early at Monterey Shore with a three-under par 68 for a 54-hole total of 212. WHO IS Rocky Thompson? He is 25, from Wichita Falls, Tex., and Houston U., a sophomore on the pro golf tour who won $1,151.98 in 1964. Stocky and moon-faced, he was "honestly overwhelmed" by the freak happenstance which saw him vault from 34th to first position. Who is Rocky Thompson? "He's a prize-fighter, isn't he?" joked Lema. But Saturday the wind was so strong that Bel Air Country Club pro Ed Merrens decided to use a 3-iron. It was a wise choice of clubs. The ball went into the cup on the second bounce for a hole-in-one. It was the first ace of the year on the PGA tour. —JERRY WYNN

No one gives Thompson a prayer today when the entire field plays at Pebble Beach, where conditions were so bad Saturday that a PGA official commented, "Those aren't whales out there in the ocean. They're golfers washed away." First off the tee Saturday and playing in comparatively gentle weather, Thompson will be last off the tee today. He shot 74 at Pebble Beach in good weather Thursday. In second place at 214 are two other players who did not have to battle the late typhoon Saturday. They are Harold Kneece, a squat South Carolinian, who shot 69 at Cypress Point, and Bobby Harris of Winnetka, Ill., who came in with a 73 at Monterey Shore. A three-stroke leader at the start of play, Lema dropped into a three-way tie for fourth place at 215 with Australia's Bruce Crampton and Texan Jacky Cupit. Crampton tied for low round at Pebble Beach with Bud Holscher at 73, but they also missed the moon-son. "I THINK I'm in pretty good shape for shooting 79," said Lema, who double-bogied the 16th and 17th holes. "These were the worst conditions I've played in since the British Open." Bill Casper shot 76 at Pebble to stand alone at 216 and rank with Lema as the top challengers to Thompson today. Casper called the wind "the fiercest I've ever played in. The sand was blowing so hard, I could hardly see." Jack Nicklaus shot 77 for 217 to place five strokes behind Thompson, but Arnold Palmer's 77 left him far back at 222. Among those unfortunate souls who encountered the pelting rain as well as the winds at Pebble Beach, Doug Sanders shot 82, Charlie Sifford 83, Jimmy Demaret 84, George Knudson, Don January and Don Massengale (a 65 shooter Friday) 88, England's Tony Grubb and Nichols 90, Bo Wininger 91 and Walter Burkemo 92. At Cypress Point, many scores were ruined on the final four ocean holes. On the 367-yard 17th hole "it was blowing so hard I couldn't even hold the club," said Al Bessellink, who used two drivers, 3-wood, 4-iron, 7-iron and two putts for a 7 in a round of 82. Big George Bayer and his long-time partner, Morgan Barofsky, took over the lead in the pro-amateur division with 61 for 193. They are one stroke ahead of George Archer and San Francisco golf writer Nelson Cullenward.

The score of no return for the pros was 224 and among the casualties was Wayne Slepely of Long Beach, who shot 81 at Monterey for 248. Thompson, who won only $180 in the L.A. and San Diego Opens, is playing in his first Crosby tournament. "I've got 18 sponsors," he revealed. "I had to sell shares in myself to get enough money to get on the tour. I sold them for $1,200 a full share, $600 a half share and $300 a quarter share." Asked if his girl friend has a share, Rocky responded, "No. She only has an interest." Thompson went out in 32 Saturday. He birdied the first hole on a 7-foot putt, the third on a 9-footer and missed putts of 6 and 4 feet for birdies on the next two holes. He came back to birdie the sixth on a 15-footer and the seventh on a 66-foot snake, which he paced off himself and described as a "Wes Ellis Special." Coming home in 36, Rocky hit the green with a 4-wood for a birdie on the 449-yard 11th, but bogied the 13th with "three terrible shots" and the 17th by taking three putts. "THE WIND didn't start blowing until the back nine," said Thompson, "and it didn't bother me much. I was very lucky." Lema battled all the way for his 79. "I haven't made 80 in a long time, but was really sweating this one out." Champagne Tiny had four birdies to go along with seven bogies and three double bogies. Among his birdies was a 30-foot putt and a 7-iron two feet from the pin on the 400-yard 13th. He also birdied the rugged 18th on a six-foot putt. Lema hit a tree, ditch and sand trap for his double bogey on the 16th and chipped into a trap for a five on the impossible 218-yard 17th. "The sand was so heavy on those greens," he cracked, "I was afraid to ground my club on the green and get a two-stroke penalty."

By JERRY WYNN

PEBBLE BEACH—Doug Sanders peered across the ocean leg which separates the tee from the 16th green at Cypress Point. The pin-flag, 222 yards distant, looked like a pin. The angry surf slashed at the cliff rocks and exhausted its voyage in leaps of foam.

Sanders took dead aim at the target, assumed his inimitable wide, duck-footed stance, wiggled and jiggled to get set, addressed the ball . . . and backed away with a shrug, laugh and a cry of, "No, I can't do it."

Two under par at the scene, he knew he would be taking a giant gamble by attempting the hazardous ocean crossing instead of playing safely to the fairway arm. But no one ever has accused Doug Sanders of being conservative. Handsome, dapper and fun-loving, the 31-year-old gallery favorite is called the Clown Prince of Golf. He is a swinger on and off the course.

Sanders went back to his ball, addressed it with his driver, poked at it with his short, quick backswing and the ball sailed to the green 12 feet from the pin.

What were you thinking about on the tee, Doug?

"You start thinking of how you are going to play the 16th from the time you tee off on the first hole. It's a great challenge to a golfer. You can choose to lay up on the fairway for an easy bogey or show a lot of guts and go for the green, but that way you can bite off more than you can chew. It's every man's decision for himself."

Do you enjoy playing in the Crosby tournament?

"Yes, it is one of my favorites. Bing is one of the nicest guys in the world and Maurice Luford, the tournament director, does a wonderful job. They are such genuinely fine fellows that a lot of celebrities show up because of them."

Do you have a favorite among the three courses?

"Cypress Point. It takes more finesse. You have to hit some low shots and some high shots. Accuracy is the thing. It favors my game. I shot a 69 Friday, but I had 15 birdie putts under 20 feet that I didn't make."

How did you develop your famous short backswing?

"When I learned to play at home in Georgia, caddies weren't permitted on the country club course. But we used to sneak on. The hole we played had honeysuckle on one side and a creek on the other. Naturally we wanted to pick up before the members spotted us. If we went off the fairway, we would lose golf balls. I developed the short swing to stay on the fairway."

Would you recommend it to all golfers?

"Definitely. The average person comes out to enjoy the sunshine, not look for their lost balls. Too many people go slug-slug and are hitting into the bushes. If they took a shorter backswing, they would catch the ball solid more often."

Which pros have the best swing?

"I wish I could play like Nicklaus. He doesn't have the best swing, but he gets the best results. There really aren't many great swings in golf. Snead is probably the greatest because he is so limber and double-jointed. Some of the kids on the tour have better swings than some of the stars."

Who among the kids do you think will become a star?

"There are so many good ones, you just shake any bush here and they come pouring out. I like Raymond Floyd. He reminds me of Nicklaus."

Do you still enjoy the tour as much today as you did when you broke in seven years ago?

"Yes, maybe more so. I love life and in this kind of life you get to meet so many nice people. But you have to be wary of pitfalls on the tour. The glamour is fantastic. There are many charming young ladies in the gallery and many parties at night. If you are a single man like myself and enjoy life, you have to be careful not to overdo it."

What has been the greatest thrill of your career?

"The greatest thrill I have is to wake up in the morning and see the sun shining."

An appealing and refreshing personality is Golf's Clown Prince, Doug Sanders.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Just then and it gave the game color," Branca said. "Now, a player says two words and he's gone."

"Every now and then I get an urge to get back into baseball," he confided. "It's my first love and it's been my whole life. Coming from a family of 17 kids, it would have really been a struggle without baseball."

When they razed the old Polo Grounds last year, no one would have blamed Branca if he stood in the shadows of Coogan's Bluff wielding a sledge hammer in each hand. But Branca knows on which side his bread is buttered.

"I didn't mind pitching there, really," Branca insisted. "I was a Giants fan as a kid and I hated to see it go down. Besides, if I hadn't thrown that pitch, I'd be just another guy who played baseball."

That pitch? In case you don't remember, ask a certain employee of West Virginia Paper and Pulp Co. His name is Bobby Thomson.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The first appearance of Wilt Chamberlain was a success, victory-wise and financially, and the statisticians who compile everything but pulse and temperature for the records were their normal busy selves.

The voices droned, "Costello, six field goals, five set shots the first half, one the second . . . etc."

The figures were for Larry Costello of the Philadelphia 76ers, just about the last of the two-handed set shot artists in the National Basketball Association.

MAN AND BOY, Costello has been tossing them with both hands from the time he was a school kid with high court ideas, through college and through 10 years of the NBA with smooth, consistent success.

Costello figures at least 60% of field goal attempts are two-hand sets, and for those who dabble in figures, his accuracy runs in the neighborhood of 43 to 44%.

"I've been using it as far back as I can remember, and there's no sense in changing it now," Costello said. "It seems the natural way of shooting to me."

Drysdale Stumbles On New Formula for Ace

By JERRY WYNN

PEBBLE BEACH—How to make a hole-in-one?

It's easy if you do it the Don Drysdale way.

Playing the 205-yard 12th hole at Pebble Beach Drysdale hit a tree with his tee shot and the ball ricocheted at a perfect 90-degree angle right onto the green. It stopped 12 feet from the hole and Don sank the putt for a natural birdie and a net hole-in-one.

Flushed with glory, Drysdale promptly slashed his next drive into the trees and this one stayed out of bounds.

One of baseball's great pitchers, Drysdale has the ignominious distinction of being the worst golfer among the 343 playing in the Bing Crosby tournament. His 18 world so many times, they are giving me a bronzed lunch box. If you follow me around the course today, you'll see seven new foreign countries."

Hope's partner, knicker-clad Jimmy Demaret, was being introduced as "that great all-time champion, winner of the Masters three times."

To which Hope stepped up to the tee and bowed.

BING CROSBY estimated there were more than 8,600 applications for the 174 amateur berths in the tournament. One of them was made by Jim Lange, a popular San Francisco disc jockey and the announcer for the Tennessee Ernie Ford television show.

Lange had campaigned on the air for two years to receive an invitation. It was a standing gag for him to open probably the closest thing to them among pro athletes. They talk about the same things and love to kid each other the way ballplayers do."

Drysdale says the size of the galleries here don't bother him, "just the size of my score."

Another ballplayer, little Albie Pearson of the Angels, his own partner, Jim, has been asked to comment on turned the favor by using his Drysdale's handicap. Replied 11 handicap sensationally to the former pro-am winner boost the team among the pro-with a smile. "A guy that big shouldn't have any strokes. Eighteen strokes is a license to steal wallets."

PEBBLES: Long Beach pro Wayne Sleppey has been playing like a Dennis the Menace.

Does he get to keep the hole?

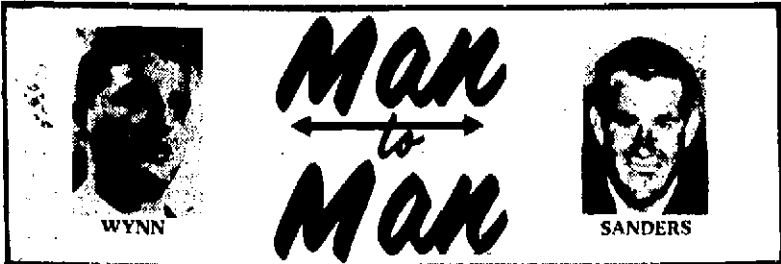

BORGER, Tex. (AP)—Russell Beckwith of Borger shot his third hole in one at Huber Golf Course Saturday—at the same hole, with the same club and the same brand of ball.

Beckwith got his ace on the 150-yard No. 13 hole using a No. 7 iron.

He also scored holes-in-one at the 13th on June 2, 1951, and Feb. 12, 1952.

A little birdie here told me that Bob Waterfield has been offered the position of offensive coach of the Rams.

Vacationing I, P.T. baseball writer Ross Newhan, normally a night-proowler, was up early enough the other day to see a whale spouting off of Cypress Point. He also ran into a deer at Monterey Shore. In the world life league, he is butting 1.00.

PEBBLE BEACH—Doug Sanders peered across the ocean leg which separates the ice from the 16th green at Cypress Point. The pin-flag, 222 yards distant, looked like a pin. The angry surf slashed at the cliff rocks and exhausted its voyage in leaps of foam.

Sanders took dead aim at the target, assumed his inimitable wide, duck-footed stance, wiggled and jiggled to get set, addressed the ball . . . and backed away with a shrug, laugh and a cry of, "No, I can't do it."

Two under par at the scene, he knew he would be taking a giant gamble by attempting the hazardous ocean crossing instead of playing safely to the fairway arm.

But no one ever has accused Doug Sanders of being conservative. Handsome, dapper and fun-loving, the 31-year-old gallery favorite is called the "Clown Prince of Golf." He is a swinger on and off the course.

Sanders went back to his ball, addressed it with his driver, poked at it with his short, quick backswing and the ball sailed to the green 12 feet from the pin.

What were you thinking about on the tee, Doug?

"You start thinking of how you are going to play the 16th from the time you tee-off on the first hole. It's a great challenge to a golfer. You can choose to lay up on the fairway for an easy bogey or show a lot of guts and go for the green, but that way you can bite off more than you can chew. It's every man's decision for himself."

Do you enjoy playing in the Crosby tournament?

"Yes, it is one of my favorites. Bing is one of the nicest guys in the world and Maury Luxford, the tournament director, does a wonderful job. They are such genuinely fine fellows that a lot of celebrities show up because of them."

Do you have a favorite among the three courses?

"Cypress Point. It takes more finesse. You have to hit some low shots and some high shots. Accuracy is the thing. It favors my game. I shot a 69 Friday, but I had 15 birdie putts under 20 feet that I didn't make."

How did you develop your famous short backswing?

"When I learned to play at home in Georgia, caddies weren't permitted on the country club course. But we used to sneak on. The hole we played had honeysuckle on one side and a creek on the other. Naturally we wanted to pick up before the members spotted us. If we went off the fairway, we would lose golf balls. I developed the short swing to stay on the fairway."

Would you recommend it to all golfers?

"Definitely. The average person comes out to enjoy the sunshine, not look for their lost balls. Too many people go slug-slug and are hitting into the bushes. If they took a shorter backswing, they would catch the ball solid more often."

Which pros have the best swing?

"I wish I could play like Nicklaus. He doesn't have the best swing, but he gets the best results. There really aren't many great swings in golf. Snead is probably the greatest because he is so limber and double-jointed. Some of the kids on the tour have better swings than some of the stars."

Who among the kids do you think will become a star?

"There are so many good ones, you just shake any bush here and they come pouring out. I like Raymond Floyd. He reminds me of Nicklaus."

Do you still enjoy the tour as much today as you did when you broke in seven years ago?

"Yes, maybe more so. I love life and in this kind of life you get to meet so many nice people. But you have to be wary of pitfalls on the tour. The glamour is fantastic. There are many charming young ladies in the gallery and many parties at night. If you are a single man like myself and enjoy life, you have to be careful not to overdo it."

What has been the greatest thrill of your career?

"The greatest thrill I have is to wake up in the morning and see the sun shining."

'Only One Johnny Morris'

Star football players have been discovered in some mighty unusual places, but perhaps the rarest case concerns the one who was first found playing touch football on the intramural field.

That's the background of Long Beach's Johnny Morris, who has written one of the most fabulous success stories in professional football with the Chicago Bears despite the fact he is one of the smallest men in a game now packed with "monsters."

It is fitting that his hometown will honor him Thursday night.

Because of his size and inexperience—he played only 2½ seasons of football in eight years of high school and college—only one man felt that he had any kind of a chance to make it in pro ball... the man who recommended him to George Halas.

What makes the Morris story even more fantastic is that he didn't turn out for football until his third year at UC of Santa Barbara and then only at the urging of an assistant coach who spotted him in a game of touch.

There has been a false story going around that Johnny played class B football at Poly High, but up to the time he reported for football at Santa Barbara, his competitive athletic career had been limited to track where he competed in the sprints, broad jump and relay. His favorite and best event was the 100-yard dash.

HE WON THREE LETTERS at Poly in track under coach Lee Forman. As a sophomore in the spring of 1951, Johnny competed as a "C" (he was 5-6 and 130 pounds), was clocked in 10.9 seconds and finished second in the league finals.

The next year, he moved up to the "B" team and although he was timed at 10.6, he was the No. 2 sprinter behind teammate Milton Morrill.

There was no rush from college recruiters for his track services and he finally approached Sam Dimas of the Poly coaching staff to inquire about Santa Barbara, the school Sam had attended.

Sam said he would be happy to show him the school and introduce him to the coaches and a visit to the campus produced an athletic scholarship of sorts and, as fate would it, Johnny enrolled at Santa Barbara in the fall of 1953.

John switched majors in mid-stream—from physical education to business—and thus spent five years at Santa Barbara. But it wasn't until his third year (1953) that he donned football togs for the first time.

RAY THORNTON, ONE OF THE assistant football coaches, also was the faculty advisor for Johnny's fraternity and recalls that "I stopped by the intramural field after practice one day to watch my fraternity boys play their touch football game. And it was then that I spotted John. He did everything—ran a kick back for a touchdown, caught a TD pass and ran for another TD from scrimmage."

"After the game I talked to him about going out for football even though the season was already half over. I introduced him to Stan Williamson, then head coach and presently the athletic director, and the following day—a Tuesday—he showed up for practice."

Williamson, an all-America at USC in the 1930s and who once was considered for the Trojan coaching job, had not had very much material at Santa Barbara, but he hadn't forgotten what a good player looked like.

"Before the week was over, I remember Stan telling me that Morris would be a great one. He was never more correct."

"John only learned a few plays that week, but he played against Long Beach State that weekend. I remember we hit him on a swing pass and he almost scored on our longest gain of the night. From then on, he was a first stringer and the next two years he was selected on the all-league team."

JOHNNY'S BIGGEST BREAK in regard to his future in pro ball came when Ed Cody, a former player and scout for the Chicago Bears, took over as head coach the following year—'56.

"John was signed by the Bears strictly on Cody's recommendation to George Halas," Thornton reveals. "Everyone overlooked him because of his size (170), but Ed knew pro talent when he saw it and kept urging Halas to give him a trial."

"One thing that helped John in his bid for a spot on the team as a rookie was that Cody had used the Bear offense and their terminology, thus he was able to learn the Halas system more quickly."

Even with that advantage, though, Morris nearly was cut in his first year. He was the last man to survive the cut and Halas shudders everytime he thinks about it.

Meanwhile, Thornton has been hopefully watching intramural football more carefully ever since he spotted Johnny, but with no further luck.

As he says, "There is only one Johnny Morris!"

The Twitching Corpse

The New York Boxing boxing's most recent demise, Writers Association tossed its Freddie Brooks, of a closed-circuit outfit called Sports-Vision, talked of his plan to revive the game.

He is marshalling promoters in key cities like Chicago, Sam Silverman in Boston, and perhaps others for a closed-circuit show every other week or 26 a year.

If Dundee, for example, were to match Willie Past-rano and Jose Torres for the light-heavyweight champion-ship in Florida, the fight would be piped to the arenas where the other promoters of the group operate and would be shown there as the main event, with a live card "un-derneath."

The promoter making the fight would receive, in addition to his own box office, $15,000 or more from closed circuit, these payments be-fore being scaled according to the size of his town. With this income he would be able, Jack Slack, a crook, Slack and Brooks believes, to operate at his shoddy successors brought a profit and offer attractive purses.

BROOKS had the theater-television for both Sonny Lis-ton-Floyd Patterson bouts and was to have handled it for the Liston rematch with Cas-sius Clay in Boston last No-vember. He still has the rights to the return fight and if it ever comes off he may re-coup what he lost on Clay's hernia.

However, shows run by the proposed combine would not be distributed to the movie houses; there aren't enough good matches available to bring fans into the theaters

WHILE speakers bewailed 26 times a year. These fights

Rose Bowl Rodeo Set for Today

By BUCK LANIER

Today's the day for the first Rose Bowl Rodeo, replete with chariot races, in Pasadena's Rose Bowl.

The affair starts at 2 p.m. and upwards to 20,000 fans are expected to be on hand.

A full slate of Rodeo Cow-boy Association-approved events will be run off with the purse of $15,000.

Famed saddle bronc rider Casey Tibbs is sponsor along with the Arcadia Mounted Police. A large share of the proceeds will go to charity.

The chariot race, celebrity calf-tying headed by Glenn Ford, antics of the bull-fight-ing, clowns and the rodeo competition itself will make for an entertaining 2½ hours.

The Rose Bowl offers plenty of parking and the gates will be open at 12:30.

The Twitching Corpse

The New York Boxing Writers Association tossed its 40th annual dinner the other night. It was held in the Waldorf because the funeral chapel at Frank E. Campbell's is too small and Woodlawn too cold.

One after another, mourners stepped up to lay rhetorical posies on boxing's grave. There was much talk of federal control. There were dark references to the two underworld elements. It was the best-attended wake of the winter.

Again and again the words were heard, "Everything I am I owe to boxing." Some who said it are wealthy. All are men of substance and wide renown. None seemed aware of the paradox that the game in which they prospered and won fame had died more than a century before they were born.

It was killed in 1750 when Jack Broughton, the Father of Boxing, who is buried in Westminster Abbey, lost the heavyweight championship to Jack Slack, a crook. Slack and his shoddy successors brought pugilism into such disrepute that, as Nat Fleischer notes, when a bum named Jack Harris claimed the title, "so great was public apathy that no attempt was made to find a challenger."

Yet the cadaver stirred, for the historian tells us of William Thompson, called Bendigo, an exemplary character who was champion 100 years after Slack. "When he was in prison for the 28th time, Bendigo was strangely moved by a sermon by the chaplain, and on his release embarked on a new career as an evangelist."

WHILE speakers bewailed would be seen only in the clubs operated by the group, without competition from home TV or the theaters.

Dundee, Schoenwald, and Parnassus would assign the dates and the individual promoters would make up their own cards. Successful, it would be a step toward realization of the fight mob's dream—the return of boxing to the small clubs.

The theory is that a major show in the area creating the opportunity for a pay day every other week would stimulate interest among young boxers, increase the flow of talent and enable the promoters to build up local attractions.

rates Parker "among the all-time great coaches in the league."

The Steelers have never won an Eastern Conference title since obtaining a league franchise in 1933.

"I have been harboring one big ambition," Parker said after meeting with Rooney. "Everyone knows that Art deserves a title and I want to be the coach to win it for him. He has given unstinting service to the league and yet on the field fate has been most unkind to him."

Ex-Footballers Form L.B. State Rugby Club

Long Beach State College's latest addition in the activity field, a rugby club, goes after its fourth win of the season Sunday in a game against University Club of Los Angeles on the L.B. State field.

Composed primarily of former 49er football players, the club will be looking for its third victory in three tries in Southern California Rugby Union play.

A game somewhat similar in style to football, rugby is played on a field 75 yards wide and 125 yards long. There are 15 players to a team, and all play without benefit of pads.

Included in Sunday's lineup will be former LBSC stars Don Montgomery, Rex Burrell, Dick Parks, John Woods, Gordie Filzel, John Reed and several others.

It will be the club's second home game of the season and admission is free. Game time is 2 p.m.

A week ago Saturday the 49ers dropped a 14-12 decision to San Diego State and Sunday stopped Navy Phib-pac, 11-5.

Rose Bowl Rodeo Set for Today

By BUCK LANIER

Today's the day for the first Rose Bowl Rodeo, replete with chariot races, in Pasadena's Rose Bowl.

The affair starts at 2 p.m. and upwards to 20,000 fans are expected to be on hand.

A full slate of Rodeo Cowboy Association-approved events will be run off with the purse of $15,000.

Famed saddle bronc rider Casey Tibbs is sponsor along with the Arcadia Mounted Police. A large share of the proceeds will go to charity.

The chariot race, celebrity call-tying headed by Glenn Ford, antics of the bull-fighting clowns and the rodeo competition itself will make for an entertaining 2½ hours.

The Rose Bowl offers plenty of parking and the gates will be open at 12:30.

Lakewood Dominates Swim Meet

The powerful Lakewood Aquatic Club dominated almost all divisions in an SPAAU age-group swimming meet held at Morningside High Saturday. No official score was kept.

Doug Green had placed in three events, counting a heat race, and Sue Bestudik and Ann Hoffman won firsts in girls 10 and under to lead Lakewood.

The meet resumes today at 9 a.m.

M'Queen, Remick in Rain Must Fall

"Baby the Rain Must Fall," the problems of McQueen in starring Steve McQueen, Lee Remick and Don Murray. Directed by Robert Mulligan, the cast also includes Paul Fix, Josephine Hutchinson and Ruth White.

The film, scripted by Horton Foote, is about a paroled song-writer-guitar-player, McQueen, married to Miss Remick. Out of the penitentiary, McQueen, his wife and daughter, played by 6-year-old Kimberly Block, who debuts in an important role, try to re-establish a home. McQueen takes a nightclub singing job; his wife works as a waitress.

The story revolves around the interest. Recommended for adults only.

ACTUAL SCENES of what goes on in the world are put together in a feature length film, "Mondo Pazzo" (Crazy World), also opening Wednesday in the area.

There are no individual stars in the 50-episode film import—it is the people and what they do in some 20 areas of the world that make for the interest. Recommended for adults only.

"HUSH HUSH, Sweet Charlotte," the fright-film starring Bette Davis, Olivia de Havilland, Joseph Cotten, Mary Astor and co-starring Agnes Moorehead, Cecil Kellaway and guest star Victor Buono, is being held over.

LEE REMICK and Steve McQueen try to build new life in Texas after he is paroled from jail in "Baby the Rain Must Fall."

Carter's Usual Color Livid

BY EARL WILSON
NEW YORK—Jack Carter, the angry comedian, was in Sardi's one night with Paula Stewart, his sensationally beautiful wife, when he suddenly turned livid, which is his usual color.

"Let's go!" he snarled. He'd been looking at the caricatures of Broadway celebrities hanging in the dining room. "I've been around Broadway for 20 years, and haven't made The Wall yet!"

Jack's off-the-stage blow-ups are getting increasingly famous. Paula says it's because he's a perfectionist.

"He can't stand anything not being exactly right," Paula says. "He doesn't order food in restaurants, he orders sendbacks. He averages two send-back dishes every meal—and that's in the best restaurants."

"HE'S A neatness nut," according to Paula. "His favorite exercise is running the sweeper over the carpet at the end of the day. He can't stand seeing heel marks on it."

"Before we were married, he took me to see his apartment, and he made me take my shoes off at the door. He's got a 10-year-old Thunderbird that has only 50,000 miles on it and looks like a new one. One little scratch and he gets it completely overhauled."

Jack's explosions have befuddled some of Paula's friends, but Paula's learned to handle him. "I yell louder than he does," she says.

But he was extremely kind when they worked together in a comedy act, leading Paula to say, "I'd rather work with him than live with him."

HE GOT maddest, though, when he went to a hospital for a checkup.

"They took a specimen of my blood and let it set on the floor for two days," he said. "A doctor ran hollering, 'You got sugar in your blood.' I said, 'I probably got mold in it, too, from you leaving it on the floor two days.'"

"Nobody came near me for 36 hours but the clean-up man who said, 'As soon as I finish mopping, I'll wash my hands and give you a cardiograph.' Talk about a mixed up hospital. They wanted to put me in a maternity ward. And all my friends kept sending me these love, romance and sex books like 'Candy.' I found myself smiling at the 75-year-old nurse and calling her 'Honey.'"

Jack goes into the Americana Royal Box Jan. 25. Do you think he's going to be happy there?

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: If you can't think of any other way to flatter a man (notes George Kirby), tell him he's the kind of man who can't be flattered.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Many people live alone and like it, but most of them live alone and look it."—Arnold Glasgow.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Women's styles may change but their designs remain the same."—Hugh Park.

EARL'S PEARLS: Behind every successful man (said a Teddy's diner) is a man who says he went to public school with him.

Only Actor With Hurricane Contract Clause

ANGRY COMIC

Carter's Usual Color Livid

BY EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Jack Carter, the angry comedian, was in Sardi's one night with Paula Stewart, his sensationally beautiful wife, when he suddenly turned livid, which is his usual color.

"Let's go!" he snarled. He'd been looking at the caricatures of Broadway celebrities hanging in the dining room. "I've been around Broadway for 20 years, and haven't made 'The Wall' yet!"

Jack's off-the-stage blow-ups are getting increasingly famous, Paula says it's because he's a perfectionist.

"He can't stand anything not being exactly right," Paula says. "He doesn't order food in restaurants, he orders sendbacks. He averages two send-back dishes every meal—and that's in the best restaurants."

"HE'S A neatness nut," according to Paula. "His favorite exercise is running the sweeper over the carpet at the end of the day. He can't stand seeing heel marks on it. Before we were married, he took me to see his apartment, and he made me take my shoes off at the door. He's got a 10-year-old Thunderbird that has only 50,000 miles on it and looks like a new one. One little scratch and he gets it completely overhauled."

Jacks explosions have offended some of Paula's friends, but Paula learned to handle him. "I yell louder than he does," she says.

But he was extremely kind when they worked together in a comedy act, leading Paula to say, "I'd rather work with him than live with him."

HE GOT maddest, though, when he went to a hospital for a checkup.

"They took a specimen of my blood and let it set on the floor for two days," he said. "A doctor ran hollering, 'You got sugar in your blood.' I said, 'I probably got mold in it, too, from you leaving it on the floor two days.'"

"Nobody came near me for 36 hours but the clean-up man who said, 'As soon as I finish mopping, I'll wash my hands and give you a cardiograph.' Talk about a mixed up hospital. They wanted to put me in a maternity ward. And all my friends kept sending me these love, romance and sex books like 'Candy.' I found myself smiling at the 75-year-old nurse and calling her 'Honey.'"

Jack goes into the Americana Royal Box Jan. 25. Do

TODAY'S "BEST LAUGH:" If you can't think of any other way to flatter a man (notes George Kirby), tell him he's the kind of man who can't be flattered.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Many people live alone and like it, but most of them live alone and look it."—Arnold Glasgow.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Women's styles may change but their designs remain the same."—Hugh Park.

EARL'S PEARLS: Behind every successful man (said a 'Teddy's' diner) is a man who says he went to public school with him.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

Inauguration Over, LBJ Goes to Work on Great Society

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

Lyndon B. Johnson, the tall Texas Democrat Americans overwhelmingly chose as their President Nov. 3, was inaugurated last week. He pledged to work toward a world without hate and full of promise for all.

Former Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota was installed as vice president—a post that had been vacant since Johnson moved into the White House 14 months ago after the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

The swearing in at the capitol was accompanied by traditional pomp and ceremony, a parade, parties and balls. For Johnson, the 36th president, it was the attainment of a dream: To become chief executive in his own right, not as the saddened replacement for a martyred leader.

To Humphrey it was the pinnacle of a long political career devoted to battles for the public weal, some times over great odds.

Johnson, now embarked upon a full four-year term, delivered an idealistic inaugural address tuned to the theme that all Americans were entitled to the benefits of his "great society" charter — justice, liberty, and union.

He made no legislative recommendations. These had been outlined in his State of the Union message. He talked instead of conquering poverty and ignorance and the need to put aside old divisions and hatreds. To the world at large he pledged that the United States seeks dominion over no man. "All we seek," he said, "is man's dominion over tyranny and misery." Then he recalled the Kennedy tragedy and repeated what he said that fateful day: "I will lead and I will do the best I can."

More than a million persons saw the parade—here for the first time of weapons of war — which Johnson preceded from the Capitol to the White House reviewing pavilion. The greatest security force in Washington history cordoned the area.

After the big show was over Johnson lost no time getting down to work. He met with congressional leaders, named Humphrey, who will now preside over the Senate, to a major legislative liaison role, and wound up his omnibus $100 billion budget which goes to Congress Monday.

Earlier he had sent Congress a special defense message recounting America's defense might and disclosing plans to make it even more potent. Included was a missile with twice the nuclear destructive power of the Polaris submarine missile much feared by Russia.

"The danger of war remains with us," the President said. "Preparedness is the most effective means of preserving peace." He nevertheless forecast a $300 million cut in his defense budget.

THE SOVIET UNION PLACED Johnson on an international hot spot meantime by testing a huge underground atomic device which polluted the atmosphere over Japan and the North Pacific. This was in apparent violation of the nuclear test-ban treaty though it may have been an accident.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk demanded an explanation from Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin. The United States is automatically freed to resume atmospheric testing if Moscow deliberately breaches the treaty. Thus the Russian act, if premeditated, could confront Johnson with a harsh decision: Should the U.S. resume testing and risk world censure?

The badly split Republican hierarchy took a giant strike toward party unity by meeting in Chicago and replacing controversial National Chairman Dean Burch with Ray C. Bliss, an old party pro from Ohio.

The change in command takes effect April 1. It was forced by intra-party rebellion against Barry Goldwater's conservative control. Bliss is regarded as a neutral technician around whom all party factions can rally.

Goldwater approved Burch's withdrawal in the interests of unity, even though he (Goldwater) must relinquish considerable authority to Bliss.

Burch bowed out gracefully. He said that without unity the party was in danger. Bliss promised to set up a party of opposition which will offer "constructive alternatives for the problems of our times."

The State Department admitted—after public denials—that North Vietnamese Communist military forces were building up strength in Laos and moving southward, perhaps toward red-beleaguered South Viet Nam. It described the situation as "cause for concern but not alarm."

North Vietnamese troops have operated in Laos for several years, fighting on the side of the Communist Pathet Lao in violation of the Geneva Treaty neutralizing the little kingdom. The United States recently bombed their supply lines to protect both Laos and South Viet Nam.

In Saigon, South Viet Nam, meantime, a Buddhist-inspired mob of 1,000 damaged the U.S. Embassy and U.S. Information Service buildings in riots protesting against American support of Premier Tran Van Huong's government.

At Selma, Ala., seat of racial trouble, Jerry Robinson, a white segregationist and states rightist, was fined and sentenced to jail for slugging Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Noble Prize-winning Negro leader. King was registering at a previously all-white hotel during a desegregation crusade.

The State Department confirmed that a Burundi native employed by the U.S. Embassy in Bujumbura had assassinated the little African nation's premier, Pierre Ngendandumwe, who was well regarded here. The department offered Burundi "all possible assistance in its investigation." Communist Chinese agents have been operating in the area.

The Air Force Academy in Colorado announced the resignation of 29 cadets in the wake of a cheating scandal. Faculty members were absolved.

BRITAIN'S former Foreign Minister Patrick Gordon Walker leaves the official ministry residence in London Friday after announcing his resignation. Gordon Walker was defeated Thursday in a Parliamentary by-election.

Coordinated Living Room Groups

Magnificent contemporary grouping with gloriously compatible
mr. and mrs. chair duo...

The sofa . . . a treasure of tweed in a long, low eye-scanning sweep, accented with walnut tapered legs. Complimenting . . . an intimately contoured hi-back chair for him, and a not-so-hi-back chair for her, in fresh-from-the-paint-box floral prints . . . Reversible, zipper foam cushions are hugged by slim line tailoring. Solid hardwood construction in vivacious color combinations.

Kennick to Support Professors' Pay Bill

By BOB HOUSER
L.P.T. Political Editor

Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick, D-44th District (West Long Beach-Lakewood-Dominguez), said here Saturday he looks with favor on an emergency bill to allocate $281,052 to avoid a 1.8% pay cut among 3,000 state college professors.

Kennick is a member of the Ways and Means Committee whose chairman, Robert Crown, D-Oakland, will introduce the bill Monday with State Sen. Stephen Teale, D-West Point.

"I think such legislation is sound," said Kennick, "in that it fulfills what the Legislature intended with its original $2.9-million allocation, incorporating an approximate 5% increase for professors." Trustees of state colleges ordered the 1.8% cut Thursday in anticipation of the $281,000 salary budget deficit by next June 30. They said the college system has more than enough money to make up the deficit but is legally prohibited from using it for salaries.

LONG-WOOD GOP

known in barber shop circles, throughout the state, fill out the full program. They are the Coast Liners from Huntington Beach, the Merry Chords from Downey, and the Manhattans from Manhattan Beach. These more imaginatively cast and groups, all of whom have better acted "Another Part," placed in the top brackets of local and regional contests in recent years, are in great demand all over California and the West.

singing, the Long Beach chapter's chorus of 35 voices will present a series of choral numbers designed to fill the hall with melody. The chorus is made up of the finest voices selected from all of the quartets in the Long Beach area, welded together into one great singing group.

An outstanding characteristic of barber shop singers, all over the world, according to Carlin, is the almost spontaneous outpouring of song at the drop of a hat—any body's hat any place. And although most of the performers in the show have been professionals for some time, "subversive" and much family-envied still sing with the amateur's Union Pacific bonds, David sheer enthusiasm, Carlin says.

Tickets for the show may be ordered by mail by writing to: Russ Cunningham at 2377 Pacific Ave., Long Beach, or telephoning GARfied 4-8113.

Hellman Play Rates Cheers

By SAMUEL A. BOYE

Cast note for "The Little Foxes," Magnolia current production: Leave nothing to the tragic view of life? Just chance.

One actress is described, without quotes, as not only beautiful but talented.

One actor is said to be sensational, no matter what the part is. Which is more than we can say for Richard Burton—a pretty sturdy country hatter in our books.

Anyway, because we have a mind both talented and untidy, let's say without beating about the bush of praise: most of the cheering will be for Lillian Hellman's play itself.

IN THE INTRIGUING spectator sport she makes out of human suffering in the Deep South—Alabama at the turn of the century—conniving and plot twisting are what make her Trojan Horse run. But, as in "Another Part of the Forest," which preceded "The Little Foxes," Miss Hellman's greatness as an observer of the human dilemma heightens the play.

Eschewing hot-house sophistication, she accomplishes this feat with simple, enduring grace and compassion. She ignores the talented, beautiful and the surface sensational, and breaks bread with the unhappy character with the fading looks and the lowly Negro servant, suspicious of being made a beneficiary in her master's will.

Thus out of the mouth and dignified tones of Addie, the Negro housekeeper, gracefully played by comely Louisiana-born Faye Williams comes: "... Well, there are people who eat the earth and eat all the people on it like in the Bible with the locusts. Then there are people who stand around and watch them eat it. Sometimes I think it ain't right to stand and watch them do it."

SIGNIFICANTLY, Addie

addresses these words to the one other character actor on stage who seemed gifted enough to transform the play's myriad, dime-dropper novel details into a fully realized characterization. Brilliant Barbara Brooks as the fading Birdie was that performer. An unerring sense of the past made Miss Brooks' work the evening's outstanding contribution. And in this accurately accented context of the past, she evoked a clean compassion for her pathetic descent into a lonely alcoholic from an innocent, little girl who took her first elderlyberry wine to "cure" her hiccoughs.

Though not half as sensational as acclaimed, Carl Yates the made a competent, scheming Benjamin Hubbard, full of Beach, the Merry Chords from river boat gambler charm, Lawrence Aten, so fine in the from Manhattan Beach. These more imaginatively cast and groups, all of whom have better acted "Another Part," placed in the top brackets of local and regional contests in recent years, are in great demand all over California and the West.

High-stepping Negro actor,

Glenn Crenshaw, was an amusing manservant Cal, although, like Miss Williams, he was visibly too young for the part. Merrell Ann Haddan (Alexandra) was sharper in the final moments of her revolt in the play.

JACQUELINE SMALLEY

is indeed a beautiful, stately woman. But we are afraid that in the Tallulah Bankhead famous part of Regina, she impersonated Marie Antoinette testing the poison cake at the drop of a hat—any body's hat any place. And although most of the performers in the show have been professionals for some time, "subversive" and much family-envied still sing with the amateur's Union Pacific bonds, David sheer enthusiasm, Carlin says.

Tickets for the show may be ordered by mail by writing to: Russ Cunningham at 2377 Pacific Ave., Long Beach, or telephoning GARfied 4-8113.

The memorable staircase

scene in which he collapses under a heart seizure was little more than a stop-the-clock football fake swoon. American-Grace Airways David Ruderman was easily (Panagra), Pan American's forgotten as William Mar- World Airways and National shall, the man from Chicago Airlines have proposed new bringing the machine to the joint services to South America in the South. And Jim Verri-Verri's sets lost the battle from New York, Los Angeles and Miami to Lima, Peru.

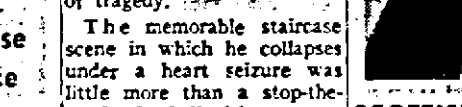

The agreements were submitted to the Civil Aeronautics Board for approval.

W. David Sievers got by with the direction, but what we missed was a sense of commitment, a point of view.

Bandit Grabs $1,291, Gets Away in Car

A grab bandit stole $1,291 Saturday then fled in a stolen car.

Alan W. Cruthers, 22, of 6131 Chinook Ave., Westminster, said the theft occurred about 1:30 p.m. in front of the Bank of America branch at 3804 Atlantic Ave.

Cruthers, assistant manager of the Towne Theater, 4425 Atlantic Ave., told officers he was preparing to place the money in a bank depository when the bandit ran up behind him, pushed him into the wall, and grabbed the bank sack from under his arm.

Officer D. K. Sheeley said Cruthers told him the thief ran to a car where his accomplice was waiting. Cruthers and a friend, Edward W. Getter, chased the getaway car but lost it for a moment during which the bandit abandoned it.

The getaway car, stolen earlier in Compton, was recovered at 3845 Myrtle Ave.

An outstanding characteristic of barber shop singers, all over the world, according to Carlin, is the almost spontaneous outpouring of song at the drop of a hat—anybody's hat any place. And although most of the performers in the show have been professionals for some time, they still sing with the amateur's sheer enthusiasm, Carlin says.

Hellman Play Rates Cheers

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

Cast note for "The Little Foxes," Magnolia current production: Leave nothing to chance.

One actress is described, without quotes, as not only beautiful but talented.

One actor is said to be sensational, no matter what the part is. Which is more than we can say for Richard Burton—a pretty sturdy country hater in our books.

Anyway, because we have a mind both talented and untidy, let's say without beating about the bush of praise: most of the cheering will be for Lillian Hellman's play itself.

IN THE INTRIGUING spectator sport she makes out of human suffering in the Deep South—Alabama at the turn of the century—conniving and plot twisting are what make her Trojan Horse run. But, as in "Another Part of the Forest," which preceded "The Little Foxes," Miss Hellman's greatness as a teller of the human dilemma heightens the play.

Eschewing hot-house sophistication, she accomplishes this feat with simple, enduring grace and compassion. She ignores the talented, the beautiful and the surface sensational, and breaks bread with the unhappy character with the fading looks and the lowly Negro servant, suspicious of being made a beneficiary in her master's will.

Thus out of the mouth and dignified tones of Addie, the Negro housekeeper, gracefully played by comely Louisiana-born Faye Williams comes:

"... Well, there are people who eat the earth and eat all the people on it like in the Bible with the locusts. Then there are people who stand around and watch them eat it. Sometimes I think it ain't right to stand and watch them do it."

SIGNIFICANTLY, Addie addresses these words to the one other character actor on stage who seemed gifted enough to transform the play's myriad, dime-drug-store-novel details into a fully realized characterization. Brilliant Barbara Brooks as the fading Birdie was that performer. An unerring sense of the past made Miss Brooks' work the evening's outstanding contribution. And in this accurately accented context of the past, she evoked a clean compassion for her pathetic descent into a lonely alcoholic from an innocent, little girl who took her first elderberry wine to "cure" her hiccoughs.

Though not half as sensational as acclaimed, Carl Yates made a competent, scheming Benjamin Hubbard, full of the Merry Chords from river boat gambler charm. Downey, and the Manhattaners, Laurence Aten, so fine in the from Manhattan Beach. These more imaginatively cast and groups, all of whom have better acted "Another Part," placed in the top brackets of local and regional contests in recent years, are in great demand all over California and the West.

High-stepping Negro actor, Glenn Crenshaw, was an amusing manservant Cal, although, like Miss Williams, he was visibly too young for the part. Merrell Ann Haddan (Alexandra) was sharper in the final moments of her revolt in the play.

JACQUELINE SMALEY is indeed a beautiful, stately woman. But we are afraid that in the Tallulah Bankhead famous part of Regina, she impersonated Marie Antoinette testing the poison cake on some improbable tour of the Deep South.

As her husband, Horace Giddens with those "subversive" and much family-envied Union Pacific bonds, David MacArthur, a Cal-State drama professor, must have had his mind on that salary cut. He had the right pallor for the sick Horace, but beneath the pallor there was little sense of tragedy.

The memorable staircase scene in which he collapses under a heart seizure was little more than a stop-thea style. Just where does this talented man really stand in the tragic view of life? Just where?

Freeway Signs Built at Torrance

PLANT MAKES BIG OVERHEAD STANDARDS

By DON KIRKLAND
TORRANCE — Those blankety-blank freeway signs may be the bane of the motoring public, but to Temcor — the people who make them — they're a pride and joy.

"We've never made a mistake," boasts R. W. Rogers, executive vice president in charge of the company's freeway sign division, 2600 Monterey St. "And we've made a heck of a lot of signs."

Temcor, which also manufactures other products, concentrates its freeway sign output on the big directional signs which extend overhead across freeways. The sign plates are made elsewhere, but Temcor builds and assembles the heavy standards and framing necessary to support the signs.

AT THE TORRANCE facility, which formerly was the R. C. Mahon Co., workmen assemble like clockworks the beams and braces, the catwalks and enamelled sections.

They tool the big steel standards in their mammoth workroom, and finally load the completed signs onto trucks for Sacramento, or Long Beach, or Hanford and Lemoore, or wherever the state is completing a freeway.

"We even send a workman along," says Rogers, "to make sure everything is done just so."

Because they're one of the biggest freeway-sign contractors in California, Temcor treats each project like it was its very own brainchild. And in a sense, it is. Every sign is a little bit different, maybe only in the height or length of catwalk, but enough so that it must be given individual care.

THE HEAVY steel braces are put together on an assembly line "routinely," says Rogers.

But his boss, company president Walter G. Mitchell, insists Rogers is too modest. "There is a great deal of thought and effort in producing these signs. They require extensive tooling and factory aids to keep the cost down to both the state and the taxpayer. And Mr. Rogers is largely responsible."

Through Rogers, Mitchell says, the company has been able to cut the costs over Temcor's three years in the sign business, and has improved the quality, too. About 200 big overhead signs assemblies are turned out yearly at Temcor, one of several contractors used statewide.

The signs are designed to last 10 years with little or no upkeep. Unless, that is, they're casualties of traffic accidents.

IF THAT HAPPENS," says Rogers, "we can build a new one in as fast as three weeks, and get it installed." He keeps a stockpile of standard parts, scattered in mountain-sized piles over the company's five-acre sign yard, just for such occasions.

Like almost everything, sign jobs come in bunches. "Usually we have 30 to 40 signs at a time, then none," says Rogers.

But there's hardly a time when a passing motorist can't glance sideways at Temcor's storage yard and wonder if he's really only 18 miles from San Francisco on the Bayshore Freeway.

Temcor also manufactures geodesic aluminum domes used for circular buildings, such as the new Cinerama Theater in Las Vegas; a portable rock-crusher which can be operated by one man; and a materials handling system for handling bulk materials for uses such as in the cement industry.

L.B. Facility Speeds Up Racing Engines

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

With Southern California now recognized as a leader in production of racing cars and boats, an experimental and research facility for high-performance racing engines has been opened in Long Beach.

Located at 1290 W. 11th St. in the harbor area, the Racing Engine Test Center is manned by highly skilled technicians and equipped with a high performer dynamometer. The facility already is being used in the development for some of the cars which will predominate in racing this year.

The necter is owned by the Champion Spark Plug Co., and it will supplement work being done in the company's multi-million dollar research-engineering and service complex at its Toledo headquarters. The Long Beach plant will be devoted exclusively to experimental and racing engines.

"WE LOCATED this new facility in Long Beach because of the proximity to the large concentration of men who are designing and building today's racing engines," said R. K. Christie, Champion's vice president in charge of research and engineering.

"These people are making tremendous strides in modifying engines for racing applications."

"In turn, these modifications are appearing in Detroit's production models with surprising regularity. In terms of efficiency, high rpm's and power output, today's passenger car owes much to yesterday's racing engine."

The test center's purpose and equipment, in particular a specially designed dynamometer, make it unique. A dynamometer is a machine for measuring the actual power produced by an internal combustion engine.

The one here was designed and built to evaluate racing engines only and there is considerable difference between

Four Investment Lectures Slated

For the purpose of helping people invest wisely and successfully, the Long Beach office of Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis, 201 East 4th St., members of New York Stock Exchange, announces a series of four free lectures during February.

Thomas J. Fagan, resident manager, stated that these lectures will be conducted by the firm's registered representatives at 7:30 p.m. on Thursdays and will be given in the following order:

February 4—"How stocks are bought and sold" Feb. 11—"How to compare stocks" Feb. 18—"How mutual funds operate"; and Feb. 25—"Investment planning." Admission is free, Fagan said, but due to limited seating reservations must be made in advance, either in writing or by phone.

Construction of the scheduled for completion in mid-1965. Financing for the project was arranged by Edwin A. Tomlin Co., mortgage correspondent for the Union Central Life Insurance Co.

In addition to a Safeway and a Thrifty Drug stores which will occupy some two-thirds of the total building space, 15 satellite stores will be included in the center. Planned in a contemporary design by Ramberg and Lowry, Santa Ana architectural firm, the building will be constructed by Jacobs Engineering Co. of Pasadena.

Bids Due on Auto Dealer Adds Navy Houses to Large Facility

Bids will be received until 2 p.m. Friday for construction of 322 units of multiple type family housing at Cabrillo Navy Housing areas. Estimated cost is $5 million.

This would include 244 units in Long Beach and 78 at the White Post area of San Pedro.

Taking the bids is the Southwest Division, U.S. Naval Bureau of Yards and Docks, 1220 Pacific Hwy., San Diego.

Architects are preparing plans and specifications.

Expansion on "auto row" downtown Long Beach Blvd. is progressing on the north side of Boulevard Buick, 1851 Long Beach Blvd. Jim Willingham, president of the firm, said the lot will be built up to the street level thereby gaining twice the square footage by retaining the basement.

Already the largest auto firm in area on the boulevard, the firm presently occupies 247,000 square feet plus an additional 30,000 warehouse storage. Now the largest Buick service dealer in Southern California, the expansion will add 20 more service stalls bringing the total to 70.

JAGUAR and Opel service facilities will be expanded and the rental and leasing department will expand into new quarters across the street where the used car lot is located at the present time.

The new area will house primarily the used car department, with sales offices on the rear of the lot.

"We now have the largest daily rental service in Long Beach," Willingham said, "and at the rate it's growing, we may be expanding again in the near future."

"The newly-added Opel German import line has caught on in this highly competitive market greater than we had anticipated," Willingham continued, "so much so that we are now the number one dealer in sales in the 11 Western States."

British homebuyers were told recently that starting in February they will have to pay an unprecedented 6 1/2% interest on their mortgages.

OF THE more than 6 million (one of every five homes built since World War II was financed by a GI loan) loans made under the GI Bill of Rights law, slightly more than 2% have had to be repossessed with claims paid by the VA.

Prime reason for the necessity to repossess a GI home has been relocation of industry, while death and illness ranked second.

At the start of the program the average price per home was about $8,500, while the average GI home now sells for $15,500, Webster said.

COMPLETE CHANGE FOR BANK

United States National Bank announced its Los Altos Branch is to undergo a complete face lifting, both inside and out. Here are architect's renderings showing how much of the structure will be of Mexican quartzite. Work will start shortly.
United States National Bank has completed plans for a major "face-lifting" of its Los Altos branch in the Los Altos Shopping Center, Long Beach.
The building, part of the original shopping center constructed in 1955, was then headquarters for the Long Beach National Bank, which merged into United States National in 1959.
The Los Altos branch has been a major customer-traffic-center for the 33-office financial system and traffic has increased to a point where expansion of the office section and other improvements are warranted.
BANK officials have decided to convert the space problem into an opportunity to bring the physical and decorative aspects of the building into closer harmony with the style (typified in the bank's downtown Long Beach office at 130 Pine) that has been set with other of the bank's branches.
In addition to enlarged office areas, the new look of the bank's Los Altos branch will feature complete exterior and partial interior facia of Mexican Quartzite and wall-to-wall carpeting on the bank's 7,715-sq. ft. main floor.
A MAJOR new feature will be a walk-up window to facilitate fast banking transactions for the benefit of customers who are in a special hurry, and doing banking only from a waiting car.
James Benson, manager of the Los Altos branch of United States National, said plans were out for bids, that work would commence soon and be complete by late summer.

New L.B. Facility Speeds Up Engines

It and those used at Champion's main plant for testing production type engines.

THE RACING dynamometer can handle engines up to 9,000 rpm and yet it also can evaluate engines with relatively low horsepower outputs.

Circulated water from a 5,000-gallon tank will permit maintained steady running of an engine for up to 24 hours.

Most important feature of the dynamometer is its ability to duplicate conditions under which an engine will be operating on the track. Engine oil temperature, carburetor intake, air temperature and engine coolant temperatures can all be controlled or induced.

The facility is located in an area where industrial noises are permitted and this permits an engine to be tuned with race exhaust systems which normally means no muffler.

THE CENTER not only evaluates horsepower and durability but the engineers conduct a variety of other tests. These include fuel blends, consumption rates, manifold temperatures and pressure measurements, exhaust measurements, carburetion tuning, spark plug development, voltage measurements and other pertinent design criteria.

Moving Firm Purchases 150 New Air-Ride Vans

Long Beach families planning to move during 1965 can expect improved service as a result of a major van purchase announced last week.

R. C. Larsen, president of Hodges-Mayflower Van & Storage, 1724 W. 21st St., disclosed that 150 new air-ride moving vans have been purchased by Aero Mayflower Transit Co., Indianapolis, long-distance mover which Hodges-Mayflower represents in the Long Beach area.

Long-timer James W. Stewart of Torrance (left), who says he goes back to the "horse and buggy days" of steelmaking, looks over service awards program saluting veteran U. S. Steel employees at Torrance with William G. Davis, general superintendent. Stewart's 45-year on-the-job record tops the list of steelmen receiving honors for long employment.

Torrance Steel Plant Honors 9 'Old-Timers'

TORRANCE — Nine employees with a combined total of more than 300 years of steelmaking know-how are in the spotlight this week at U. S. Steel's Torrance Works. Saluted for long and faithful service, the veteran steelmen were guests of honor at a special luncheon at the Palms restaurant hosted by William G. Davis, general plant superintendent.

TOPPING THE LIST with a 45-year record that goes back to the "horse and buggy days" of steelmaking is James W. Stewart, 23701 S. Western Ave.

The long-timer says he remembers when mules were used to ease steelmaking chores at Llewellyn Iron Works, early forerunner of the present-day U. S. Steel operations at Torrance.

Edward Tola, 517 West 105th St., Los Angeles, and George Schmid, 1633 Elm Ave., Torrance, tied for runner-up honors with 40-year records each. Tola is from the rolling mill department and Schmid is assistant manager of accounting.

ALSO CITED by Davis for "contributions of talent and experience in making quality steel products and Torrance plant an even better place to work" were:

Thirty years — William Taylor, production planning, 1603 West 223rd St., Torrance; Paul I. Artac, rolling mill, 21129 S. Adriatic Ave., Long Beach, and Frank De La Rosa, rolling mill, 16015 Brighton Ave., Gardena.

Industry Brings 'Shot in Arm'

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Texas Manufacturers Association says statistics show that when a new industry moves to town and brings 100 workers into the local labor force, the community gains:

- 359 more people.
- 65 more employed in non-manufacturing.
- 91 new school children.
- $710,000 in personal income yearly.
- 100 more households.
- $331,000 more retail sales a year.
- 97 more passenger cars registered.
- $229,000 more bank deposits.
- Three new retail establishments.

Escalator Tower to Connect Twin Office Buildings in L.A.

TWIN STRUCTURE TO BE BUILT

Immediate construction of total investment will be a $20 million, 13-story identical twin of the already occupied first unit office building in their California Mart fashion trades center at Ninth and Los Angeles streets, was announced last week by Barney and Harvey Morse, industrial developers, in Los Angeles.

The new structure is scheduled for completion early in 1966, and 155 tenants already have signed letters of intent binding them to lease a substantial portion of the 700,000 square feet of office space in the second unit.

This pre-construction leasing activity follows the pattern set in development of the first unit. That building, opened less than a year ago, is 100% occupied.

Added Income

NEW YORK (UPI) — American families will collect an estimated more than $1 billion this year in income payments from life insurance proceeds set aside with life companies, says the Institute of Life Insurance.

The Institute said that last year policyholders and their families set aside 15% of their life insurance benefits to provide income payments in the future.

PRICE TAG on the first unit office building was $16 million, but construction of a 13-story, all-glass structure connecting both buildings and housing the world's highest escalator system, will increase second unit costs to an estimated $20 million.

The Equitable Life Assurance Co., underwriters of the first unit, also is handling permanent financing of the second unit.

The Union Bank is again in charge of construction financing.

The escalator building which will connect the two display office buildings is a unique structure, dictated by the unusual floor-to-floor traffic generated by the fashion trades.

NEW MOBILE HOME FACTORY
Construction is under way on this 64,000-square-foot factory for Viking Gold Seal Mobile Homes in Anaheim. The new facility will be on five acres at 2100 E. Orangewood Ave., across from the new Angels' baseball park. Until the building is completed Viking will continue to operate from the present location at 800 W. New Realty Chief Vows to Defend Proposition 14

Pledging that the California Real Estate Association will oppose any attempts to nullify the effects of Proposition 14, yet voicing reassurance that "all people shall be served equally by our members," David N. Robinson of Berkeley has assumed presidency of the association for 1965.

In his inaugural speech at San Francisco, where a thousand directors and their guests recently attended a two and one-half day session, Robinson declared:

"IN THE YEAR AHEAD, we will unite against any and all adversaries who would challenge our position, or who through legal or legislative attempts, would try to limit or abridge the rights of the individual Realtor, local real estate board, or our state association, or the right of the property owner to freely choose to whom he will sell or rent his property.

"On the other hand, we reaffirm our dedication to the proposition that all people shall be served equally by our members. Our newly adopted Code of Practices spells this out in clear and certain terms.

"WE ARE CONVINCED that voluntary equal housing programs are the answer to minority housing problems, not legislation that will slowly and unalterably erode away the foundations of our democracy."

Robinson added: "Four-and-a-half million voters have said emphatically they want such a voluntary approach."

Robinson succeeds Art S. Leitch of San Diego as president of the 60-year-old organization.

Deane Renamed to NAHB Post

Ben C. Deane, president of Deane Brothers, Huntington Beach builders-developers, has been reappointed to the National Association of Home Builders Executive Committee for the third year in a row, Perry Willits, NAHB president, announces.

Deane is one of eight selected from throughout the country to serve on the association's top policy making body which works with NAHB officers and board of directors to formulate policies for industry.

The committee meets approximately eight times a year in Washington, D.C.

OTHER OFFICERS installed with him were Carl W. Newport of Sherman Oaks as treasurer, and H. Jackson Pontius of Arcadia as executive vice president and state secretary for the tenth consecutive year.

Taking office at the same time were 31 regional vice presidents of the state association and approximately 1,000 state directors representing the 173 real estate boards of CREA.

Six honorary directors-for-life were also elected. They are: Joseph B. Carnahan of Northridge, Mitchell E. Cutler of San Francisco, William S. Reid of Santa Monica, Reed Robbins of Stockton, L. Van Stelle of San Diego and R. D. Van Vleck of San Jose.

Luxury Condominium Units in Hyde Park Estates in Orange

An Open House celebration highlighting the completion of the fashionable 44-unit condominium, Hyde Park Estates, is scheduled for this week end, according to Stop Realty Sales Agents.

Hyde Park is situated on a landscaped, private park-like 10-acre parcel, one-half mile west of the Newport Freeway, directly north of Katella.

AMONG THE features is an electronically controlled entrance gate which each home owner actuates with his respective private key card. An electrical system to each residence releases the gate to visitors after phoning from the entrance.

Each Hyde Park, individually constructed, home has two and a half baths, wall-to-wall 100% nylon carpeting, custom draperies, fireplaces with log lighters, protected private patios, upstairs sun decks, central gas air conditioning and forced-air heating.

A HARDWICK Microwave oven for rapid baking plus a conventional oven are custom built in each kitchen. A counter type gas range, a General Electric dishwasher, a garbage disposal and custom birchwood cabinets are other important features in the balanced power homes.

FOR EXCELLENCE

Magazine Award Is Given Oceana

The Good Homebuilding Citation award annually to the nation's outstanding builders by Goodhousekeeping magazine, has been won for the second consecutive year by Oceana, community for active retired persons in Oceanside.

The 1965 award was made to only 45 builders and developers in the entire nation and only six others, in addition to Oceana, were given the outstanding citation in California.

The award cites the Oceanside Land Co., developers of Oceana, for "excellence of architectural design, land development, house planning, general advancement of the arts of better homebuilding."

SIGNED by the editors of Good Housekeeping magazine, the award was presented this week to Carl L. Cutsinger, President of the Oceanside Land Co. The presentation was made in Los Angeles by Donald L. Foss, of Good Housekeeping magazine.

Oceana, situated three miles east of downtown Oceanside, 68 miles south of Los Angeles by way of Pacific Coast Hwy. (101), is a $25 million development. Units one and two at Oceana are almost completely occupied, with move-ins scheduled for unit three Feb. 1 and first occupancy slated for unit four on April 1.

Oceana homes range in price from $11,495 to $17,495, with monthly payments as low as $115, including complete exterior maintenance and landscaping. Five furnished models, featuring one and two bedrooms, two bedrooms and den, and one and two baths, are open.

Oceana, located at 550 El Camino Real, Oceanside, is reached from downtown Oceanside by way of Mission Ave (Hwy. 76) to El Camino Real.

Many 'Extra Extras' Offered in Large New Premier Homes

"Extra extras" included in Premier Homes "4 Ways Better" sales formula have contributed greatly to the record-breaking sales pace at the Huntington Beach subdivision, reports Frank McFarland and Mattocks, sales agents.

Tiled, atrium-type entry, ceramic tile in kitchen and baths, wall paneling, complete roof guttering and a landscaping and fencing package were among the "extra extras" cited by McFarland as having strong buyer appeal.

Premier also offers a "Premium Area"—a fully-finished room with plumbing roughed in for a third bathroom. "Buyers today want some flexibility in their homes, and the Premium Area provides this. It can be used as extra bedrooms, a playroom, rumorm room or whatever suits the family's particular needs," the realtor said.

COMPLETE roof guttering is an item that holds special appeal for second and third time homebuyers, McFarland reports. "Due to our somewhat heavy rains this winter, roof guttering has been very much in Premier buyers' thinking—especially those who have had to equip a home with guttering in the past," he said.

DON'T KEEP things you don't use. Sell them with in-expensive Classified Ads and have cash instead.

Premier prices start at $23,400. Three and four-bedroom models are offered, all with two baths, in a contrasting selection of exterior stylings. FHA minimum down and VA no down financing are both available. There are no second trust deeds.

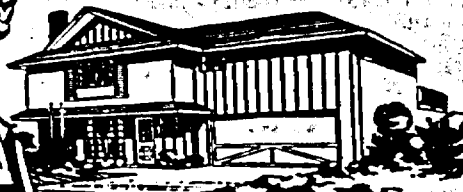

Visitors take the San Diego Freeway to Bolsa Chica Road and drive south on Bolsa Chica to Warner, then turn east on Warner to model showcase.

Luxury Condominium Units in Hyde Park Estates in Orange

An Open House celebration highlighting the completion of the fashionable 44-unit condominium, Hyde Park Estates, is scheduled for this week end, according to Stop Realty Sales Agents.

Hyde Park is situated on a landscaped, private park-like 10-acre parcel, one-half mile west of the Newport Freeway, directly north of Katella.

Designated as "a new concept" in gracious family living, the development has been especially designed to meet the residential needs of the busy executive and professional who enjoys a comfortable home in a country club atmosphere without the added responsibility of lawn and garden care.

Among the features is an electronically controlled entrance gate which each home owner actuates with his respective private key card. An electrical system to each residence releases the gate to visitors after phoning from the entrance.

Each Hyde Park, individually constructed, home has two and a half baths, wall-to-wall 100% nylon carpeting, custom draperies, fireplaces with log lighters, protected private patios, upstairs sun decks, central gas air conditioning and forced-air heating.

A HARDWICK Microwave oven for rapid baking plus a conventional oven are custom built in each kitchen. A counter type gas range, a General Electric dishwasher, a garbage disposal and custom birchwood cabinets are other important features in the balanced power homes.

Floor space in the Hyde Park homes ranges from 1950 to 2200 square feet. Three or four upstairs bedrooms are available. Prices are from $35,000 to $36,000.

Full grown poplar, olive, birch and New England pine trees have been planted. Automatically controlled indirect lighting has been installed as well as an automatic sprinkler system.

ONE OF the major features is a centrally located recreation area which includes a swimming pool, a tennis

Magazine Award Is Given Oceana

The Good Homebuilding Citation award annually to the nation's outstanding builders by Good Housekeeping magazine, has been won for the second consecutive year by Oceana, community for active retired persons in Oceanside.

The 1965 award was made to only 45 builders and developers in the entire nation and only six others, in addition to Oceana, were given the outstanding citation in California.

The award cites the Oceanside Land Co., developers of Oceana, for "excellence of architectural design, land development, house planning general advancement of the arts of better homebuilding."

SIGNED by the editors of Good Housekeeping magazine, the award was presented this week to Carl L. Cutsinger, President of the Oceanside Land Co. The presentation was made in Los Angeles by Donald L. Foss, of Good Housekeeping magazine.

Oceana, situated three miles east of downtown Oceanside, 89 miles south of Los Angeles by way of Pacific Coast Hwy. (101), is a $25 million development. Units one and two at Oceana are almost completely occupied, with move-ins scheduled for unit three Feb. 1 and first occupancy slated for unit four on April 1.

Oceana homes range in price from $11,495 to $17,495, with monthly payments as low as $115, including complete exterior maintenance and landscaping. Five furnished models, featuring one and two bedrooms, two bedrooms and den, and one and two baths, are open.

Oceana, located at 550 El Camino Real, Oceanside, is reached from downtown Oceanside by way of Mission Ave (Hwy. 76) to El Camino Real.

Many 'Extra Extras' Offered in Large New Premier Homes

"Extra extras" included in Premier Homes "4 Ways Better" sales formula have contributed greatly to the record-breaking sales pace at the Huntington Beach subdivision, reports Frank McFarland and Mattocks, sales agents.

Tiled, atrium-type entry, ceramic tile in kitchen and baths, wall paneling, complete roof guttering and a landscaping and fencing package were among the "extra extras" cited by McFarland as having strong buyer appeal.

Premier also offers a "Premium Area"—a fully-finished room with plumbing roughed in for a third bath. "Buyers today want some flexibility in their homes, and the Premium Area provides this. It can be used as extra bedrooms, a playroom, rum-pus room or whatever suits the family's particular needs," the realtor said.

COMPLETE roof guttering is an item that holds special appeal for second and third time homebuyers, McFarland reports. "Due to our somewhat heavy rains this winter, roof guttering has been very much in Premier buyers' thinking—especially those who have had to equip a home with guttering in the past," he said.

Premier prices start at $23,400. Three and four-bedroom models are offered, all with two baths, in a contrasting selection of exterior stylings. FHA minimum down and VA no down financing are both available. There are no second trust deeds.

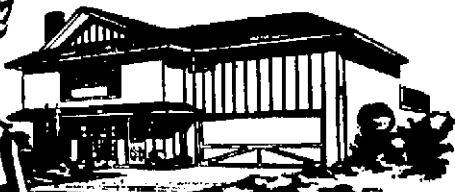

Visitors take the San Diego Freeway to Bolsa Chica Road and drive south on Bolsa Chica to Warner, then turn east on Warner to model showcase.

El Dorado Offering Walled-in Privacy

El Dorado Park Estates in Long Beach offers exclusive privacy behind a walled-in community, said a spokesman for S & S Construction Co., the builders.

Oldtime park beauty is achieved inside the wall, he said, and trees and flowers abound without any detracting from unsightly telephone poles because all utilities are underground.

The homes are offered in two-story, tri-level and one-story models, in three, four and five bedrooms with two or three baths, and family room. Eight floor-plans are presented in 34 exterior designs.

MEDALLION electric kitchens have built-in range, double oven and dishwasher, color coordinated with hood and fan. Decorative as well as utility values are provided by tile work-tops and vinyl floors.

The 1965 furnished model homes occupy a complete street devoted to this display. El Dorado Park Estates are priced from $31,450 to $54,450, and conventional financing is offered. They are located on Spring St. near Los Alamitos.

New Record Seen

Feature Gracious Living in Garden Park Estates

IN A GARDEN PARK ESTATE
This used-brick fireplace is one of the many different designs seen at Garden Park Estates in Garden Grove, denoting the thoughtfulness, comfort and convenience put into these luxury homes.

The spacious homes are designed to provide gracious living through its features including the aluminum sliding glass doors that bring the outside in, fireplaces for cozy winter comfort, and patios for outdoor living when the weather is inviting. An entry hall brings one into the house without having to step directly into any room.

Eight floor-plans feature five, four and three-bedroom models with one-and-a-half and two baths. There is a choice of 32 exterior designs.

PROOF OF THE CHARACTER and integrity built into these residences is the record of 15,000 homes built in this southland area by S & S Construction Co.

Balanced power kitchens provide built-in gas range and oven, and hooded exhaust fan, all in matching colors, plus dishwasher and garbage disposal. Colored plumbing fixtures enhance the bathrooms.

Garden Park homes are priced from $21,200 with low down payment offered and 30 to 35-year financing through FHA. Veterans pay only costs and impounds.

BELLFLOWER—The Bellflower National Bank Advisory Committee will hold a luncheon meeting Monday under Vice Chairman Wolf H. Stern, Bellflower attorney, to discuss plans for opening of the new independent, home-owned bank on or about Feb. 15.

The meeting will be held at Smitty's Pancake House, 9251 Alondra Blvd. Bank board chairman Dr. C. M. Braken-siek and President Charles A. Victory also will take part.

ATTRACTIVE BATH
A large bathroom with separate shower room is offered in Capistrano West Homes. The homes are near the new Dana Point small-boat marina.

New Marina Near Capistrano West

Sales manager, Joe Terry, of the Barnhill Corp. said that residents of Capistrano West in San Juan Capistrano can look forward to the new Dana Point Small Boat Marina.

The new marina will be less than 5 minutes from the hill-side view development and will offer year 'round beach facilities, he added. Builder Leslie Miklosy went on to say that this was just another bonus that home-buyers at Capistrano West will realize.

According to Miklosy, Capistrano West was built to appeal to the executive mind-set of home-buyers, who can appreciate outstanding home value in a prestige beach location.

AVAILABLE ARE one and two story homes with three and four bedrooms, two baths and family rooms. Features include: fireplaces with automatic gas lighters, wall-to-wall carpeting throughout, built-in balanced power kitchen, deluxe double ovens with barbecue rotisserie, deluxe range and matching ventilating hood with fan and light, and automatic dishwasher.

Quality Noted in Townhouse

Unusually warm weather the past week served to enhance Foothill Village Townhouses in Fullerton in the eyes of prospective home buyers according to H.R. Brookman one of the developers.

Brookman stated it was a sign of things to come. Home buyers can now appreciate the comfort resulting from an insulated and an integrated, ducted air conditioned house. Economic factors should also be considered. He pointed out that Rockwool full thick batt insulation in all perimeter walls and four inches rock wool insulation blown in on out.

The models, located on Placentia just north of Chapman, have had constant traffic since the holidays. One of the predominant questions of the prospective homebuyer according to Ted Crosbie, sales manager for Forest E. Olson Inc. Realtors, is "how soon can we move into a unit of our choice?"

OTHER FEATURES include built-in range and oven, dishwasher and disposal, individually controlled air conditioning and heating fireplaces and private patios. Of particular note is the luxurious nylon filament carpeting throughout.

No Slash in Electronics Seen Ahead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Regardless of any cuts in defense spending in 1965, the nation's military forces will increase their investment in offensive and defensive countermeasures equipment, a West Coast electronics firm head predicts.

"Our government's investment in super-sensitive electronic equipment to enable our planes or missiles to penetrate enemy defenses, and other equally sophisticated equipment to detect enemy attacks on us, will continue to increase during 1965 and each year thereafter in the foreseeable future," says William H. Burgess, president of Electronic Specialty Co.

Should Check on Property Values

NEW YORK (UPI) — A periodic check of property values in your neighborhood is recommended by State Farm Insurance. Inflation and other factors often raise the value of older properties and should be reflected in the insurance coverage.

Fernhill All-Adults Development Attracts

FOR ADULTS ONLY

All-adult Fernhill, planned development in Huntington Beach, features luxury appointments as typified by this Frigidaire Custom Imperial range-oven combination. Two and three-bedroom, two-bath homes start at $22,400.

Fernhill in Huntington Beach, all-adult planned development adjoining Meadowlark Golf Club offers special advantages to golf-minded homebuyers, reports sales agent Frank McFarland of McFarland and Mattocks, Inc.

The realtor said that most of Fernhill's visitors to date have been golfers who already knew about the advantages of Meadowlark Golf Club as a place to enjoy their game.

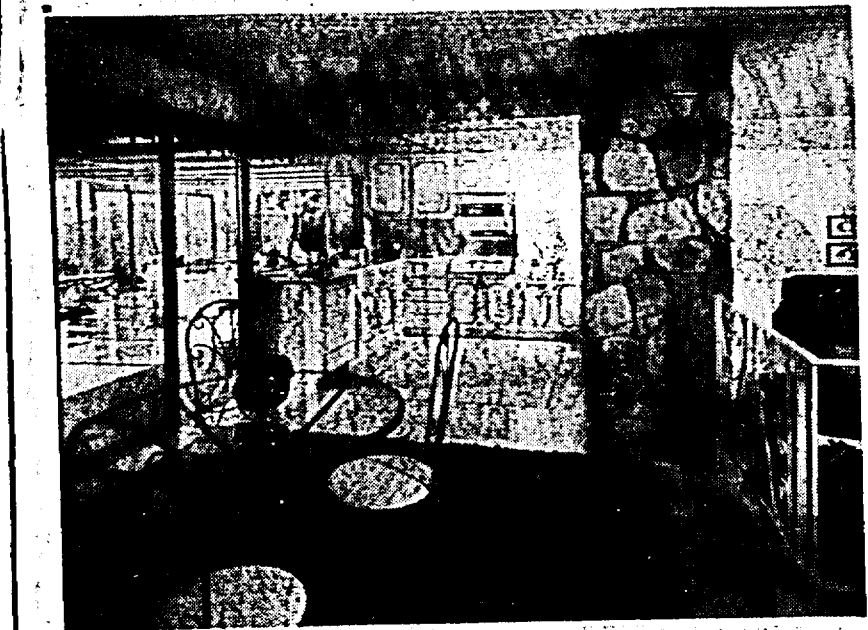

"Freedom from smog, and refreshing year-round coolness is greatly prized by golfers who find courses in Los Angeles County overcrowded and shrouded in smog," he said.

Fernhill is an all-adult condominium-type development. Homeowners make a small monthly maintenance payment as part of their purchasing arrangements. The development's putting greens, swimming pool, badminton and tennis courts, as well as the exteriors and gardens of the homes themselves, are professionally maintained for the homeowner.

Fernhill's two and three-bedroom, two bath homes are offered in three floor plans and 12 exterior stylings. McFarland said the homes are fully equipped with premium Frigidaire built-ins. A dishwasher is included in the purchase prices, which range from $22,400.

FINANCING is available from 5% down. Realtor McFarland pointed out that a cash buyer would have only property taxes and a monthly maintenance payment of $30 to provide for after purchase. The development is one mile east of Huntington Harbor on Warner Avenue. Los Angeles County visitors reach Fernhill by taking the San Diego Freeway to Bolsa Chica Road, and driving south on Bolsa Chica to Warner, then left on to Fernhill.

Only 10 Pacific Sands Homes Remain Out of 97 Residences

NEW CONCEPT FOR HOMES

The 10 remaining homes at Pacific Sands Imperial in Huntington Beach are part of an experimental community which has been examined by local planning commission representatives. Among the unique features of the homes is the "Garden Kitchen," which has a wall of glass opening onto rear patios.

Following a precedent-setting sales pace, Pacific Sands Imperial has only 10 homes remaining—all on choice lots in the walled beach community, reports Bob Hardesty, marketing vice president of Deane Brothers, the builder-developer.

Pacific Sands Imperial is a new concept development of detached single family dwellings, incorporating a number of variations in zoning restrictions and construction details, which has been tested and examined by local planning commission representatives.

With 97 customized residences, the community has underground utilities, rolled curbs and sidewalks adjacent to curbs, eliminating the need to use scarce land for parkways. The houses feature entry courtyards, the exclusive "Garden Kitchen" design, and three sets of sliding glass walls to private patios.

The ALL-ELECTRIC "Garden Kitchen" has one full wall of sliding glass windows above countertop work areas, which, when opened, connect the kitchen to rear patio areas. An automatic wall oven, countertop range, automatic dishwasher and disposal are all built-in, and highlighted by recessed luminous ceilings.

Three or four-bedroom floor plans each have two baths, and more than a dozen exterior designs have been created for the one and two-story homes. Formal living and dining rooms, family rooms and secluded master suites have also been incorporated. Residents of the community also have exclusive use of the large Pacific Sands Cabana Club.

The remaining 10 homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to dusk, and are priced from $18,950.

Pacific Sands Imperial is a new concept development of detached single family dwellings, incorporating a number of variations in zoning restrictions and construction details, which has been tested and examined by local planning commission representatives.

With 97 customized residences, the community has underground utilities, rolled curbs and sidewalks adjacent to curblines, eliminating the need to use scarce land for parkways. The houses feature entry courtyards, the exclusive "Garden Kitchen" design, and three sets of sliding glass walls to private patios.

lighted by recessed luminous ceilings. Three or four-bedroom floor plans each have two baths, and more than a dozen exterior designs have been created for the one and two-story homes. Formal living and dining rooms, family rooms and secluded master suites have also been incorporated. Residents of the community also have exclusive use of the large Pacific Sands Cabana Club.

The remaining 10 homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to dusk, and are priced from $18,950.

BONUSES
$103,071 to 75 Salesmen

More than $100,000 in bonuses were paid out to salesmen by Walker & Lee, Inc. in 1964, marking an increase of 27% in cash outlay over 1963. It was announced last week by Frank R. Hart, executive vice president of the nation's largest residential real estate firm.

A total of 75 salesmen won $103,071.05 in bonuses. The winners represent nearly three-quarters of the eligible salesmen.

TOP EARNERS were Robert Romer of the Acreage Division, who won $7,400, and Alice Lewis of the Resale Division, who placed second with a bonus of $6,517.56.

Thirty-four of the bonus earners, Hart pointed out, were in the extra bonus percentage bracket for having earned more than $10,000 in previous years.

Walker & Lee bonuses start at a basic 10% when the salesman earns $7,000 or more—and can go as high as 30% of his earnings each year over a five-year period.

ELEVEN top sales people were honored at the firm's second Annual Awards Banquet, held Thursday night at the Pacific Coast Club.

President DeWitt R. Lee and Hart addressed the group of some 350 persons.

Achievement award winners included Alice Lewis and Romer, Duane Beam, Oran De Bois, Bert Anakin, Norval Crutcher, Al Erickson, Ron Rosen, Joan Shuff, Hal Pinchin and Virginia Sawaya.

Mothers March is On!

Tuesday evening, sometime between 6 and 9, a woman will knock at your door. She'll ask for a donation—money for the March of Dimes.

Will you hesitate to contribute?

Members of Long Beach Mother's March don't think so. They're sure once you know the facts—the March goals—you won't want to close your door on the drive for funds.

By MARY NETH

"Why? Why did this happen to my child—to my family—to me? Why?"

This is the poignant cry of millions of mothers who know the grief of a child born defective in mind or body.

It's a plea for understanding—for help; a plea March of Dimes hopes to answer.

"Nowadays when I listen to a mother with a normal child—her worries about weight, bed-wetting, thumb-sucking or naps—I can't help think 'what a lucky woman,'" says Mrs. Richard Chapman, chairman of Long Beach's Mother's March.

Mrs. Chapman has talked to and studied the cases of not-so-lucky mothers.

She's seen babies born with open spines, with no arms, with defects in body chemistry that spell doom to the growth of the mind.

What she's seen has made her determined to make her part in March of Dimes a success.

BIRTH DEFECTS rank first among all afflictions which kill and maim babies. More than 250,000 infants are born with severe handicaps of this type each year.

Where do the parents turn?

"Often they don't know where to go. We get a surprising number of calls here at the office from frantic mothers and fathers searching for specialized treatment centers."

This is why, Long Beach Chapter, National Foundation—March of Dimes (3226 E. Broadway), has made the founding of a local birth defect evaluation clinic its '65 campaign goal.

The clinic, to be headed by Dr. Arthur DeNio, chairman of the medical advisory committee would give parents advice on where to take their off-spring and an idea of the prognosis.

March of Dimes 1961 Poster Child Linda Bereese
... today she needs no braces

The national foundation began its war against pre-natal cripples in 1958. Now with breakthroughs in mapping the genetic code, scientists predict great strides in prevention of retardation and other congenital defects.

BUT THE JOB can't be done without the fund-raising work of the volunteer—the marching mother.

Long Beach, once a polio disaster area, has a particularly dedicated group of volunteers. (In fact ours is the only chapter out of the nation's 3076 to retain an independent community charter.)

"We're going all out in the battle against birth defects," says Mrs. Chapman. "We find it shocking that the U.S. is lagging behind (16th place among developed nations) in prevention of infant deaths ... most of which result from pre-natal malformations."

MOBILIZING MOMS for Tuesday's big march takes desk, leg and footwork. ## WILD WAVES SAY

Saga of No-See Son, an At-Sea Bride

By Iola Masterson, Society Editor

DUTY TO country and motherly love brought Barbara (Mrs. Donnell) Davis to the Southland over the weekend from home in San Francisco. Son, Dave, recently inducted into Marine Corps at Camp Pendleton, was motive.

Like other parents of new trainees, the Davises received letter from the commanding general of the big post suggesting a visit to son on a weekend would be great morale booster during hectic, homesick, nerve-racking time.

So Barbara, Uncle Sam her invisible seatmate, drove down post haste in a blaze of red, white and blue parental patriotism. On arrival at Camp Pendleton's gate she was met with the stony news that, as of that week, a new ruling was in effect. No trainee, on the seventh weekend since his induction, was to be allowed ANY visitor. That happened, of course, to be Dave's seventh weekend at camp.

To see him she would have had to stay over a week and time just didn't allow. So she did the next best thing: had a grand time as houseguest of Jane and Jim Kresl. I'll bet during the whole trip home she was mentally composing a letter to a certain commanding general.

THE BRIDE didn't walk demurely down the aisle—she climbed the ladder of a cruiser, high heels, slim white sheath and all, to join her husband-to-be on the flying bridge of her dad's boat for a wedding at sea.

It wasn't very far at sea—just out in Alamitos Bay off the Long Beach Yacht Club—but, nonetheless, afloat on waters of the Pacific. Wouldn't have known about this unique wedding if we hadn't been cruising the bay and stopped to inquire.

Suddenly we looked up to see three cruisers anchored side by side, joined by fluttering festoons of wedding bells, ribbons, and all loaded with people. When we moved to, the champagne reception for 60 people was in full swing following the marriage of Cheryl Schenck to Walter Bullock aboard dad, Harry Schenck's boat, The Fifth, on which he makes his home in LB Marina's Basin Two.

They had, I learned, rigged loud speakers on each boat so all guests could hear the exchange of vows. Other wedding boats involved were Mickey and Ray Weiman's 42-foot, Mikara, and John Polis' 46-foot, Duchess III.

One thing about it, if either Cheryl or Walt had decided to change minds at the last minute a quick dive and a short swim could have dampened plans in one big splash.

THERE'S ONE thing "Second Guessers" can't do. They can't second guess their wives when it comes time to entertain them at annual dinner dance at Meadowlark Country Club... or else, as Marie Stevens playfully illustrates for husband, Chuck above. He does a little illustrating of his own; says, in essence, "OK, if we fellows can have our usual stag golf tournament first." Mutually agreed.

Marie and Chuck which will it be—a hit or a putt....

"Second Guessers" outfit is an off-shoot of LA's Hot Stove League and is composed of former professional baseball players from either the minor or major leagues. Purpose of group is for baseball men to get together during winter off months for—what else—baseball talk. So many of the players, active or retired, live down here, Chuck and Eddie Bockman spearheaded formation of this group in 1951. The current "manager" (who could be called a president for his gang) is Jack Graham, Wilson High coach.

On to the party. Among those expected to "suit up" for the day are Doris and Bob Sturgeon, Jane and Bob Lemon, "Buddy" and "Rocky" Bridges, Karen and Bob Bailey and his dad and mother, Maxine and "Buck" Bailey, Murray and Rose Franklin, Dottie and Clint Conatser, the Norm Larkers, Ed Roebucks, Tom Morgans, the Ron Fairleys and, of course, Maria and Chuck.

No matter what kind of a foul ball the men hit during golf, no one will strike out in enjoyment and fun score will soar.

SOPHISTICATED, glamorous, (at times, hilariously madcap) vacation ended for Irene Cook with return home late the other night.

She flew to N'York mid-December to sail on Grace Lines' Santa Mariana for South America with friends, Jean and Howard Quinn. They went through the Panama Canal to Lima, Peru, where they spent three weeks over the holidays. One gay, social whirl, top echelon style, there as they were entertained and entertained. It was Quinns' first trip back to Lima since he served that city as its port authority.

Jan. 2 they went by plane to Santiago, Chile, took a side trip to Vina del Mar, the Riviera of that country. After this they flew to Buenos Aires for several days and on to Rio for several more before enplaning for U.S. Hotter than the hinges of, Irene said, in both Santiago and Rio, now in midst of summer.

LIONS ROARED out of town Thursday on the scent of a feast of convention festivities in Las Vegas. They're due home today and we hope not fleeced like a lamb.

Local gang were all to stay at Sahara and those on junket are Jackie and Ed Neushutz (they flew over in their own plane), Mildred and Chuck Novotny, Eileen and Ted Courson, Jane and Bill Riley, Vonda and George Meyer and Kay and Chuck Morgan.

SURPRISES and laughter added to the usual gaiety of a bridal shower when Madolyn (Mrs. John) Christopher and daughter, Diane, and Helen (Mrs. Doug) Newcomb and daughter, Jamie, had party at Christophers' Saturday. It was for Sue Prichard who will wed Lt. John Wike Jan. 30.

Madolyn, clever think ahead gal, saved her lovely flocked white Christmas tree, re-trimmed it with white doves and bride-type artificial flower nosegays. Nosegay theme was carried throughout the house.

Shower was linen and Sue expressed a preference for shocking pink bathroom accessories. She received TWELVE identical sets. It grew merrier with each one she opened until, with opening of final set, everyone collapsed in gales—even the honoree.

ABSORBING MORE of the sights and sounds of Southern California than they have ever had time to do before are Carolyn Raney's parents, Ruth and George Graffis of Culver, Ind.

Carolyn is entertaining at a bridge luncheon for her mother Wednesday in her home. Guests will be women Ruth has met on previous trips out here. Subsequent party dates in honor of the Indianians are upcoming. Carolyn is having a whee escorting her folks around—San Francisco, La Jolla, Death Valley and yet to come—Hearst Castle.

New Post for Kent--- Good News for Clubs

Joyce Kent, for four years assistant women's editor of the Independent Press-Telegram, has been named to the newly created post of club editor, in line with plans for over-all expansion of the I, P-T Women's Section.

According to Mary Ellis Carlton, director of women's news for the newspapers, Mrs. Kent will work closely with society editor Iola Masterson in giving expanded personal coverage to social and civic organizations within the city.

THE NEW MOVE gives Mrs. Masterson, author of the Wild Waves social column for some 25 years, and Mrs. Kent, an I, P-T women's staff member for 10 years, more time to cover social functions and club meetings of interest to I, P-T readers.

Joyce Kent

WILD WAVES SAY

Saga of No-See Son, an At-Sea Bride

By Iola Masterson, Society Editor

DUTY TO country and motherly love brought Barbara (Mrs. Donnell) Davis to the Southland over the weekend from home in San Francisco. Son, Dave, recently inducted into Marine Corps at Camp Pendleton, was motive.

Like other parents of new trainees, the Davises received letter from the commanding general of the big post suggesting a visit to son on a weekend would be great morale booster during hectic, homesick, nerve-wracking time.

So Barbara, Uncle Sam her invisible seatmate, drove down post haste in a blaze of red, white and blue parental patriotism. On arrival at Camp Pendleton's gate she was met with the stony news that, as of that week, a new ruling was in effect. No trainee, on the seventh weekend since his induction, was to be allowed ANY visitor. That happened, of course, to be Dave's seventh weekend at camp.

To see him she would have had to stay over a week and time just didn't allow. So she did the next best thing: had a grand time as houseguest of Jane and Jim Kresl. I'll bet during the whole trip home she was mentally composing a letter to a certain commanding general.

THE BRIDE didn't walk demurely down the aisle—she climbed the ladder of a cruiser, high heels, slim white sheath and all, to join her husband-to-be on the flying bridge of her dad's boat for a wedding at sea.

It wasn't very far at sea—just out in Alamitos Bay off the Long Beach Yacht Club—but, nonetheless, afloat on waters of the Pacific. Wouldn't have known about this unique wedding if we hadn't been cruising the bay and stopped to inquire.

Suddenly we looked up to see three cruisers anchored side by side, joined by fluttering festoons of wedding bells, ribbons, and all loaded with people. When we moved to, the champagne reception for 60 people was in full swing following the marriage of Cheryl Schenck to Walter Bullock aboard dad, Harry Schenck's boat, The Fifth, on which he makes his home in LB Marina's Basin Two.

They had, I learned, rigged loud speakers on each boat so all guests could hear the exchange of vows. Other wedding boats involved were Mickey and Ray Weiman's 42-foot, Mikara, and John Polis' 46-foot, Duchess III.

One thing about it, if either Cheryl or Walt had decided to change minds at the last minute a quick dive and a short swim could have dampened plans in one big splash.

THERE'S ONE thing "Second Guessers" can't do. They can't second guess their wives when it comes time to entertain them at annual dinner dance which will it be—a hit or a putt...

Marie and Chuck

at Meadowlark Country Club... or else, as Marie Stevens playfully illustrates for husband, Chuck above. He does a little illustrating of his own; says, in essence, "OK, if we fellows can have our usual stag golf tournament first." Mutually agreed.

"Second Guessers" outfit is an off-shoot of LA's Hot Stove League and is composed of former professional baseball players from either the minor or major leagues. Purpose of group is for baseball men to get together during winter off months for—what else—baseball talk. So many of the players, active or retired, live down here, Chuck and Eddie Bockman spearheaded formation of this group in 1951. The current "manager" (who could be called a president for his gang) is Jack Graham, Wilson High coach.

On to the party. Among those expected to "suit up" for the day are Doris and Bob Sturgeon, Jane and Bob Lemon, "Buddy" and "Rocky" Bridges, Karen and Bob Bailey and his dad and mother, Maxine and "Buck" Bailey, Murray and Rose Franklin, Dottie and Clint Conatser, the Norm Larkers, Ed Roebucks, Tom Morgans, the Ron Fairleys and, of course, Maria and Chuck.

No matter what kind of a foul ball the men hit during golf, no one will strike out in enjoyment and fun score will soar.

SOPHISTICATED, glamorous, (at times, hilariously madcap) vacation ended for Irene Cook with return home late the other night.

She flew to N'York mid-December to sail on Grace Lines' Santa Mariana for South America with friends, Jean and Howard Quinn. They went through the Panama Canal to Lima, Peru, where they spent three weeks over the holidays. One gay, social whirl, top echelon style, there as they were entertained and entertained. It was Quinns' first trip back to Lima since he served that city as its port authority.

Jan. 2 they went by plane to Santiago, Chile, took a side trip to Vina del Mar, the Riviera of that country. After this they flew to Buenos Aires for several days and on to Rio for several more before enplaning for U.S. Hotter than the hinges of, Irene said, in both Santiago and Rio, now in midst of summer.

LIONS ROARED out of town Thursday on the scent of a feast of convention festivities in Las Vegas. They're due home today and we hope not fleeced like a lamb.

Local gang were all to stay at Sahara and those on junket are Jackie and Ed Neushutz (they flew over in their own plane), Mildred and Chuck Novotny, Eileen and Ted Courson, Jane and Bill Riley, Vonda and George Meyer and Kay and Chuck Morgan.

SURPRISES and laughter added to the usual gaiety of a bridal shower when Madolyn (Mrs. John) Christopher and daughter, Diane, and Helen (Mrs. Doug) Newcomb and daughter, Janie, had party at Christophers' Saturday. It was for Sue Prichard who will wed Lt. John Wike Jan. 30.

Madolyn, clever think ahead gal, saved her lovely flocked white Christmas tree, re-trimmed it with white doves and bride-type artificial flower nosegays. Nosegay theme was carried throughout the house.

Shower was linen and Sue expressed a preference for shocking pink bathroom accessories. She received TWELVE identical sets. It grew merrier with each one she opened until, with opening of final set, everyone collapsed in gales—even the honoree.

ABSORBING MORE of the sights and sounds of Southern California than they have ever had time to do before are Carolyn Raney's parents, Ruth and George Graffis of Culver, Ind.

Carolyn is entertaining at a bridge luncheon for her mother Wednesday in her home. Guests will be women Ruth has met on previous trips out here. Subsequent party dates in honor of the Indianians are upcoming. Carolyn is having a whee escorting her folks around—San Francisco, La Jolla, Death Valley and yet to come—Hearst Castle.

OFF TO A reunion with her 15 brothers and sisters to celebrate the 50th anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Hudak of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., goes Mrs. Howard DeCastro of Carson.

ONE OF 15 CHILDREN . . .

She'll Have Gala Reunion

By MARGARET MCKEAN

Letters with salutations reading "Dear 1 through 15" have been dispatched by an earnest, well-organized New Yorker. He signs them "Number 15". He has, with mimeo in hand, alerted his brothers and sisters of plans for their parents 50th wedding anniversary.

Proud to be on the mailing list is Mrs. Howard DeCastro, Carson, eighth of the progeny of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Hudak, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

"I'm in the middle, coming and going, seven older, seven younger and I find myself meeting myself coming these days, laughed the vivacious homemaker. Reason for the mad preparations is that Mrs. DeCastro will be leaving nine children of her own when she boards a plane for that tumultuous eastern homecoming.

"You don't just up and leave — you mend jeans, count socks, stock the freezer, try to think of every eventuality and still worry. I hate to leave them, but I know this will probably be the last time all of us will be together for a happy occasion," she murmured.

HOME AT 212 W. 226th Place is a lot like the old homestead at 612 N. Main in Wilkes-Barre—full of children, but "I wish the DeCastro home had a grocery store attached like ours did when we were kids. For years the folks had a mama-papa store. Their discipline was tremendous — you couldn't sneak even one chocolate bar that Dad didn't know it — and mom cooked and cooked."

Grandma Hudak is cooking in kingsize pots now, too, awaiting the arrival of her family. There'll be Air Force Major Andrew coming from Hawaii; daughter Mary, a cloistered nun who received unprecedented permission to attend the anniversary Mass; daughter Frances who is a teaching nun, Sister Mary Elizabeth in Pennsylvania; and oldest son, Father Cyril, who has a parish in North Miami, Fla. ("He's trying to get Bishop Sheen to speak at the anniversary banquet!")

Then there'll be Florence and Dorothy coming from California and ten others from eastern states!

THE RARE sight of seeing 17 members of a single family together will be enjoyed by hundreds of Pennsylvanians invited to the celebration — including the maid and matron of honor, best man and flower girl from the original ceremony on Feb. 8, 1915.

Entrepreneur of the golden day, letter writer Ed in New York seems to have thought of everything. Accommodations—"positively confirmed for all brothers and sisters and families to be guests of various neighbors — draw your billet when you arrive." Transportation — "We have five cars leaving New York with room for 10 more people — please post plane arrival immediately." Decorations for the ball—"Everyone available will help, it will take 60 man hours to decorate 5,000 square feet of school auditorium." Etc., etc., etc.

The frivolity of the Czechoslovakian family gathering is heralded by "Dad and Mom are looking forward to the dance."

The family's deep spirituality is evident with brother Ed's last rejoinder "May God bless us with safe journeys, keep us well until we are together again. Devotedly, Number 15."

Here's Last Word From Italy

Everyone's pants styles were different in collections unveiled the past week by Italian couturiers, says an Associated Press release.

Tito Rossi showed them in a crisp controlled flare, skirts covered in back—for sports, street and long evening clothes.

A matching pair of bermudas under swirling plisse of dark chiffon print made a most attractive dancing idea. In the Rossi collection, there were wedgies with everything.

All the shows took place in individual salons, Paris style, rather than all in one place as is usual tradition in Italy.

PUCI HAD FUN with good color schemes and reversible wools. Jackets matched dresses but turned about to paler shades of the same color: emerald, blue, strawberry.

Three-tone costumes consisting of reversible coat and dress came in turquoise, lime and royal; camel, pink and lilac.

Everything was worn with creamy lace stockings . . . AND the mannequins wore gold eyelashes!

Perhaps his wide-legged pajamas and soft slim harem skirts looked old because everyone else is doing them now.

LANCETTI'S SILHOUETTE was more linear than most in this big season for bias—but he used it too.

His suits were "plain Janes" in front, but with fashion news in back . . . with shell backs curved from the slightest shirring under collars . . . with back battle jacket blousing . . . with jackets and skirts featuring center-back box pleats.

Carosa made her point with pleats. Classic jacket suits — some hip length, some hibone length — came with slim-hipped skirts flipped out in wide flat pleats that sometimes hid culottes on suits and long dresses.

Here's Last Word From Italy

Everyone's pants styles were different in collections unveiled the past week by Italian couturiers, says an Associated Press release.

Tito Rossi showed them in a crisp controlled flare, skirts covered in back—for sports, street and long evening clothes.

A matching pair of bermudas under swirling plisse of dark chiffon print made a most attractive dancing idea. In the Rossi collection, there were wedgies with everything.

All the shows took place in individual salons, Paris style, rather than all in one place as is usual tradition in Italy.

PUCCHI HAD FUN with good color schemes and reversible wools. Jackets matched dresses but turned about to paler shades of the same color: emerald, blue, strawberry.

Three-tone costumes consisting of reversible coat and dress came in turquoise, lime and royal; camel, pink and lilac.

Everything was worn with creamy lace stockings . . . AND the mannequins wore gold eyelashes!

Perhaps his wide legged pajamas and soft slim harem skirts looked old because everyone else is doing them now.

LANCETTI'S SILHOUETTE was more linear than most in this big season for bias—but he used it too.

His suits were "plain Janes" in front, but with fashion news in back . . . with shell backs curved from the slightest shirring under collars . . . with back battle jacket blousing . . . with jackets and skirts featuring center-back box pleats.

Carosa made her point with pleats. Classic jacket suits — some hip length, some hibone length — came with slim-hipped skirts flapped out in wide flat pleats that sometimes hid culottes on suits and long dresses.

MALE'S EYE VIEW

A Long Look at Short Skirts

(EDITOR'S NOTE: We have been carrying articles on short skirts for some time—all by women. We think it's high time we had the male viewpoint on this fascinating subject.)

By DAVID SMOTHERS
United Press International

Through history, one of mankind's most pleasant diversions has been the observation and appreciation of the legs of girls. Seldom more so than now.

In what promises to be a banner year for girl watchers, hemlines are on the rise. Not since the end of World War II has so much of the American female's leg been on display.

From the conservative inch-below-the-knee of a year ago, hemlines have risen to the kneecap and beyond—as much as three inches upwards and upwards.

A survey of major cities indicated skirts ascending despite the sniffs of high fashion designers, the frowns of employers more interested in a dignified than a stimulating office atmosphere and the qualms of young women not blessed with a pair of classy stems.

THE SHORT SKIRT syndrome has been attributed to a variety of factors—a new sense of freedom; a burgeoning economy; the "young mod" style which followed the Beatles across the water from England; other leg-directed fashion trends such as patterned hose and high boots.

Sex appeal has also been mentioned. Many male opinions to the contrary, the short skirt has not been an unmixed blessing. Some firms employing large numbers of young women have posed the question whether the undraped knee directs office morale in the right direction.

Mel C. Carpenter, personnel manager of the Georgia-Pacific Corp. of Portland, Ore., observed "if you have one girl who dresses to the extreme and she walks through an office, maybe 25 men will look up for one minute. You've lost 25 minutes of work right there."

Some well-endowed office workers themselves confessed nervousness.

As a Honolulu secretary put it: "I can't concentrate on my typing when a guy is concentrating on my legs."

ALTHOUGH DESIGNER Andre Courreges of Paris endorsed the bare knee and the firms of Monte Sano and Pruzan Shorten of New York planned to exhibit them in their spring collections, not all designers were happy.

One of them, Mollie Parris of New York, protested:

"I definitely am against raising skirts any higher than above the knee. That is as high as you can go for a woman of good taste. I can't imagine anyone above 16 showing their knees."

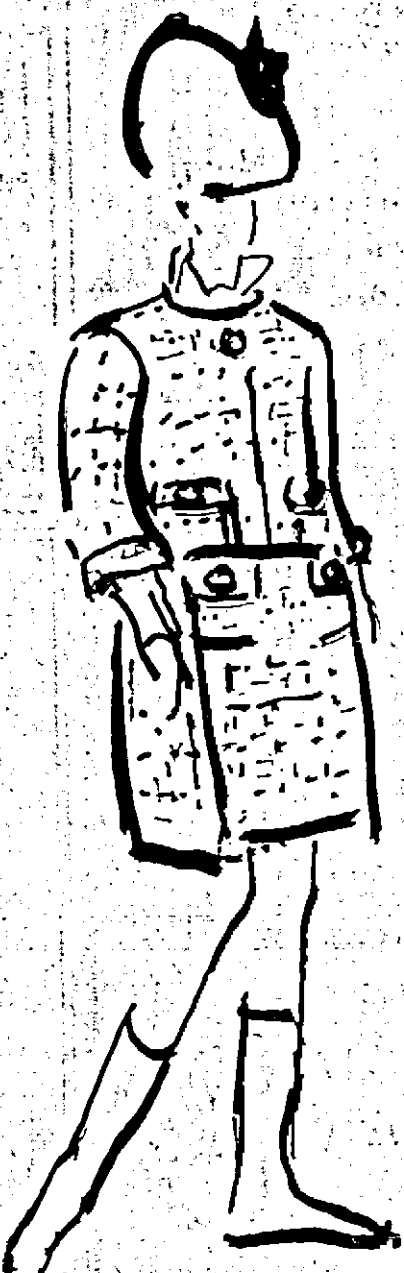

"There isn't one woman on the best-dressed list who would wear these bizarre things."

John Moore, who designed Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's inauguration ball gown, agreed—up to the point.

"Short skirts are cute on kids," he said. "But at these prices I'm not designing for kids. Fashionable women will never wear short skirts."

One fashion arbiter was disapproving, but resigned. Mrs. William Ray, director of the Ray-Vogue School of Dress Design in Chicago, said:

"Women, particularly young girls, like to have their knees show even though it's not good fashion. This year we had planned to drop the hemlines at least an inch. But they just wouldn't go for it. If the dresses get much shorter, women are going to be wearing skating costumes."

COURREGES... new fashion rage of Paris... started all this short skirt stuff last season. Here's the look... the look... the look!

At least one young woman who makes her living by showing her knees—and much more—joined the dissent. Randa Morise, a showgirl who poses in the nude at Las Vegas' Stardust Hotel, said of short skirts, "I really don't approve of them. Skirts should be short enough to show you are a girl and long enough to prove you are a lady."

Miss Morise got no support from actress Angie Dickinson, who, according to film observers, has two of the best legs in Hollywood. She maintained short skirts are a health aid for both man and woman.

"You have to sit up straighter when you wear a short skirt," Miss Dickinson said. "A woman also stands and walks better because more of her shows when she wears a short skirt. They are excellent for men's health, too. Men's heads turn more often, they are wonderful for a man's whistle muscles and men will walk faster—in one direction or another."

IN ANALYZING the psychological motivations behind the rising hemline, Dr. Bryant Feather, a Chicago clinical psychologist, got down to fundamentals.

One factor, he said, is that dress designers like to make money. If styles change, women feel compelled to buy new dresses, he said. "More important, part of the woman's role is to be as attractive as possible to the opposite sex and to use her body in every way that is socially acceptable."

Feather warned that his analysis of feminine behavior did not mean skirts would stay high.

"Raising hemlines exposes the legs, which are a very stimulating thing to a man," he observed. "Lowering hemlines is the negative approach—trying to be provocative to make the poor man guess what's underneath. And it works! That's why the scantily-draped body is more attractive than the nude body."

For himself, Feather favored the short skirt—psychologically speaking.

"It's a healthy trend," he said. "We're going in the direction of new freedom of expression."

From Washington came a statesmanlike view of this latest trend on the public scene. Rep. Charles L. Weiner, D-Ga., said:

"I've received complaints from constituents on every conceivable subject but this. Not a rumor or protest. Therefore, I consider that the people are for it. And anything the people are for, I'm for."

THREE MAJOR AIRLINES—Trans World, United and Braniff—said they did not plan to raise their stewardesses' skirts from the present levels at or just below the knee. Banks and department stores were prominent among firms which frowned upon too much leg exposure. Neiman-Marcus of Dallas said it would offer spring frocks ending two to three inches above the knee, but a spokesman added "Naturally, we don't recommend them to women whose legs won't look good in them."

There was also the aesthetic issue. Ron Wander, an artist who sketches live nudes in a San Francisco night club, declared "Knees, generally, are ugly. Short skirts expose this fact." Oscar Williams, San Francisco adjudicator for the Veterans Administration, took a balanced view.

"The shorter the skirt, the greater the office morale—provided the short skirts are on a fine pair of gams. If a woman's legs aren't very pretty, morale is adversely affected."

A dubious space-age judgment came from a supervisor at the Aerojet General Corp. of Sacramento, Calif., manufacturers of rocket engines.

He said of short skirts: "The room for error in their present systems design is marginal."

An educator, Dr. Howard Seymour, superintendent of the Phoenix Unit High School System, was questioned about the impact of short skirts on high school life.

"The question hasn't even been brought up and please don't mention it," he said.

Firm in His Role as Both Mother, Father

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am 14 and I hate my father. He won't allow me to talk to any boys on the phone and hits the roof if I even mention that I like a boy. He says I'm too young to be interested. This isn't true and I don't think he is being fair.

I would like to double date with my girl friend and her boy friend but Dad won't hear of it. Please help me. My mother doesn't live with us and I have no one to talk to except my father—and he won't listen.

—HELPLESS

DEAR HELPLESS:

Don't hate your father. He may seem unreasonable but it's up to him to take care of you and, without a mother to help, he has quite a job on his hands. He, no doubt, worries about you very much and is trying very hard to keep you out of trouble.

If it could be arranged, perhaps your girl friend's mother could talk to him and persuade him to allow you to double date providing she thinks it would be all right. You are pretty young yet to date but I think phone calls would be fine and you should be able to discuss boy friends with your Dad without either of you losing your tempers.

Try a little harder to understand his side of it and be patient. He has to fill two roles and that's a big job. —M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Whenever I go to our local supermarket I always try to get a certain pretty young lady checker to check my goods through. One evening my wife went with me (I usually do the marketing while she puts the kids to bed), and the girl was friendlier than ever before she realized it was the wife going through the gate with me.

Complexion Beauty

The secret of beautifying the complexion is said to lie in the saturation of the skin with a new type of tropical moist oil. The skin takes on an immediate healthy bloom as the tiny lines and blemishes are gently smoothed away. This saturation treatment with the moist oil of clay is recommended by beauty care consultants, who advise its daily use as a powder base to give the complexion day-long beauty. # Write to Right Wrong

DEAR ABBY: Our church dinners begin promptly at 6:30 and could be over by 8:00 p.m., but after the meal, we are a captive audience for amateur singers, dancers, magicians and long-winded speakers. The chairs provided for us are the wooden folding type, which are utter agony after the first two hours.

Most people would prefer to move about after dinner to visit with friends, or make an early evening of it and go home. Last week we were pinned to those chairs from 6:30 until 11:00 p.m. while various speakers droned on. All I heard around me was, "My back is killing me! How much longer can this go on? My feet are going to sleep." And, "Would it be awful if I sneaked out?" Print this, Abby. The guilty ones will know who they are. Or maybe I should write an anonymous letter to the people who plan the "entertainment?"—HAD IT

ABBY

DEAR HAD IT: Why an anonymous letter? Yours is a legitimate complaint, so write to the chairman of the program committee and sign your name. But don't be surprised if YOU are offered the job next year.

DEAR ABBY: I recently read that a group of parents, teachers and clergymen in a midwestern city drew up a code of teen-age behavior which tells teen-agers of all ages what time to be home from dates, where they may and may not go (drive-ins are out for couples under 17), how they should dress, wear their hair, and conduct themselves generally. What is your opinion of such a code?—ANXIOUS PARENT

DEAR PARENT: You rattled the right cage. I am, in principle, opposed to teen codes, and I made such a statement to some 1,500 students in Louisville, Ky., last year. The following morning I was invited to amplify my statement at breakfast with 12 Louisville clergymen. I said: "The rules of dating, dress and conduct of teen-agers should be the responsibility of their parents. (Perhaps some parents have even a stricter code.) In my opinion, the 'code' is the second line of defense for parents whose children have stopped listening to them long ago. Those are the parents who when they first said NO, got the argument, 'Well, everyone else can,' and didn't have the courage to say, 'We don't care what "everybody else" can do. YOU are our responsibility. And YOU may not. Period! How much more sense it would make simply to say to your teen-agers, "You may not go to the Prom breakfast because we don't want you riding in an automobile driven by a boy who hasn't slept in 24 hours," than to say, "You can't go because on page four in the Teen Code it says, "Prom breakfasts should be forbidden," so because no one else is doing it, you can't either.' "Why humiliate the 'good' teen-agers in a community by imposing on them a code of behavior? Those who will obey the code don't need it. And those who need it, won't pay any attention to it.

"I have no right to set up rules and regulations for the children of others, and no one has the right to impose their rules on my children. Let each parent assume the responsibility of rearing and disciplining his own child."

Luck Is Important

Here is another example of duplicate luck from the first round of the '65 World championship trials in which the U.S. team was determined. Most South players chose to pass, but one South opened with a heart.

Once started on this career, South found it impossible to stop as North proceeded to make one forcing bid after another. Eventually, South found himself at six hearts.

South ruffed the diamond opening and led a heart toward dummy. West played low and South rose with dummy's king. This picked up East's jack and a second trump lead bumped the ace and queen together, whereupon South claimed the rest of the tricks and his contract.

One other North-South pair managed to reach the same horrible slam. Each slam bidder was rewarded with 12 International Match Points while their unfortunate opponents were penalized the same amount.

The most interesting play of this hand occurred when one East player found himself playing a five diamond doubled contract. He got there after his partner doubled a four diamond call by South and North had redoubled.

would win in his own hand and North would make his jack of trumps, but even experts go wrong. North led his last heart, whereupon East made the rest of the tricks but was still down five tricks or 900 points.

Write to Right Wrong

DEAR ABBY: Our church dinners begin promptly at 6:30 and could be over by 8:00 p.m., but after the meal, we are a captive audience for amateur singers, dancers, magicians and long-winded speakers. The chairs provided for us are the wooden folding type, which are utter agony after the first two hours.

Most people would prefer to move about after dinner to visit with friends, or make an early evening of it and go home. Last week we were pinned to those chairs from 6:30 until 11:00 p.m. while various speakers droned on. All I heard around me was, "My back is killing me! How much longer can this go on? My feet are going to sleep." And, "Would it be awful if I sneaked out?" Print this, Abby. The guilty ones will know who they are. Or maybe I should write an anonymous letter to the people who plan the "entertainment?"—HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: Why an anonymous letter? Yours is a legitimate complaint, so write to the chairman of the program committee and sign your name. But don't be surprised if YOU are offered the job next year.

DEAR ABBY: I recently read that a group of parents, teachers and clergymen in a midwestern city drew up a code of teen-age behavior which tells teen-agers of all ages what time to be home from dates, where they may and may not go (drive-ins are out for couples under 17), how they should dress, wear their hair, and conduct themselves generally. What is your opinion of such a code?—ANXIOUS PARENT

DEAR PARENT: You rattled the right cage. I am, in principle, opposed to teen codes, and I made such a statement to some 1,500 students in Louisville, Ky., last year. The following morning I was invited to am-

SOUTH cashed three spade tricks and shifted to a heart won by North's king. A second heart put East in dummy. He led a low trump and finessed his ten. Then he played a club, whereupon the defense cashed two club tricks and led a third club for dummy to ruff.

Another low trump was led from dummy and North made the correct play of the ace. At this point North's correct play was to lead a low trump. East would win in his own hand and North would make his jack of trumps, but even experts go wrong. North led his last heart, whereupon East made the rest of the tricks but was still down five tricks or 900 points.

Mormon Choir to Sing

Dr. Russel N. Squire assured a preview audience Tuesday in Lafayette Hotel that tonight they will hear Long Beach Symphony Orchestra play "beautiful music — a program that combines new ideas with the tried and true."

Long Beach Symphony Association and orchestra conductor Lauris Jones take special pride in presenting the concert at 8 p.m. in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

Frederick Davis will direct the 150-voice Southern California Mormon Choir in Sanctus from Bach's "B Minor Mass," and in Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana." In addition, the orchestra will play the Overture to the "Fireworks Suite" by Handel.

"THE HANDEL music was commissioned by the King of England in 1748 to mark a time of peace, a lull in the troubled wars on the continent. It was first performed at a celebration in 1749," the California State College at Long Beach music professor told his audience.

Bach's music is usually listened to with reverence, fear, trembling and dignity," Squire pointed out. "Actually Bach was quite a gay blade — he had 22 children — and also wrote music in a lighthearted vein. His 'Coffee Cantata' is a great spoof of coffee addicts."

"EVEN DURING his lifetime his music was sought after by both Protestant and Roman Catholic churches and today it still is played in churches of almost every denomination. He wrote the 'B Minor Mass' as a credential when he applied for a position as court musician. The music is reflective and heart stimulating."

"Carmina Burana" is a collection of 24 lyrics written in the 14th century by balladeers, minstrels, defrocked priests, vagabonds and students in low German, French and medieval Latin. They survived because they were hidden by Benedictine monks and were discovered in modern times. Carl Orff put them in dramatic form arranged in three parts, "In the Spring," "In the Tavern," and "The Court of Love."

"THEY are colorful, frank, bawdy with earthy humor and mockery and they give us an enticing, exciting insight into the minds of people who lived in the 1300s. We find that they had the same troubles we have, but it is heartening to know that, despite problems, man has made great strides in history," Squire said.

Tickets for tonight's performance are still available. The auditorium box office will open at 2 p.m.—ELISE EMERY.

PREMIERE PRODUCTION

Dan, played by Jay Ellis, and Hedy, played by Diane Hilderbrand, are leading characters in "Babylon by Candlelight" at Off-Broadway Theater. This is the premiere production of the comedy of love and sex by South Bay author Duke Yelton. Curtain goes up at 8:30 p. m. Fridays through Sundays with the exception of Jan. 29, when theater is dark.

Folklorico to Return Feb. 8 to 24

The Ballet Folklorico of Mexico returns to Los Angeles Feb. 8 for an engagement in the Pavilion of The Music Center extending through Feb. 24.

The colorful troupe of 75 dancers, singers and musicians that made its American debut in Hollywood Bowl in 1962, repeated its success in 1963 and is being brought back again by S. Harok through an arrangement with the Southern California Symphony Association.

Two new ballets have been added to the company's varied repertory, "The Tarascans" and "The Creation of the Aztec World."

OTHER highlights will be the barbaric "People of the Sun," the splendidly costumed ancient dance, "Quetzales," concerning a bird who symbolizes beauty, the "Bamba" and the Zapateados (boot dances) from Jalisco. Accompaniments will be played by various groups of musicians including mariachos, marimbaists, Veracruzanos and Indians. Appropriate instruments, some hundreds of years old, are used for each dance.

Mail orders are now being accepted by the Southern California Symphony Association, 135 North Grand Avenue, Los Angeles 90012. An illustrated brochure is available on request.

Band to Play

CSLB Drawing Show Is Boon to Collectors

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The Sixth Annual Juried Drawing Show in the gallery of California State College at Long Beach, which continues through Feb. 14, is a significant one on the art calendar for all of Southern California.

Viewing hours are 8 a.m. to noon, and 1 to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Visiting the campus at 6101 E. Seventh St. is greatly simplified by the allocation of a special parking lot between Seventh St. and the Little Theater.

IN VIEW of the recent historical drawing survey by the City College Gallery, this show has much to offer the viewer, no matter what his interest. There are specific figure drawings, drawings of objects and landscapes, but, most of all, abstract drawings. The latter include free, expressive renderings like Gerd Koch's "4th Of July," and Louis Gadal's "There is a Reason?" or very specific drawings of imaginary events like Leonard Edmondson's "Untitled" or Robert Click's "Beginning."

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to categorize the works; the artists themselves are uninterested in classifications. Charles Thompson's surreal "Midnight Light" of specific objects on a table is more "unreal" than Click's busily-forming cellular things. The relationships and non-relationships of the works are subtly revealed by skillful juxtaposition in their installation by gallery director Taizo Miake.

AMONG the figure drawings, Paul Darrow's "Man Unbound" piques the imagination; a limp human form is surrounded by flying bandages, pulled by an unknown force.

Rossi to Discuss Philharmonic Bill

Nick Rossi, music consultant for Los Angeles City Schools, will be guest speaker at the annual evening buffet and salon of Long Beach Auxiliary of Southern California Symphony Association Thursday at 6:30 p. m. in Petroleum Club.

The salon is given especially for husbands and escorts of auxiliary members and for season ticket subscribers. Mrs. C. H. Woodruff is general chairman. Members and subscribers may come at 8 p.m. for the program only if they wish.

ROSSI will be assisted by Jay Rosen, violinist, and Stephen Tosh, pianist, who will play Hungarian dances by Bartok.

The speaker will discuss the program which Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra will play under the direction of Alfred Wallenstein Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

Guest soloist at the concert will be Byron Janis who will play "Piano Concerto No. 3" by Prokofiev. Other numbers will be "Manfred Overture" by Schumann, "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks" by Strauss and "Symphony No. 7" by Beethoven.

Melchior, Choir Perform Monday

Operatic tenor Lauritz Melchior will be featured with the Dana College Choir from Blair, Neb., when that Lutheran choral organization makes its only appearance in this area Monday. The concert will be given in the auditorium of Olivet Lutheran Church, 2506 W. Imperial Highway, Inglewood, at 8 p.m.

Paul E. Neve will direct the 56-voice choir in a program of traditional classics, American folk songs, Negro spirituals and compositions by contemporary American musicians.

'Art in America' Plan Told

By ELISE EMERY Arts Page Editor

"Art in America," a nation-wide program to encourage artists and stimulate interest in art, will begin in March, when artists in the United States are invited to submit works in regional competitions. These will be held in Atlanta, Ga.; Boston, Mass.; Columbus, Ohio; and San Francisco.

George H. Pringle, president of the Mead Corporation which is sponsoring the program, said, "These works of art are expected to reflect accurately the status and current trends in art across America and we look forward to taking them on tour to leading art museums throughout the country during the rest of 1965 and in 1966."

Original paintings, sketches, drawings and prints will be judged professionally. In each region approximately 50 works will be selected for exhibition in the spring. The national show will open in New York City in September.

Entries in the competitions will be solicited and received by the co-sponsoring regional museums. The four regional exhibitions, after juried competitions, will open as follows: Museum of the Atlanta Art Association, May 15; Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, June 4; the Institute of Contemporary Art, Boston, May 1; and San Francisco Museum of Art, June 17. In each case, the director or another official of the museum will serve on the three-man selection committee.

Committee for the Far West includes George Culler, San Francisco Museum of Art; James Elliott, Los Angeles County Museum; and Francis Newton, Portland Art Museum.

CHARLES HAMMOND, who teaches portrait technique at Lakewood Art Association workshop, will lecture and demonstrate his subject Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Mayfair Park Clubhouse.

Installation of new officers, criticism of paintings and refreshments will complete the evening.

ART HISTORIAN Lorenz Eitner of Stanford University will address alumni of Stanford Tuesday in Palos Verdes Art Gallery. The meeting is sponsored by the Stanford Junior Women's Club of Palos Verdes.

Dr. Eitner, a specialist in the history of 19th century painting, came to Stanford in 1963 from the University of Minnesota. As head of the department of art and architecture, he has expanded the art faculty and curriculum, directed remodeling of the Stanford Museum and has launched the artist-in-residence program and art lecture series.

JACK KAY will open a one-man exhibit at Naples Gallery, 5604 E. Second St., with a reception Monday from 7:30 to 11 p.m. The public is invited. The 40-painting show will include Kay's recent paintings and those done in Montana.

Mormon Choir to Sing

Dr. Russel N. Squire assured a preview audience Tuesday in Lafayette Hotel that tonight they will hear Long Beach Symphony Orchestra play "beautiful music" — a program that combines new ideas with the tried and true.

Long Beach Symphony Association and orchestra conductor Lauris Jones, take special pride in presenting the concert at 8 p.m. in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

Frederick Davis will direct the 150-voice Southern California Mormon Choir in Sanctus from Bach's "B Minor Mass," and in Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana." In addition, the orchestra will play the Overture to the "Fireworks Suite" by Tindal.

"THE HANDEL music was commissioned by the King of England in 1748 to mark a time of peace, a lull in the troubled wars on the continent. It was first performed at a celebration in 1749," the California State College at Long Beach music professor told his audience.

"Bach's music is usually listened to with reverence, fear, trembling and dignity," Squire pointed out. "Actually Bach was quite a gay blade — he had 22 children — and also wrote music in a lighthearted vein. His 'Coffee Cantata' is a great spoof of coffee addicts."

"EVEN DURING his lifetime his music was sought after by both Protestant and Roman Catholic churches and today it still is played in churches of almost every denomination. He wrote the 'B Minor Mass' as a credential when he applied for a position as court musician. The music is reflective and heart stimulating."

"Carmina Burana" is a collection of 24 lyrics written in the 14th century by balladeers, minstrels, defrocked priests, vagabonds and students in low German, French and medieval Latin. They survived because they were hidden by Benedictine monks and were discovered in modern times. Carl Orff put them in dramatic form arranged in three parts, "In the Spring," "In the Tavern," and "The Court of Love."

"THEY are colorful, frank, bawdy with earthy humor and mockery and they give us an enticing, exciting insight into the minds of people who lived in the 1300s. We find that they had the same troubles we have, but it is heartening to know that, despite problems, man has made great strides in history," Squire said.

Tickets for tonight's performance are still available. The auditorium box office will open at 2 p.m.—ELISE EMERY.

PREMIERE PRODUCTION

Dan, played by Jay Ellis, and Hedy, played by Diane Hilderbrand, are leading characters in "Babylon by Candlelight" at Off-Broadway Theater. This is the premiere production of the comedy of love and sex by South Bay author Duke Yetton. Curtain goes up at 8:30 p. m. Fridays through Sundays with the exception of Jan. 29, when theater is dark.

Folklorico to Return Feb. 8 to 24

The Ballet Folklorico of Mexico returns to Los Angeles Feb. 8 for an engagement in The Pavilion of the Music Center extending through Feb. 24.

The colorful troupe of 75 dancers, singers and musicians that made its American debut in Hollywood Bowl in 1962, repeated its success in 1963 and is being brought back again by S. Hurok through an arrangement with the Southern California Symphony Association.

Two new ballets have been added to the company's varied repertory, "The Tarascans" and "The Creation of the Aztec World."

OTHER highlights will be the barbaric "People of the Sun," the splendidly costumed ancient dance, "Quetzales," concerning a bird who symbolizes beauty, the "Bamba" and the Zapateados (boot dances) from Jalisco. Accompaniments will be played by various groups of musicians including mariachos, marimbaists, Veracruzanos and Indians. Appropriate instruments, some hundreds of years old, are used for each dance.

Mail orders are now being accepted by the Southern California Symphony Association, 135 North Grand Avenue, Los Angeles 90012. An illustrated brochure is available on request.

Band to Play

CSLB Drawing Show Is Boon to Collectors

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The Sixth Annual Juried Drawing Show in the gallery of California State College at Long Beach, which continues through Feb. 14, is a significant one on the art calendar for all of Southern California.

Viewing hours are 8 a.m. to noon, and 1 to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Visiting the campus at 6101 E. Seventh St. is greatly simplified by the allocation of a special parking lot between Seventh St. and the Little Theater.

IN VIEW of the recent historical drawing survey by the City College Gallery, this show has much to offer the viewer, no matter what his interest. There are specific figure drawings, drawings of objects and landscapes, but, most of all, abstract drawings. The latter include free, expressive renderings like Gerd Koch's "4th Of July," and Louis Gadal's "There is a Reason?" or very specific drawings of imaginary events like Leonard Edmondson's "Untitled" or Robert Click's "Beginning."

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to categorize the works; the artists themselves are uninterested in classifications. Charles Thompson's surreal "Midnight Light" of specific objects on a table is more "unreal" than Click's busily-forming cellular things. The relationships and non-relationships of the works are subtly revealed by skillful juxtaposition in their installation by gallery director Taizo Miake.

AMONG the figure drawings, Paul Darrow's "Man Unbound" piques the imagination; a limp human form is surrounded by flying bandages, pulled by an unknown force.

Rossi to Discuss Philharmonic Bill

Nick Rossi, music consultant for Los Angeles City Schools, will be guest speaker at the annual evening buffet and salon of Long Beach Auxiliary of Southern California Symphony Association Thursday at 6:30 p. m. in Petroleum Club.

The salon is given especially for husbands and escorts of auxiliary members and for season ticket subscribers. Mrs. C. H. Woodruff is general chairman. Members and subscribers may come at 8 p.m. for the program only if they wish.

ROSSI will be assisted by Jay Rosen, violinist, and Stephen Tosh, pianist, who will play Hungarian dances by Bartok.

The speaker will discuss the program which Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra will play under the direction of Alfred Wallenstein Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

Guest soloist at the concert will be Byron Janis who will play "Piano Concerto No. 3" by Prokofiev. Other numbers will be "Manfred Overture" by Schumann, "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks" by Strauss and "Symphony No. 7" by Beethoven.

Melchior, Choir Perform Monday

Operatic tenor Lauritz Melchior will be featured with the Dana College Choir from Blair, Neb., when that Lutheran choral organization makes its only appearance in this area Monday. The concert will be given in the auditorium of Olivet Lutheran Church, 2506 W. Imperial Highway, Inglewood, at 8 p.m.

Paul E. Neve will direct the 56-voice choir in a program of traditional classics, American folk songs, Negro spirituals and compositions by contemporary American musicians.

'Art in America' Plan Told

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

"Art in America," a nation-wide program to encourage artists and stimulate interest in art, will begin in March, when artists in the United States are invited to submit works in regional competitions. These will be held in Atlanta, Ga.; Boston, Mass.; Columbus, Ohio; and San Francisco.

George H. Pringle, president of the Mead Corporation which is sponsoring the program, said, "These works of art are expected to reflect accurately the status and current trends in art across America and we look forward to taking them on tour to leading art museums throughout the country during the rest of 1965 and in 1966."

Original paintings, sketches, drawings and prints will be judged professionally. In each region approximately 50 works will be selected for exhibition in the spring. The national show will open in New York City in September.

Entries in the competitions will be solicited and received by the co-sponsoring regional museums. The four regional exhibitions, after juried competitions, will open as follows: Museum of the Atlanta Art Association, May 15; Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, June 4; the Institute of Contemporary Art, Boston, May 1; and San Francisco Museum of Art, June 17. In each case, the director or another official of the museum will serve on the three-man selection committee.

Committee for the Far West includes George Culler, San Francisco Museum of Art; James Elliott, Los Angeles County Museum; and Francis Newton, Portland Art Museum.

CHARLES HAMMOND, who teaches portrait technique at Lakewood Art Association workshop, will lecture and demonstrate his subject Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Mayfair Park Clubhouse.

Installation of new officers, criticism of paintings and refreshments will complete the evening.

ART HISTORIAN Lorenz Eitner of Stanford University will address alumni of Stanford Tuesday in Palos Verdes Art Gallery. The meeting is sponsored by the Stanford Junior Women's Club of Palos Verdes.

Dr. Eitner, a specialist in the history of 19th century painting, came to Stanford in 1963 from the University of Minnesota. As head of the department of art and architecture, he has expanded the art faculty and curriculum, directed remodeling of the Stanford Museum and has launched the artist-in-residence program and art lecture series.

JACK KAY will open a one-man exhibit at Naples Gallery, 5604 E. Second St., with a reception Monday from 7:30 to 11 p.m. The public is invited. The 40-painting show will include Kay's recent paintings and those done in Montana.

Arena Books Smotherses, Yarborough

Circle Feb. 6 as the night the Smothers Brothers and Glenn Yarborough — formerly with the Limelighters — come to Long Beach Arena for "an evening of folk tunes and comedy."

Brash, uninhibited and zany, Tom and Dick Smothers left their hometown bistro, San Francisco's Purple Onion, a few years ago unknown beyond their local area. A year later they were on their way up as purveyors of modern folk songs and comedy; today they are at the summit.

YARBOROUGH, whose fine tenor voice, imaginative arrangements and ability to make a guitar sing, contributed so much to the Limelighters, is now a single performer. He will be backed up by an instrumental trio at the arena.

Seats are on sale at the box office, all Mutual Agencies and Wallich's Music City stores.

Golden Era Recaptured on Films

"The Golden Twenties," a 60-minute black and white motion picture film about the decade between 1919 and 1929, will be shown Tuesday at Dana Branch Library, 3680 Atlantic Ave.

The people and events that made the twenties one of the most exciting periods of American history are re-created through old film clips. The speakeasy, flapper and the Charleston helped to give it the name of "The Jazz Age." But it was more than that. It was also the time of the Scopes trial and Clarence Darrow, of the Teapot Dome oil scandal and the crystal radio set, of the Hall-Mills murder trial and such literary giants as Conrad and Hemingway, of Lindbergh, Red Groom, Ziegfeld, Jack Dempsey and Sir Harry Lauder's knobby knees.

"The Golden Twenties" starts promptly at 7:30 p. m. Children under 14 should be accompanied by adults.

Clinic Auxiliary Installs

Installation of Mrs. Jack P. Weber as president of Auxiliary to Long Beach Children's Clinic will take place during a 9:30 a. m. coffee hour Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Lynn Evans, 3918 Marron Ave. She succeeds Mrs. Preston Johnson.

Mrs. Arthur Huey, the auxiliary's first president, will install Mrs. Weber and her board members, Mmes. Louis Strohm, Charles M. Bell, Lynn Evans, John S. Ferguson, Donald Hubbell, Max Z. Wisot, Earle F. Prater, Loyd Landes, Harvey L. Stockham, Warren A. Smith, Reed Williams, Bernice Buss, Laura L. Bassett and Miss Florence Jeffs.

MRS. WEBER is a graduate of Syracuse University and Columbia University School of Nursing and is a former Long Beach school nurse. Her affiliations include Delta Gamma Alumnae, South Coast Chapter of National Charity League, Long Beach Symphony Guild and Los Altos Methodist Church. Mrs. Weber and her husband, Leisure World pharmacist, reside in Rossmore with their five children.

Long Beach Senior Citizens' Democratic Council will meet at 11 a. m. Wednesday at Linden Hall with luncheon scheduled at 12:30 p. m. The public is welcome.

Keep on Hand Freeing Molds

You might enjoy keeping a jar of marinated artichoke hearts on hand to use when unexpected guests come. The artichoke will make a fine hors d'oeuvre with celery hearts, canned pimiento and thin slices of salami (if possible, the Italian type).

To unmold a gelatin preparation, just dip the bottom of the mold into hot water, invert and turn out. If this doesn't do the trick, loosen the top edge of the gelatin mixture with a small knife or spatula and then try again.

Bone Veal Roast

Ever have a leg of veal boned before roasting? This preparation makes the meat easy to carve; your meat market will roll and tie the meat in compact fashion after boning.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Success Story: Wise in the Way of Ys

By Mildred Flanary • I, P-T Food Editor

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I, P-T Food Editor

His is a really, truly success story—and it all started on a rubbish-covered vacant lot in Caracas, Venezuela.

Clair H. Johnson, today's candidate for Chef of the Week, says his "hobbies" are kids. And well they should be. Joining the "Y" at age 12, Johnson today is general secretary of the YMCA, Long Beach and surrounding area. Boasting 16,443 members, it is growing four and one-half times faster than the population.

Born in Humbley, Neb., Johnson's "Y" experiences have taken him to Lincoln and Norfolk, Neb., Boston, Mass., Pittsburgh, Pa., Portland, Ore., and Caracas.

WHEN JOHNSON started YMCA work in Caracas in 1946, the outlook for success was far from promising. Governmental red-tape delayed necessary official recognition. Building space was unobtainable. Funds were unavailable to finance the work.

With one volleyball, a piece of rope for a net, and 14 boys (rounded up from the street), his first program took place on a vacant lot. Two of these first 14 members are now on the Caracas "Y" staff, which operates in 29 centers throughout the city. Volunteer leaders number over 700; membership, 100,000. Five camps are in operation, three of them for underprivileged youth. Wide popular approval is expressed in generous responses to the association's financial campaign.

FLANARY

WHEN HE LEFT Venezuela in 1962, he was awarded the "Orden de Miranda" by Romulo Betancourt, president of Venezuela. The decoration is given those "who have contributed to the progress of the country." Seldom is it given to a foreigner.

Johnson, a graduate of the Northwestern University of Boston, has studied at Nebraska Wesleyan, Harvard and the University of Pittsburgh.

Johnson and his wife, Helen, have a married daughter, Joann, who resides in Portland with three future "Y" recruits. The Johnsons have a son, Loren, of Los Angeles.

Perhaps the prime reason for Johnson's great success is his ability to ignore everything (even a revolution) when concentrating on "Y" work.

While traveling, the family has lost him (he not them) on any number of occasions—airplanes have paged him (without response) while he talked away on the why of "Y."

He apparently was the only person in Caracas not alerted by an "alert" that the city was in a revolution. Arriving home long, long after the dinner hour, he was amazed that anything was different. However, he had, that day, succeeded in financing another "Y."

A ROTARIAN of 26 years, he is a member of the National Association of YMCA secretaries, and of the South American "Y" secretaries group, called Adelphia. He belongs to Sigma Epsilon Rho and Phi Kappa Tau fraternities. He and Mrs. Johnson belong to the Dinner Club.

You may be sure when he whips up something for the "kids," it's something boys like . . . like Paella.

CLAIR H. JOHNSON
Chef of the Week

be set up to give you about 20% off. Sometimes they urge it on you as a final sales effort. If they don't ask for it.

I noticed at Deauville, the French sea resort, signs in the windows said "20% discount for American travelers' checks." When there was a black market on money in France, this discounting meant something. Dollars were hard and valuable. At present I can't see why they should discount for any kind of money. The franc is stable—you can't get more francs for travel checks. This seems to me a sort of sales gimmick.

If Deauville can discount 20% for travel checks, they've got a markup going. Paris should be able to discount for checks, francs, dollars or what have you.

"Are there tours or any way that you can visit countries and get into their homes and see how they live?"

MOST NATIONAL tourist bureaus have some arrangements like this. The best one I've seen is in Denmark, where you can meet families who will invite you to live with them.

If you talk to the Japan Travel Bureau, you can choose from 64 families in Kyoto, for example. Visit a Kabuki actor, painter, diplomat, professor, businessman and so on.

"Can you suggest places that are REALLY cheap to live in Europe? For about three months?"

PORTUGAL, Spain, Austria, Switzerland remain the cheapest for living costs. Get outside Lisbon and I think you can live in Portugal frugally for about $250 per month. There are very good beach towns and the weather is splendid.

A sleeper is the Canary Islands (Spanish), 60 miles off the northwest coast of Africa. You fly it in two hours from Madrid. Warm, sunny, good beaches. Average hotel price with meals, $6. You could probably rent a house and do much better in the local markets.

"You say people can live in Spain very well on $300 a month. But where do you find housing? Is there any specific list?"

THE TOURIST people in Madrid answered me on this: "We answer EVERY letter." They didn't have a list but indicated they would give advice. I don't have much luck with most tourist bureaus—they seem to be hiring somebody's cousins. And not the bright ones, either. But you could try: Direccion General del Turismo, Avenida del Generalísimo, 39, Madrid, Spain.

"What we would like (in Switzerland) is a list of good hotels. . . ."

THE SWISS Tourist Office, 10 W. 49th St., New York 22, gives you a list. You can get it at any Swiss airport on landing. In New York or almost any large American city. But ALL Swiss hotels are excellent. The trick in Switzerland is to pick small hotels. The manager then gives you personal service. Better than your own home.

"Best Paris shop for best prices on perfumes, please?"

ALL FRENCH shops are very competitive on perfumes. The prices are much the same. However, here are a few shopping devices: "First, ask for a discount—on any gifts you buy in France, not just perfume. All tourist shops seem to Five camps are in operation, three of them for underprivileged youth. Wide popular approval is expressed in generous responses to the association's financial campaign.

FLANARY

WHEN HE LEFT Venezuela in 1962, he was awarded the "Orden de Miranda" by Romulo Betancourt, president of Venezuela. The decoration is given those "who have contributed to the progress of the country." Seldom is it given to a foreigner.

Johnson, a graduate of the Northwestern University of Boston, has studied at Nebraska Wesleyan, Harvard and the University of Pittsburgh.

Johnson and his wife, Helen, have a married daughter, Joann, who resides in Portland with three future "Y" recruits. The Johnsons have a son, Loren, of Los Angeles.

Perhaps the prime reason for Johnson's great success is his ability to ignore everything (even a revolution) when concentrating on "Y" work.

While traveling, the family has lost him (he not them) on any number of occasions—airplanes have paged him (without response) while he talked away on the way of "Y."

He apparently was the only person in Caracas not alerted by an "alert" that the city was in a revolution. Arriving home long, long after the dinner hour, he was amazed that anything was different. However, he had, that day, succeeded in financing another "Y."

A ROTARIAN of 26 years, he is a member of the National Association of YMCA secretaries, and of the South American "Y" secretaries group, called Adelphia. He belongs to Sigma Epsilon Rho and Phi Kappa Tau fraternities. He and Mrs. Johnson belong to the Dinner Club.

You may be sure when he whips up something for the "kids," it's something boys like . . . like Paella.

Herman-Connell

Mid-afternoon ceremonies Saturday in All Saint's Episcopal Church united in marriage Frances Louise Connell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Connell, 6358 Cantel St., and Thomas B. Herman of Seal Beach.

The bride chose for her vows a floor length satin gown with lace jacket embroidered in seed pearls. A pearl crown held her tulle veil.

Graduate of Huntington Beach High School and Cal State, Long Beach, where she affiliated with Sigma Alpha Iota music fraternity, the new Mrs. Herman was attended by Catherine Ann Connell, maid of honor, Nancy Covert, Mosie Mackey and Ingrid Pratt, bridesmaids.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Herman of Kuhl, N.D., asked Curtis Whitney to attend as best man. Ushers were James Jones, George Hatfield and Robert Wilberg.

The newlyweds are at home in Seal Beach. Herman received early schooling in North Dakota and attended Santa Ana Junior College. He served four years with the U.S. Marine Corps.

Whetstone-Dew

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Dew, Lakewood, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over peau de soie. A crown of pearls held her tulle and lace veil and she carried butterfly orchids with stephanotis.

Included in the entourage were Shirley Cotton, matron of honor; Jimmy R. Smith, best man; Jackie Woodman, Marilyn Martin, bridesmaids; Tony Plasier and Ted Renner, ushers.

The newlyweds are on a honeymoon trip to Las Vegas and Arizona.

An alumna of Lakewood High School, the bride attended Long Beach City College. Her husband is son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Whetstone, 2827 E. 56th St. He was graduated from Jordan High School.

Vatnsdal-Harvey

Launa Lee Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Harvey, 1680 E. 53rd St., became the bride of Gerald Allen Vatnsdal in a Saturday evening wedding ceremony solemnized in Trinity United Presbyterian Church.

The bride couple will be at home in Long Beach after a honeymoon trip to Carmel and Las Vegas.

A white ballerina length gown of organza and Chantilly lace was selected by the bride. She carried a white orchid on a white Bible.

The wedding date has not been set.

TRAVEL and RESORTS

"Can you suggest places that are REALLY cheap to live in Europe? For about three months?"

PORTUGAL, Spain, Austria, Switzerland remain the cheapest for living costs. Get outside Lisbon and I think you can live in Portugal frugally for about $250 per month. There are very good beach towns and the weather is splendid.

A sleeper is the Canary Islands (Spanish), 60 miles off the northwest coast of Africa. You fly it in two hours from Madrid. Warm, sunny, good beaches. Average hotel price with meals, $6. You could probably rent a house and do much better in the local markets.

"You say people can live in Spain very well on $300 a month. But where do you find housing? Is there any specific list?"

THE TOURIST people in Madrid answered me on this: "We answer EVERY letter." They didn't have a list but indicated they would give advice. I don't have much luck with most tourist bureaus—they seem to be hiring somebody's cousins. And not the bright ones, either. But you could try: Direccion General del Turismo, Avenida del Generalissimo, 39, Madrid, Spain.

"What we would like (in Switzerland) is a list of good hotels. . . ."

THE SWISS Tourist Office, 10 W. 49th St., New York 22, gives you a list. You can get it at any Swiss airport on landing. In New York or almost any large American city. But ALL Swiss hotels are excellent. The trick in Switzerland is to pick small hotels. The manager then gives you personal service. Better than your own home.

"Best Paris shop for best prices on perfumes, please?"

ALL FRENCH shops are very competitive on perfumes. The prices are much the same. However, here are a few shopping devices:

"First, ask for a discount—on any gifts you buy in France, not just perfume. All tourist shops seem to be set up to give you about 20% off. Sometimes they urge it on you as a final sales effort. If they don't ask for it.

I noticed at Deauville, the French sea resort, signs in the windows said "20% discount for American travelers' checks." When there was a black market on money in France, this discounting meant something. Dollars were hard and valuable. At present I can't see why they should discount for any kind of money. The franc is stable—you can't get more francs for travel checks. This seems to me a sort of sales gimmick.

If Deauville can discount 20% for travel checks, they've got a markup going. Paris should be able to discount for checks, francs, dollars or what have you.

"Are there tours or any way that you can visit countries and get into their homes and see how they live?"

MOST NATIONAL tourist bureaus have some arrangements like this. The best one I've seen is in Denmark, where you can meet families who will invite you to live with them.

If you talk to the Japan Travel Bureau, you can choose from 64 families in Kyoto, for example. Visit a Kabuki actor, painter, diplomat, professor, businessman and so on.

Mardi Gras Explodes March 2 in Revelry

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

"Mask so nobody will know who you are; drink enough so you won't care if they do."

That is the spirit of the famed New Orleans revelry called Mardi Gras, which this year falls on March 2.

This original multi-megaton blast has been called indescribable. But an ochre-rouge "Spanish Gypsy" propped up by a French Quarter patio wall last year described it the way Orleansians are fond of having it described.

He said, "Mardi Gras ... A-ah ahl ... and slumped."

This five-dimensional phantasmagoria of blare, polychromatic floats, lusting for costume jewelry and soirees on a street so aptly called Bourbon, jolts you into realization of the fact that it's Lent.

BEGINNING officially on the Twelfth Night and continuing until Shrove Tuesday, the Mardi Gras season in New Orleans has gained the status as being the gayest, most carefree celebration in the United States.

Serious business is forgotten. More than 60 balls are given, gorgeously-attired debutantes are presented, parades wind like serpents through the streets, thousands of costumes are fitted, and countless visitors—many of them from the West Coast—pour into the city.

These visitors usually take in the final four days beginning the Saturday before the Great Explosion of merry-making. But for the Orleansian, this period climaxes the season known as "Carnival."

MARDI GRAS began as a private celebration prior to Lent, and street masking became popular in the mid-19th century. Today's riotous Carnival is still primarily a religious event, and the Carnival balls are private affairs.

Mardi Gras breaks into the streets with the first parade Feb. 14. Some 23 others will follow with one almost every day, seven on the big day itself starting in the morning and continuing through the evening. Rex—Lord of Misrule, King of Carnival—appears about noon.

Naturally, the most spectacular parades are the ones held at night. Whatever the many colors of the float, they always reflect also the vivid pink radiated by the flambeaux. Fumes from these ancient torches throw the parade into a misty half-reality that draws everyone into feeling of abandon.

MOST VISITORS arrive with the notion that they will simply watch the floats go by, and not participate in the goings-on. But soon, when a float approaches resembling a giant piece of cotton candy floating over outstretched arms, they find themselves echoing the Mardi Gras cheer: "Hey, throw me something!"

It is in this way that most onlookers get into the act, and a myriad of trinkets go into outstretched hands.

The best place to watch the parades is in the French Quarter along Royal Streets for parades before Mardi Gras. You name the spot on Mardi Gras day. But, in a balcony in the French Quarter, you can almost touch the people on bedecked floats.

The New Orleans Tourist Commission, 400 Royal St., advises visitors to make reservations early and bring a costume. (A free folder is available from the Commission.) Years ago you couldn't get a bed in New Orleans at any price but now, like other cities, New Orleans has greatly expanded its tourist facilities.

EMERALD ISLAND

Sure and It's Like a Morn in Spring

And to be sure now but isn't it true. More Irish people—unless you believe in the little paipie—live outside the Emerald Isle than in it.

Eire—the Irish Republic—has 26 counties covering 26,601 square miles. And only 2,885,000 inhabitants. It is not a rich country, and, as a result, Irishmen are found all over the world seeking their fortunes.

At home in their green paradise of beautiful mountains and lakeland scenery—a bewitching holiday land like a morn in spring—the Irish are warm and generous.

THE PRICE of a stay in this beautiful land of shamrocks and leprechauns can easily be lower than in any other European country. Bed and breakfast in a country guest home costs as little as $2; and a night's stay in a luxury hotel in Dublin, the capital, can be bought for $11.20, according to British Overseas Airways Corp.

More than a thousand lakes and rivers and two thousand miles of coastline offer first class bathing, boating and angling.

Favorite national pastimes of the Irish include hunting, steeple-chasing and flat racing—some of the finest bloodstock in the world is bred here. The Dublin Horse Show is Ireland's social event of the year.

Dublin also has an annual international music festival; and two of its theaters, the Abbey and the Gate, are internationally famous, a BOAC spokesman said.

IRELAND was, of course, the land that gave the world Yeats and Shaw and Joyce and Behan to enrich the world's literature.

Offer Youth Employment in Germany

Summers in Europe are no longer the prerogative of the rich and old, but becoming the domain of the young and poor. Lufthansa German Airlines, in cooperation with the German Government Labor Office has created a program whereby American students can spend their summer holidays working in Germany. This will enable them to gain first hand knowledge of the country while paying their own way.

The program is open to male and female students of at least 18 years of age at the time of employment. Students are expected to work a minimum of two months and may spend the balance of their summer holiday traveling and sightseeing. A basic knowledge of German is required. There are job possibilities in agriculture, forestry service, industry, construction work, hotels and restaurants, hospitals and child care.

American students do not need entry visas for Germany. Work permits can be obtained in Germany from local labor offices. No fees are charged for securing the jobs, with Lufthansa acting as intermediary for the German Government Labor Office. Applications forms may be obtained from Lufthansa's 10 sales and ticket offices throughout the West. They must be filed before March 15.

Mardi Gras Explodes March 2 in Revelry

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

"Mask so nobody will know who you are; drink enough so you won't care if they do."

That is the spirit of the famed New Orleans revelry called Mardi Gras, which this year falls on March 2.

This original multi-megaton blast has been called indescribable. But an ochreous "Spanish Gypsy" propped up by a French Quarter patio wall last year described it the way Orleansians are fond of having it described.

He said, "Mardi Gras ... Ah-ah-ah!" and slumped.

This five-dimensional phantasmagoria of blare, polychrome floats, jostling for costume jewelry and soirees on a street so aptly called Bourbon, jolts you into realization of the fact that it's Lent.

BEGINNING officially on the Twelfth Night and continuing until Shrove Tuesday, the Mardi Gras season in New Orleans has gained the status as being the gayest, most carefree celebration in the United States.

Serious business is forgotten. More than 60 balls are given, gorgeously-attired debutantes are presented, parades wind like serpents through the streets, thousands of costumes are fitted, and countless visitors—many of them from the West Coast—pour into the city.

These visitors usually take in the final four days beginning the Saturday before the Great Explosion of merry-making. But for the Orleansian, this period climaxes the season known as "Carnival."

MARDI GRAS began as a private celebration prior to Lent, and street masking became popular in the mid-19th century. Today's riotous Carnival is still primarily a religious event, and the Carnival balls are private affairs.

Mardi Gras breaks into the streets with the first parade Feb. 14. Some 23 others will follow with one almost every day, seven on the big day itself starting in the morning and continuing through the evening. Rex—Lord of Mischief, King of Carnival—appears about noon.

Naturally, the most spectacular parades are the ones held at night. Whatever the many colors of the float, they always reflect also the vivid pink radiated by the flambeaux. Fumes from these ancient torches throw the parade into a misty half-reality that draws everyone into feeling of abandon.

MOST VISITORS arrive with the notion that they will simply watch the floats go by, and not participate in the goings-on. But soon, when a float approaches resembling a giant piece of cotton candy floating over outstretched arms, they find themselves echoing the Mardi Gras cheer: "Hey, throw me something!"

It is in this way that most onlookers get into the act, and a myriad of trinkets go into outstretched hands.

The best place to watch the parades is in the French Quarter along Royal Streets for parades before Mardi Gras. You name the spot on Mardi Gras day. But, in a balcony in the French Quarter, you can almost touch the people on bedecked floats.

The New Orleans Tourist Commission, 400 Royal St., advises visitors to make reservations early and bring a costume. (A free folder is available from the Commission.) Years ago you couldn't get a bed in New Orleans at any price but now, like other cities, New Orleans has greatly expanded its tourist facilities.

A FINAL WORD about costumes. Costumers, right now, are working on a 16-hour schedule to get Orleansians fitted. A few can be rented, but the tourist who brings his own is sure

EMERALD ISLAND

Sure and It's Like a Morn in Spring

And to be sure now but isn't it true. More Irish people—unless you believe in the little paiple—live outside the Emerald Isle than in it.

Eire—the Irish Republic—has 26 counties covering 26,601 square miles. And only 2,885,000 inhabitants. It is not a rich country, and, as a result, Irishmen are found all over the world seeking their fortunes.

At home in their green paradise of beautiful mountains and lakeland scenery—a bewitching holiday land like a morn in spring—the Irish are warm and generous.

THE PRICE of a stay in this beautiful land of shamrocks and leprechauns can easily be lower than in any other European country. Bed and breakfast in a country guest home costs as little as $2; and a night's stay in a luxury hotel in Dublin, the capital, can be bought for $11.20, according to British Overseas Airways Corp.

More than a thousand lakes and rivers and two thousand miles of coastline offer first class bathing, boating and angling.

Favorite national pastimes of the Irish include hunting, steeple-chasing and flat racing—some of the finest bloodstock in the world is bred here. The Dublin Horse Show is Ireland's social event of the year.

Dublin also has an annual International music festival; and two of its theaters, the Abbey and the Gate, are internationally famous, a BOAC spokesman said.

IRELAND was, of course, the land that gave the world Yeats and Shaw and Joyce and Behan to enrich the world's literature.

Offer Youth Employment in Germany

Summers in Europe are no longer the prerogative of the rich and old, but becoming the domain of the young and poor. Lufthansa German Airlines, in cooperation with the German Government Labor Office has created a program whereby American students can spend their summer holidays working in Germany. This will enable them to gain first hand knowledge of the country while paying their own way.

The program is open to male and female students of at least 18 years of age at the time of employment. Students are expected to work a minimum of two months and may spend the balance of their summer holiday traveling and sightseeing. A basic knowledge of German is required. There are job possibilities in agriculture, forestry service, industry, construction work, hotels and restaurants, hospitals and child care.

American students do not need entry visas for Germany. Work permits can be obtained in Germany from local labor offices. No fees are charged for securing the jobs, with Lufthansa acting as intermediary for the German Government Labor Office. Applications forms may be obtained from Lufthansa's 10 sales and ticket offices throughout the West. They must be filed before March 15.

OUR COVER:

Cacaphony of delight for tourists and despair for motorists, the bells, sirens and flashing lights of the bridges of the Port of Long Beach are closely linked to waterfront life in this busy shipping center. There are three man-operated bridges crossing harbor waters and they are among the strangest in the modern world. All are antiquated and all are doomed for eventual retirement —the exasperating pontoon bridge probably first to go. Study of a soaring span for replacement is already well advanced. For more about "Bridging the Great Port of Long Beach," turn to Page 7.

THIS WEEK

His first big break almost broke him. It was to be an airplane sequence shot from a speeding car, but something went wrong and the smashup sent movie cameramen, pieces of camera and film flying all over the old Long Beach air field. Just one of the reminiscences of an old-time motion picture cameraman now living in Seal Beach. He went on from this un auspicious start to film some of the great stars and many of the big scenes in the movies of another era. His story appears in next Sunday's Southland under the title, "He Shot the Stars."

OUR COVER

Cacaphony of delight for tourists and despair for motorists, the bells, sirens and flashing lights of the bridges of the Port of Long Beach are closely linked to waterfront life in this busy shipping center. There are three man-operated bridges crossing harbor waters and they are among the strangest in the modern world. All are antiquated and all are doomed for eventual retirement

—the exasperating pontoon bridge probably first to go. Study of a soaring span for replacement is already well advanced. For more about "Bridging the Great Port of Long Beach," turn to Page 7.

NEXT WEEK

His first big break almost broke him. It was to be an airplane sequence shot from a speeding car, but something went wrong and the smashup sent movie cameramen, pieces of camera and film flying all over the old Long Beach air field. Just one of the reminiscences of an old-time motion picture cameraman now living in Seal Beach. He went on from this un auspicious start to film some of the great stars and many of the big scenes in the movies of another era. His story appears in next Sunday's Southland under the title, "He Shot the Stars."

"Aerial bedroom" built over a clothes-drying yard on space-short site of home of Mrs. Gertrude Waldron, Balboa Island, serves purpose well.

No Way to Go But Up

By Hi Sibley

WHEN COTTAGE owners on a crowded island like Balboa need more room they have only two alternatives: either build on stilts in the water or add another story. Mrs. Gertrude Waldron solved her problem with ingenuity.

Being in urgent need of an extra bedroom and no ground space to spare on a 25-foot beach lot, she had one built 6 feet, 6 inches wide by 15 feet, 6 inches long over her clothes-drying yard with satisfactory results. The elevated structure seemed to create more breeze through the clothes yard than when it was uncovered. And in case of sudden showers there was no need to bring the clothes inside from the line.

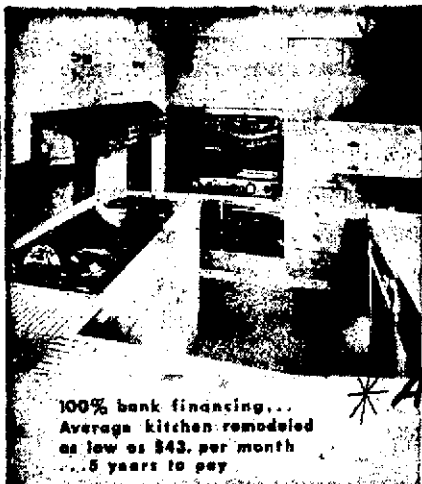

Incidentally, residents of Balboa Island have, as a group, been very clever in making every foot of ground on the small lots serve well. Visitors are impressed with the attractive, apparently small-scale architecture. "Why, they are just like play houses!" But once inside, they are amazed at the roominess that carries on to the back of the lot.

This is the floor plan of the Waldron home "aerial bedroom."

It's only 6 feet 6 inches wide and 15 feet 6 inches long but this bedroom serves adequately as sleeping quarters and is invitingly arranged.

Your 'Uncle Sam' Was Real

By Pat Collins

IT STILL comes as a surprise to many Americans to learn that "Uncle Sam," whose name is accepted worldwide as a synonym for the United States government, was a real living person.

Born in 1765, of Scotch-Irish parents, Samuel Wilson was 9 years old the night Paul Revere galloped down Medford Road, past the Wilson home near Menotomy, Mass., shouting: "The British are coming!"

Seventh of 13 children, young Sam had to remain at home and be "man of the family," while his father, Edward, and his older brothers, Edward Jr. and Joseph, fought in Gen. Washington's Army throughout the Revolutionary War. Sam became an expert bullet-molder, carpenter and bricklayer, and while still in his teens managed a farm and a nursery. He also became "Uncle Sam" to his small army of nephews and nieces—eventually Sam was uncle or great-uncle to more than 100 of his brothers' and sisters' offspring. Even his neighbors affectionately called the big, genial, helpful teenager "Uncle Sam," the nickname he bore to the time of his death at the age of 88.

THE AFTERMATH of the Revolutionary War produced an extended depression in New England. When he was 22, Sam, and his brother Ebenezer, joined other pioneers and headed west searching for opportunities. They settled in Troy, N.Y., a new, bustling town near the junction of the Hudson and Poestenkill rivers. Here Sam's jack-of-all-trades abilities served him well. In addition to working as a carpenter and bricklayer, he managed a general store, a brick yard, and ultimately opened a meat-packing business—the venture that led him to enduring fame.

During the War of 1812, Troy was a major point for assembling food and munitions for the Army. Sam's meat-packing business had become so successful that he advertised he "could slaughter and pack 1,000 cattle a week." Sam became the Army's prime supplier of meat. The quality of his product and his integrity led the Army to appoint him inspector of provisions for the Army of the New York area.

TO DESIGNATE that the meat he inspected was for the United States Army, Sam branded each cask with a large stamp bearing the initials U.S. One day a wagon driver, loading meat intended for a nearby Army post, asked: "What does that US stand for?"

"Uncle Sam's beef," jokingly replied Ebenezer.

"Uncle Sam, who?" asked the driver.

"Uncle Sam Wilson—the fellow who's giving the Army its food."

When the driver delivered the meat he told the soldiers what Ebenezer had said. With the unexplainable humor of troops in the field that later caused soldiers in World War II to call every item they used in the service—including themselves GI, the soldiers of 1812 began calling every thing from canteens to cannonballs, "Uncle Sam's." Next they began calling themselves "Uncle Sam's Army."

The war-created idea may have been forgotten at the end of hostilities, but a cartoonist used a caricature of Samuel Wilson on a patriotic poster and titled it "Uncle Sam."

on page 20, while completing a family gallery. It was copied from an old portrait.

PREVIOUSLY cartoonists had created two other symbols of Colonial America personified by "Brother Jonathan," a country bumpkin type, and "Yankee Doodle," a mythical son of John Bull. The public did not accept these characters as national symbols; but the idea of "Uncle Sam," the genial-giant-farm-boy who went West and became successful, fitted the heroic mold of the newly created United States. Federal employees in Washington, D.C., told visitors they worked for "Uncle Sam." A cartoon was published showing an army of (Continued on Page 20)

Bridging the Great Port of Long Beach

By LOU JOBST

WITH SIRENS wailing, horns honking, lights flashing and gears grinding, a bridge pops its top every few minutes in the Port of Long Beach.

This riotous cacophony, a sound of despair to thousands of hurrying motorists, is heard more than 120 times each day on the local waterfront.

It heralds the opening of any of three of the four bridges which link Terminal Island to mainland Southern California.

The trio of man-operated bridges are among the strangest spans in the world.

Two of three, the Commodore Heim and Ford Avenue Bascule Bridges, stand side-by-side on the Cerritos Channel. The third straddles the Main Entrance Channel to Inner Long Beach Harbor.

THE $14 MILLION Heim Bridge, built by the Navy and opened in 1947, funnels autos and trucks onto the island from the Terminal Island Freeway.

The smaller and older Ford Avenue Bridge carries vehicular and rail traffic to the island. It provides the only railroad link to the mainland.

About two miles to the southeast, the steep-sided pontoon bridge connects the island to the rest of Long Beach Harbor and downtown Long Beach.

While all three bridges were specifically built to accommodate both land and sea traffic in the harbor area, each of the three spans is of a different type of structural design.

It is believed to be the largest vertical lift bridge in the world.

The older Ford Avenue Bridge is a bascule span, hinged in the middle to fold upwards and backwards under the force of four huge counterweights.

The Entrance Channel Bridge is composed of two 50x135-foot pontoons which swing back and forth like a hinged gate to allow boats and ships to pass.

ALL THREE bridges are located in the city limits of Long Beach, but only two, the Heim and Pontoon Bridges, are operated by the Port of Long Beach. The Ford Avenue Bridge is run by Los Angeles Harbor.

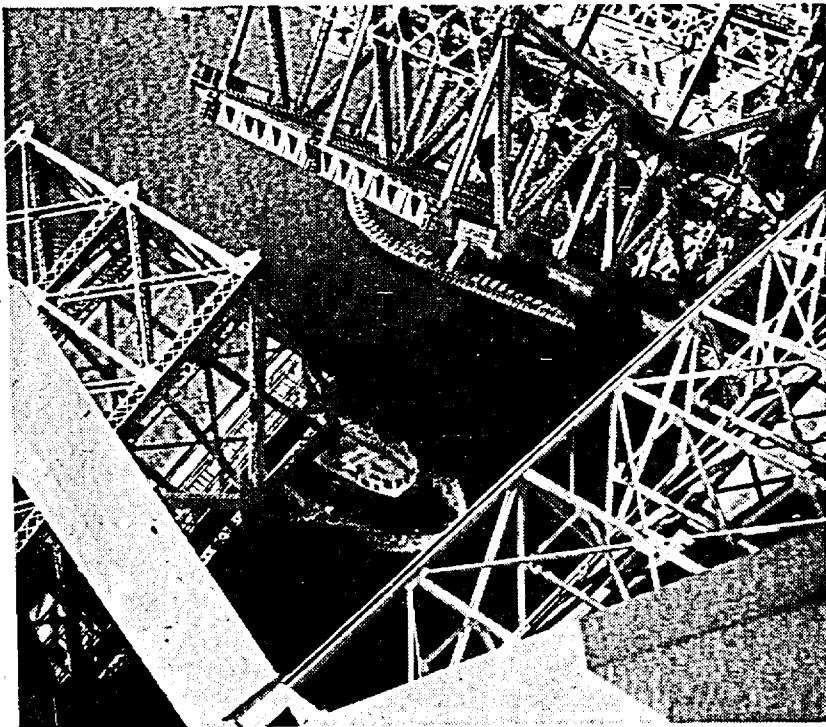

Long Beach has a 15-man staff to maintain the bridges on a 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week basis. Los Angeles has eight bridge operators.

The Heim Bridge is opened or lifted 3,920 times a year, or approximately 11 times a day. The Ford Bridge, which must open for all water traffic, is opened about 30 times a day.

By far the busiest and the biggest headache, safety and traffic-wise, is the Pontoon Bridge.

IN A SINGLE MONTH it is opened nearly 2,500 times, or about 80 times a day.

of $750,000, it has carried upwards of 23,000 autos on a single day and has been the scene of a number of fatal accidents.

Its days appear to be numbered.

Engineering and land acquisition is under way to replace this bridge structure with a $12 million high-level bridge which will soar 242 feet above the channel surface. Construction of the new bridge could begin next year.

It is only a matter of time before Heim and the Ford Avenue Bridges follow.

Both are considered antiquated and both have suffered heavy subsidence damage.

THE TOWERS of the Heim Bridge had to be straightened and expansion joints had to be placed in the roadway in an expensive overhaul in 1956.

The 36-year-old Ford Avenue Bridge has been raised twice and can't be raised a third time.

The Los Angeles Harbor Department estimates it has spent more than $1 million to keep the bridge in operation in recent years and is studying the possibility of replacing it with an earth-filled causeway.

Chief objection to the causeway is that it would close Cerritos Channel, the only inner harbor link between the two ports.

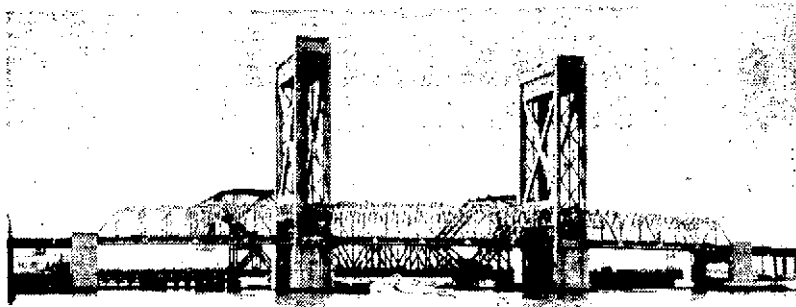

Traffic experts estimate the Heim and Ford Bridges will have to carry 50,000 vehicles a day within the next 15 years or 7,100 vehicles during a peak hour.

Should a middle-aged man marry a young woman?

'January' Brides for 'October' Men?

There were critics who found much to censure in the marriage of Justice William O. Douglas to a girl of 23, but their union has turned out well.

By HOYT McATEE

SHOULD a middle-aged man marry a young woman? In answer to that centuries-old question, many men of spirit, individuality, and of a free-wheeling nature have done so since the beginning of recorded history.

Nowadays, increasing numbers of these "October" men (those who've reached their golden years of achievement) wed "January" girls—the title marriage counselors unofficially apply to them. Some of these "unconventional matches" make quite a splash in the nation's press.

A striking example of that was the marriage of U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, 65, to Joan Carol Douglas—only 23! In official and social Washington, that union touched off very little comment. An outstanding reason for that being that people in the nation's capital—government leaders and others—long have known Justice Douglas as a rugged man: a man who enjoys excellent health and has a zest for living.

They expressed their reactions thusly: "William O. Douglas has a great vigor and he understands young people well. We feel that he will have no trouble keeping up with a girl 42 years younger than himself."

ELSEWHERE around the country, however, this marriage tended to agitate the cynics and professional gossips. One marriage counselor was moved to observe: "Every time a strong-willed older man weds a spirited younger girl, it gives the meddlers and hypocrites new ammunition. Their brains rattle, their tongues wag, and they deplore it all—to no avail!"

In other words, the older men and younger women of spunk—who consider a pronounced difference in their ages as no drawback to marriage—couldn't care less what you, I, or the next person think of their decision!

Joan Carol Douglas, the young wife of the U. S. Supreme Court justice, demonstrated this in an interview she granted recently. Told that her marriage to a much older man had caused considerable eyebrow-raising around the country, she responded with a grin:

"POOR, MISGUIDED souls! They must be awfully frustrated and unhappy to pick on my husband and me. Let me relieve their worries. I'm married to a human dynamo. Why, I'm taking vitamin pills to try to keep up with HIM!"

"We're congenial and very happy together. Each woman must make this decision for herself. I know that in my case, I made a fortunate one in deciding to marry a man 42 years older than myself."

Crooner Bing Crosby and Cathy Grant also gave the skeptics something to "chatter about" in the early days of their "off-beat marriage." This group always looks on the dark and gloomy side and it was "unthinkable" that a man in his mid-fifties should wed a girl in her early twenties.

So the "buzz-buzz set" predicted an early trip to divorce court in Reno for Bing or for Cathy. Their marriage was "doomed from the word go," the cynics broadcast freely.

AS THE INTIMATE friends of Bing and Cathy well know, these two were deeply in love from the start. That alone prompted them to take a chance on marriage—in defiance, to quote Bing, of the "stuffy notions of hide-bound thinkers and other unwelcome meddlers!"

They have—an abundance of evidence shows—found true happiness and contentment together. As a crowning touch, Cathy Grant Crosby has borne the vitally alive Bing three children.

Once, down in Texas, this reporter asked Cathy whether the cynical comments about her marrying a much older man had ever upset her. She replied with the frankness of a frontier woman: "Certainly not! Why should I pay attention to the prattlings of meddlesome fools?"

Some of America's most colorful and free-thinking presidents have also preferred young women. For instance, Thomas Jefferson won election to the presidency 18 years after the death of his wife. "Long Tom" never remarried.

Even in filmland where romancing and marriage causes few eyebrows to rise, wedding of Bing and Kathy Crosby had its corps of very vocal critics.

But when he paid social calls around Washington, young girls almost invariably were the object of his fancy and interest. Two of his favorites—they were 24 and 27 years younger than Jefferson—usually accompanied him on his long walks to the outskirts of town.

"IT SEEMED," one historian has written, "that only younger women offered any challenge to a man as vigorous as Thomas Jefferson. They, in turn, found him considerably more fascinating than the younger men nearer their own ages."

Consider, also, the sensational case of Grover Cleveland, America's 22nd and 24th President. In his late forties, he—to cite one piece of historical evidence—"really asserted his manhood."

Earlier, in the bitter, mud-slinging presidential campaign of 1884 he candidly admitted that he'd been intimate with a woman of loose morals! Additionally, Grover Cleveland manfully announced that he'd assume all responsibility for her son, born out of wedlock.

That forthright admission, coming in the home-stretch drive of a national election, inspired many people to vote for Cleveland! This was their reasoning (they quoted poetry to back it up): "To err is human; to forgive divine." They added: "Besides, he had the gumption and honesty to admit his illicit affair—even in the midst of his presidential campaign."

Somewhat later, Cleveland once again set tongues to wagging. With his 50th birthday in the offing, he proceeded to marry vivacious, 21-year-old Frances Folsom in a colorful White House ceremony.

OVER A STRETCH of years thereafter, Grover Cleveland's considerably younger wife bore him three daughters and two sons. For him, life began at 50. Even his critics grudgingly conceded: "Grover may be getting along in years, but evidently he's still very much of a man!"

License clerks, marriage counselors and preachers point out that numbers of older men wed young women without attracting any special notice. Only when they're prominent, newsworthy, or colorful figures in

Jean Harlow has been dead nearly 30 years, but suddenly Hollywood is alive again with interest in the platinum blond bombshell. Behind the legend was the real Jean Harlow, a shy girl who achieved fame at 19 and died tragically at 26.

Blonde bombshell in her brief movie life, Jean Harlow is flashing to notice again.

JEAN HARLOW, the blonde bombshell of the movies' golden era, is exploding all over Hollywood—and soon the world.

Four movies based on her life are in the works. The new spring fashion lines already are showing the "Harlow Look," featuring satiny, clinging fabrics with slinky full sleeves and low cut bodices. Beauty shops are promoting Harlow platinum blonde hairdos.

And, at the moment, she is the most talked-about star in town.

All of which is most unusual for a star who has been dead nearly 30 years.

Joseph Levine's production of "Harlow" is scheduled to hit the screen first. It will star Carroll Baker, Hollywood's newest sex symbol, who bears a striking resemblance to Jean.

Peter Lawford will play Paul Bern, the husband who committed suicide 65 days after their marriage in what is still one of Hollywood's biggest mysteries.

IRVING SHULMAN, an English professor at California State College at Los Angeles, reopened the Harlow era with a best-selling biography of the star, based in great part on reminiscences of Jean's first agent, Arthur Landau.

Some of Jean's friends have claimed the book was unfair to her and rallied to her defense.

What kind of a girl was this Jean Harlow? What did she have to inspire such interest so long after her death?

To the younger generation, it might over-simplify things to say she was the Marilyn Monroe of her time. But the movie careers of Monroe and Harlow were strikingly similar. Each was the sex symbol of her generation and each suffered from the pressures of such status. Both were well liked by people who worked with them. And each had the same co-star in her last movie—Clark Gable.

Both were superb comedienesses and each was lacking in superficial sophistication off screen.

JEAN WAS 26 when she died and starred only seven years on the screen. She once said: "Sex is fine on the screen—but a nuisance off it."

Her first marriage at 16, an elopement from a swank girl's school, lasted technically three years but was ended long before that.

Blonde star's last film was with Clark Gable, a parallel with Marilyn Monroe's last movie.

Her marriage to Bern—like Monroe's marriage to playwright Arthur Miller—was an experience in education. Bern, an intellectual, introduced her to fine books and art.

But he committed suicide, leaving a note which has puzzled Hollywood to this day. It read:

"DEAREST DEAR: Unfortunately, this is the only way to make good the frightful wrong I have done you and to wipe out my abject humiliation. I love you. P. S. You understand that last night was only a comedy."

The following year she eloped to Yuma, Ariz., with Hal Rosson, a cameraman. She divorced him on March 11, 1934, with this comment:

"He was cruel—and he read in bed."

It was a shocker to millions of males.

Like Monroe, Jean was quick on the quips with Hollywood reporters. Yet, also like Monroe, she was basically shy.

Once a reporter asked Jean if she thought sex activity outside of marriage was increasing among women.

"It would be sort of difficult for it to increase among women alone—wouldn't it?" answered Jean.

Jean got in the movies on a dare from a friend. She did bits in comedies with Laurel and Hardy and other top comics of the silent era.

About the same time, Howard Hughes started filming "Hell's Angels," still one of the great aviation films of all time. The perfectionist millionaire spent three years making a silent movie—and then came the sound revolution.

Hughes scrapped the whole picture at a cost of a then-record $1 million. Ben Lyon and James Hall, the male stars, could talk but Greta Nissen, a sexy Norwegian, had too much accent for the talkies.

Landau was Jean's agent—and also Miss Nissen's. So Kansas City-born Jean got the part.

IT WAS NOT a big part but the audience saw plenty of Harlow and the picture made her an international celebrity. By 1930, this once unknown was 17th on a list of the 100 best known people in the world.

And she was only 19.

In the depths of the depression, she really exploded on the screen. She was the extrovert, fun-loving sex bomb who made her greatest hits opposite the screen's all-time star, Clark Gable.

She starred, too, with other Hollywood greats—the Barrymores, Spencer Tracy, Robert Taylor, Wallace Beery, Lee Tracy, Franchot Tone, James Stewart, William Powell and a dozen more.

She wore skin-tight dresses of white satin, white ostrich feathers and white mink, and drove a white Cadillac. On screen she always played a good-bad girl—the one with a heart of gold.

Her pictures exploited her appeal with such titles as "Platinum Blonde," "Bombshell," "Red Dust," "Suzy," "Hold Your Man," "Wife Versus Secretary," "The Man in Possession," and "Red Headed Woman," in which she dyed her famed platinum tresses.

JEAN'S BEST picture—one in which she was pitted against some of the screen's biggest scene stealers, Wallace Beery and Marie Dressler to name two—was "Dinner at Eight." Her performance is one of the screen's classic comedy portrayals.

At her peak, Jean made $5,000 a week, at a time when taxes were low. But she left only $41,000.

Oldtimers say of all the stars—save Gable—she was the easiest to know. And she stopped acting after she left the sound stage. Studio workers loved her.

One laborer sums it up: "In 40 years, I have worked with every big name in Hollywood. Jean was the only one who ever remembered my name."

In 1931, while making "Reckless," she started going out with Powell. It was, according to friends, the great love of her life.

But Jean, never strong, soon was plagued with a series of illnesses—throat infections, kidney trouble, gall bladder infections and chronic colds.

Then came the illness that killed her. When uremic poisoning set in, Powell rode in the ambulance with Jean to Good Samaritan Hospital.

"But it was too late then," recalls Powell. "She was too far gone. She died in my arms. It was the saddest day of my life."

The date was June 7, 1937. Jean Harlow was only 26.

Last man in star's life, William Powell, is still a star and a staunch Harlow defender.

Jean Harlow has been dead nearly 30 years, but suddenly Hollywood is alive again with interest in the platinum blond bombshell. Behind the legend was the real Jean Harlow, a shy girl who achieved fame at 19 and died tragically at 26.

did bits in comedies with Laurel and Hardy and other top comics of the silent era.

About the same time, Howard Hughes started filming "Hell's Angels," still one of the great aviation films of all time. The perfectionist millionaire spent three years making a silent movie—and then came the sound revolution.

Hughes scrapped the whole picture at a cost of a then-record $1 million. Ben Lyon and James Hall, the male stars, could talk but Greta Nissen, a sexy Norwegian, had too much accent for the talkies.

Landau was Jean's agent—and also Miss Nissen's. So Kansas City-born Jean got the part.

IT WAS NOT a big part but the audience saw plenty of Harlow and the picture made her an international celebrity. By 1930, this once unknown was 17th on a list of the 100 best known people in the world.

And she was only 19.

In the depths of the depression, she really exploded on the screen. She was the extrovert, fun-loving sex bomb who made her greatest hits opposite the screen's all-time star, Clark Gable.

She starred, too, with other Hollywood greats—the Barrymores, Spencer Tracy, Robert Taylor, Wallace Beery, Lee Tracy, Franchot Tone, James Stewart, William Powell and a dozen more.

She wore skin-tight dresses of white satin, white ostrich feathers and white mink, and drove a white Cadillac. On screen she always played a good-bad girl—the one with a heart of gold.

Her pictures exploited her appeal with such titles as "Platinum Blonde," "Bombshell," "Red Dust," "Suzy," "Hold Your Man," "Wife Versus Secretary," "The Man in Possession," and "Red Headed Woman," in which she dyed her famed platinum tresses.

JEAN'S BEST picture—one in which she was pitted against some of the screen's biggest scene stealers, Wallace Beery and Marie Dressler to name two—was "Dinner at Eight." Her performance is one of the screen's classic comedy portrayals.

At her peak, Jean made $5,000 a week, at a time when taxes were low. But she left only $41,000.

Oldtimers say of all the stars—save Gable—she was the easiest to know. And she stopped acting after she left the sound stage. Studio workers loved her.

One laborer sums it up: "In 40 years, I have worked with every big name in Hollywood. Jean was the only one who ever remembered my name."

In 1934, while making "Reckless," she started going out with Powell. It was, according to friends, the great love of her life.

But Jean, never strong, soon was plagued with a series of illnesses—throat infections, kidney trouble, gall bladder infections and chronic colds.

Then came the illness that killed her. When uremic poisoning set in, Powell rode in the ambulance with Jean to Good Samaritan Hospital.

"But it was too late then," recalls Powell. "She was too far gone. She died in my arms. It was the saddest day of my life."

The date was June 7, 1937. Jean Harlow was only 26.

Last man in star's life, William Powell, is still a star and a staunch Harlow defender.

Manufactured Snow Gives Skiing New Life

By Jerome Hall

THIS is National Ski Week.

It is time for step-over Christies and stem turns and schoosbooming and hardpack and all that sort of high-altitude talk.

To all the curious terms of skiing, add a new one—and perhaps the most important one to Southern California's winter sportsmen—instant snow.

This week marks the midpoint of the best winter sports season Southern California has known. "If the rest of the season is as good," says one of the leading spokesmen for the schussing business in Southern California, "it will be beyond even our dreams."

After many years of trial and error, the system of manufacturing genuine snow that can be applied with the flip of a switch has been perfected. In Boyne Mountain, Mich., at Pinkham Notch, N. H., and in Scotland, Japan, Australia and even in Switzerland the ski resorts have installed snow-making machines.

At Boyne Mountain, instant snow means that a worn spot on a heavily traveled slope can be repaired quickly, but at Snow Summit or Rebel Ridge in the San Bernardino Mountains of Southern California it means a new lease on life, a business guarantee. It is a guarantee, too, for the Southern California skier.

"INSTANT SNOW is the single most important thing to happen to skiing in these parts," says Bill Strickland, a Long Beach resident who is head of the ski school at Snow Summit, Big Bear Lake.

"We are not pretending to be an Aspen or a Sun Valley," adds Strickland, "but in a very few years we will have eight lifts right here at our place and we'll have the finest skiing facilities on the edge of a desert anywhere in the world."

Already instant snow has paid large dividends in Southern California. During the first three weeks of the current season Snow Summit, the largest operation in the San Bernardino area, did as much business as it did for an entire winter the past several years.

Some resorts have had to close ticket booths and hang out "sold out" signs on weekends to prevent overlong lines at the lifts. "We didn't have any waiting lines longer than 45 minutes," said one lift operator recently with a clear show of pride of management. He had closed off ticket sales at 10 a.m.

Now new lifts, new lodges, new motels, new restaurants are going up all through the San Bernardino area.

THE REASON is instant snow.

For many years the ski enthusiasts of Southern California were, certainly, the most loyal to their sport anywhere in the country, for they would set out for the mountains never knowing what they'd find at the resorts. Sometimes they'd find overcrowded conditions, for in such a risky business few resort operators were willing to invest heavily. But more often they would find bare hillsides.

"It has taken years," says Strickland, "but we have licked the problem. Instant snow enables the operator of resorts to assure himself of a full season of business and it assures the skier that after that long drive he will be able to get in all the runs he wants."

All it took was eight years of experimentation and, in the case of the Snow Summit operation, an equipment installation costing $375,000. That buys the machinery to pour snow onto the hillsides as soon as the sun goes down and the thermometer dips below freezing. The crews spread the man-made snow all night long as water, chemicals, air pressure and the night's chill combine to duplicate what nature is so stingy with in the Southern California mountains.

TO THE OUTSIDER, it is like something out of a moon man movie to see the hooded workers pull long hoses with large guns across the whitened hillsides.

From the pressure nozzles flows genuine snow. In a recent interview for this article shortly before his fatal accident while working on a tractor preparing a Snow Summit slope for snow-making, Tommi Tyn-dall, perhaps the best-known ski instructor on the West Coast, said, "This is not a phony substitute, it's actually preferred. My top skiers

Easy to Say: 'Thank You!'

By Dick Westermann

TEEN-AGERS: Say "Thank you."

Say it promptly, say it sincerely, say it frequently.

When anyone — parent, teacher, employer, neighbor, friend—does you a service, gives you an opportunity or a pat on the back, any kind of a lift along the way, express your appreciation. Immediately.

Saying "Thank you" shows your good breeding, your good manners—and it pays off in school, business and social life.

A HIGH SCHOOL teacher of 25 years experience told me "The last day of school in June, the captain of the school football team and student body president, sat down at my desk and handed me two objects.

"One was his graduation picture signed 'Thanks for all you have done for me, Bob.' The other was his graduation announcement.

"I was so pleased that I wept."

HERE IS A NOTE a student wrote his teacher at the end of a semester:

"I appreciate all that you did for us in the art class. The 4½ months passed far too quickly and I wish the course were longer. The things I learned will prove valuable all my life. You made learning interesting."

Teachers are absolute necessities, teen-agers. And they, the same as employers, have long memories. They don't forget.

I TREASURE a note from a former secretary:

"I'd like to thank you for the three happy years I spent in your employ. Life, I have found, is an everyday education. We learn each day from those around us, and their actions influence ours. In your office I learned that life is not the 'I take—you give' proposition most kids think it is. It is a 50-50 proposition just like the marriage into which I am entering. For everything, my sincere thanks."

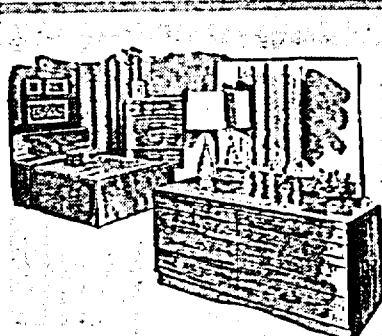

When a clerk goes out of his way to serve you, drop a note of appreciation to the clerk—or better yet, his employer. When you visit in a home, be sure to send promptly a "bread-and-butter" thank-you letter.

If someone helps you make a success in school or helps you get a job, or helps you on the job, say "Thank you." You will always be glad you did—and so will the person who accepts your thanks.

Mrs. Galloway is a professional interior designer and the artistic skill she has displayed when decorating other people's homes is evident in her own. Antique mirrors and handsome hanging lamps play an important part in the decor.

The second living room is a step down through a filigree door from the first room. Carpeting is gold; the wall paper is gold-flecked. The sofa is green satin with a white marble coffee table in front. A long gold chest lines one wall, with an antique mirror in back. An occasional chair is Italian, hand-carved. In the dinette area of the room is a marble table with four green chairs. A gold chandelier hangs above the table. Drapes are gold and a gold screen with green backing is near the rear wall.

THE TAVERN room is off to the right of the second

Antique mirror is used behind the bar, which latter is spacious in size and artistically designed with a gold hanging lamp lending a flattering light to the surroundings. A piano in the room is white.

The TV room is not company size, but ideal for family viewing. The location, next to the kitchen, is advantageous.

By Tim St. George

BEGUN as a 'make work' project to provide work for men idled by hard times, the Carson mansion ultimately became a monument to "elegance and good taste," as well as perhaps the most photographed house in the United States.

The towering, crenellated fantasy in gingerbread over-looks Humboldt Bay in the Northern California city of Eureka. The mansion is a result of activity from the wharves and mills made millions for William Carson, who had the house built in 1884.

Carson was attracted, like thousands of others, by the lure for gold, and after his arrival from New Brunswick in 1850, he filed on a Trinity River claim, not far from the present site of the mansion. But he realized there was a permanence in the falling and milling of redwoods to provide lumber for the burgeoning cities. With John Dolbeer, inventor of a stationary donkey engine to handle the immense logs, nothing was considered too big. Tackling the virgin stand of trees, some redwoods were so large that it took a dozen men with axes and saws to topple one of the sky-poking giants. In time, the men owned several mills, forests of prime trees and even an entire fleet of lumber ships to carry their lumber products everywhere in the world.

AS A MONUMENT to his industry and the fortune he had derived from it, Carson decided to construct a house that would truly represent the dignity, magnificence and grandeur of the redwoods themselves. Besides, his men needed work.

A company of skilled carpenters and artisans was employed to build the three-story mansion which would enclose 18 rooms. Nearly 100,000 board feet of primavera (a blonde hardwood) was imported from South America. Redwood, fir, oak and Philippine mahogany all were worked into the spacious rooms. Exquisite carved work predominates throughout. Stained glass, onyx fireplaces, arched recesses added a baroque touch to the Victorian motif. A main floor porch looks out through beautifully turned columns, and a second floor verandah is enclosed by a wrought iron fence into which the initials of the builder have been worked.

With its spacious grounds, Carson's mansion covers two city blocks. Carefully tended huge rhododendron and camellia plants ring the broad expanses of lawn, which are also skirted in the rear by a miniature forest in which trees ranging from redwoods to palms are planted.

WILLIAM CARSON lived 44 years more enjoying the house which has sometimes been called a "beautiful monstrosity," and it wasn't until 1930 that ownership of the mansion passed from family hands. A civic and social group was organized to purchase, retain and maintain the historic house.

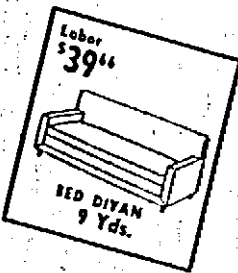

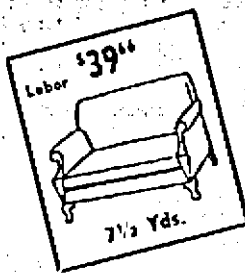

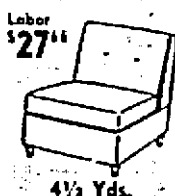

While many of the magnificent redwood trees have long ago been reduced to shredded bark or pulp, and the white-winged sailing vessels have disappeared over the far horizons, the Carson Mansion still recalls the opulence of Victorian days even after 80 years and is a rewarding visit for the traveler with an eye for beauty.

Short Hair CAN Look Dressy

Once upon a time, very long tresses were a woman's most prized possession. But in today's active world, long hair is burdensome, more of a problem than an asset. Short locks are much more manageable. They easily make the transition from tennis court to afternoon cocktail party and yes, if handled properly, to very formal evening affairs.

Noted hairdressers Mr. Ruel and Gene Shacove, show how the casual short hairdo can be transformed into a glamorous "after-six" coif—without benefit of hair-piece!

"The key to creating the dressy look is in the cut," explained Mr. Ruel, style director for the more than 350 Coiffures Americana Salons across the country. "By leaving the crown hair longer than the tapered sides and setting it on medium to large rollers, you can create the illusion of height. The workable-length top hair can then be combed into any number of elaborate designs for gala evenings."

Another trick which contributes to the dressy look, according to famous Hollywood hairstylist Gene Shacove, is to set the nape hair in upswept pin curls. The master stylist, whose star-studded clientele includes such famous beauties as Elizabeth Taylor, Jill St. John, Marlene Dietrich and Kim Novak, explains that this technique enables him to achieve the hugging effect at the neck which goes so well with decollete gowns.

Light hair makes a formal hairdo look even more dressy, Mr. Ruel contends. In Marie Antoinette's time, white powdered wigs were accepted court attire because of their regal look. Today, we've dispensed with white and adopted the far more flattering softness of blonde to accomplish the same elegant look.

"Blonde hair, because of the highlighted halo effect it creates, is better for formal wear," Mr. Ruel said. "And now, more women can become blonde because of the new non-peroxide toners developed by Clairol."

Born Blonde Lotion Toners, available in 12 delicate blonde shades which are shampooed into lightened hair, tone the hair in complete comfort and leave it in better condition because they contain no peroxide. What's more, the color balance crystals which are a part of these new toners eliminate any residual peroxide remaining in the hair from the preliminary lightening treatment. And though these conditioning toners are applied like a shampoo, they are lasting toners — not rinses or semi-permanent colors.

For a chic hairstyle consult a hairdresser and ask him whether the new short look is suitable. He can give a haircoloring consultation as well.

Flaming Apple Treat

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home
Economics Editor

ONCE in a long while we find a recipe that is all we hope it to be . . . unusual, a bouquet of flavors and colors, exciting to serve and to eat.

Such is today's recipe—Flaming Golden Apples—dramatic enough for a spectacular finale to a most important dinner. Jeweled with citroned fruits, these baked apples are laced with rum, then set aflame. The Washington Golden Delicious variety, favored for salads and all fresh uses, also is most suitable to baking, lending tree-fresh flavor, color and shape.

Flaming Golden Apples

- 6 Washington Golden Delicious Apples
- $\frac{3}{4}$  cup brown sugar
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup granulated sugar
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup water
- dash of salt
- $\frac{1}{2}$  lemon, sliced
- $\frac{1}{2}$  orange, sliced
- $1\frac{1}{2}$  cups citroned fruit OR orange marmalade
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup chopped walnuts
- 6 cubes sugar
- lemon extract OR high-proof rum

Core apples and peel down about halfway. Make syrup of sugars, water, salt, lemon and orange. Place apples, peeled end down, in an ovenware dish; pour syrup over apples. Simmer gently on top of range for about 10 minutes—until softened but not completely cooked. Turn apples right-side up and fill with citroned fruit or marmalade and chopped walnuts. Bake 10-12 minutes, uncovered, in 425 degree F. oven until tender, basting to glaze apples. Use lemon extract or rum to moisten sugar cubes, placing one on each apple. Flame them when ready to serve.

Apples' versatility in daily fare is again shown in recipe for Flaming Golden Apples.

Recipe of the Week

NOODLE DISHES are perennial favorites and one of these wins $5 as best recipe of the week, submitted by J. F. Russell, 4955 Castana St., Lakewood. The recipe:

Chicken Livers and Noodles

- 2 strips of bacon
- 1 8 oz. pkg. frozen chicken livers
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1  $5\frac{1}{2}$  oz. can tomato juice
- $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. salt
- $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. seasoned salt
- $\frac{1}{4}$  tsp. pepper
- 2 cups cooked noodles (about 6 oz. dry)

Completely thaw chicken livers. In skillet, fry bacon until crisp. Remove bacon, crumble and set aside. Lightly brown onion in the bacon grease. Add chicken livers and saute until tender and browned. Drain off excess grease. With fork, break livers into bite size pieces. Add tomato juice and seasonings. Heat until bubbly. Add noodles and simmer 5 to 10 minutes. Turn onto serving plates and sprinkle with crumbled bacon bits. Serves two.

'January' Brides

their own right do they receive an outpouring of attention in newspapers and magazines.

This reporter can add one personal glimpse to this report. Beyond all doubt, the happiest pair I've ever known had two strikes on them from the outset. He, a dynamic government agent of 45, married an emotionally mature girl of 20. Their "fair-weather friends" howled, clucked their tongues, and deplored the match.

But these two, fully aware of their strong love for each other, showed the courage of their convictions. They thumbed their noses at the "don't-do-it" pleaders and got married. Now, 10 years later, they're still profoundly happy together.

FOR A certainty, the cases described in this article are the exceptional variety. Experts in the marriage-counseling field are convinced that only EXCEPTIONAL older men can make young women happy in marriage.

Specifically, the older man must be in vigorous health, possess a "youthful outlook," and have a colorful personality. And the girl he marries (whether she be 20, 21 or 22) must have developed emotional maturity, poise, and the determination to live her own life—regardless of what others may think or advise. Given these requirements, the marriage of an "October man" to a "January girl" can—and often does—succeed.

'Automatic' Crossword Puzzle

FOOD

Flaming Apple Treat

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home
Economics Editor

ONCE in a long while we find a recipe that is all we hope it to be . . . unusual, a bouquet of flavors and colors, exciting to serve and to eat.

Such is today's recipe—Flaming Golden Apples—dramatic enough for a spectacular finale to a most important dinner. Jeweled with citroned fruits, these baked apples are laced with rum, then set aflame. The Washington Golden Delicious variety, favored for salads and all fresh uses, also is most suitable to baking, lending tree-fresh flavor, color and shape.

Flaming Golden Apples

- 6 Washington Golden Delicious Apples
- $\frac{3}{4}$  cup brown sugar
- $\frac{1}{4}$  cup granulated sugar
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup water
- dash of salt
- $\frac{1}{2}$  lemon, sliced
- $\frac{1}{2}$  orange, sliced
- $1\frac{1}{2}$  cups citroned fruit OR orange marmalade
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup chopped walnuts
- 6 cubes sugar
- lemon extract OR high-proof rum

Core apples and peel down about halfway. Make syrup of sugars, water, salt, lemon and orange. Place apples, peeled end down, in an ovenware dish; pour syrup over apples. Simmer gently on top of range for about 10 minutes—until softened but not completely cooked. Turn apples right-side up and fill with citroned fruit or marmalade and chopped walnuts. Bake 10-12 minutes, uncovered, in 425 degree F. oven until tender, basting to glaze apples. Use lemon extract or rum to moisten sugar cubes, placing one on each apple. Flame them when ready to serve.

Apples' versatility in daily fare is again shown in recipe for Flaming Golden Apples.

Recipe of the Week

NOODLE DISHES are perennial favorites and one of these wins $5 as best recipe of the week, submitted by J. F. Russell, 4955 Castana St., Lakewood. The recipe:

Chicken Livers and Noodles

- 2 strips of bacon
- 1 8 oz. pkg. frozen chicken livers
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1  $5\frac{1}{2}$  oz. can tomato juice
- $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. salt
- $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. seasoned salt
- $\frac{1}{4}$  tsp. pepper
- 2 cups cooked noodles (about 6 oz. dry)

Completely thaw chicken livers. In skillet, fry bacon until crisp. Remove bacon, crumble and set aside. Lightly brown onion in the bacon grease. Add chicken livers and saute until tender and browned. Drain off excess grease. With fork, break livers into bite size pieces. Add tomato juice and seasonings. Heat until bubbly. Add noodles and simmer 5 to 10 minutes. Turn onto serving plates and sprinkle with crumbled bacon bits. Serves two.

'January' Brides

they their own right do they receive an outpouring of attention in newspapers and magazines.

This reporter can add one personal glimpse to this report. Beyond all doubt, the happiest pair I've ever known had two strikes on them from the outset. He, a dynamic government agent of 45, married an emotionally mature girl of 20. Their "fair-weather friends" howled, clucked their tongues, and deplored the match.

But these two, fully aware of their strong love for each other, showed the courage of their convictions. They thumbed their noses at the "don't-do-it" pleaders and got married. Now, 10 years later, they're still profoundly happy together.

FOR A certainty, the cases described in this article are the exceptional variety. Experts in the marriage-counseling field are convinced that only EXCEPTIONAL older men can make young women happy in marriage.

Specifically, the older man must be in vigorous health, possess a "youthful outlook," and have a colorful personality. And the girl he marries (whether she be 20, 21 or 22) must have developed emotional maturity, poise, and the determination to live her own life—regardless of what others may think or advise. Given these requirements, the marriage of an "October man" to a "January girl" can—and often does—succeed.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you give genealogy of LAIRD. I leave shortly to live in the Australian back country—K. L. Bellflower.

K.L. LAIRD comes from the medieval Scottish term "laird," a distortion of the English "lord." The family founder was the laird or owner and proprietor of a manorial estate under a royal edict in the 1300s. Ancestral records list the marriage at London in 1781 of John Laird and Elizabeth Monk. The Laird shield from Glenhuntingly, Scotland, is silver, crossed by a red chevron. Above the chevron at the top of the shield are two boar heads in natural colors; below the chevron is a red crescent.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the origin of LAUER?—G.L., A.L., Long Beach; E.L., Pico Rivera.

LAUER had its source in two divergent remote German words. "Lower," one root word, meant "tanner of leather." "Lure," the alternate source term, meant "watchman," for a military outlook who informed townsmen when enemies approached the town walls. The Lauer shield from Nurnberg, Bavaria, is black. On it is embossed the upper half of a man in gold with a gold cap, holding a sickle in his right hand, a bunch of grapes in his left.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have data on FLINT.—E.F., Compton; W.R., Anaheim.

E.F., W.R.: FLINT was initiated in England from an ancestor who came from the Welsh seaport town of Flint. This place name was derived from the Roman terms "Fluentum" meaning simply, "stream." Sward Flynt was a Welsh forefather in 1398. The Flint family shield is blue, crossed by a chevron decorated with two red combatant lions placed between three silver flintstones.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on BALE, BALES?—A.W., Lakewood; R.B., Torrance.

A.W., R.B.: BALE and BALES began in 12th century England as the hero name "Bald" meaning "bold one." Bales indicates "Son of Bald." Sir John Bale, created a baronet in 1643, was

You Ask, We Answer

Q. Is all beef federally inspected?

A. Only that which moves across state lines is required by law to be inspected. This, however, totals 80% of all commercially slaughtered beef animals.

Q. Who originated the saying: "There is no armor against Fate?" B.L.

A. This is a line in Scene 3 of "Contention of Ajax and Ulysses," by James Shirley (1596-1666), noted English playwright and poet. It is contained in the passage: "The glories of our blood and state/Are shadows, not substantial things;

/There is no armour against fate;/Death lays his icy hands on kings."

Q. Was it Life magazine that published the story and photographs of the bomber, "Lady Be Good," found in the African desert? A.J.

A. Life magazine for March 7, 1960 carried a feature article, "Desert Gives Up Its Secret," telling of the solution of the 17-year mystery of the fate of the B-24 heavy bomber and its crew. From April 1943, when the bomber vanished, nothing was learned of it until May 1959, when a British oil prospector came across the wrecked plane in the desert 450 miles south of Benghazi, Libya, its home base. The mystery of its missing crew was solved in February 1960 when another oil man found the bones of five of the crew and a diary which told of their ordeal.

Q. May American Indians vote in presidential elections? M.A.

A. Indians have the right to vote; they must comply with conditions required of all voters in the various states. Their reservations are part of the state in which they are located, and the Indians are citizens of the state of their residence.

Q. For how long were American troops involved in the actual fighting of the Korean Conflict? R. K.

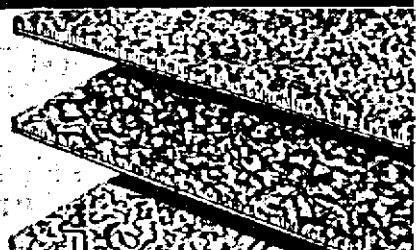

A. For three years and one month, beginning on June 27, 1950.

Make Own Surfboard

Inexpensive when you make it yourself, this surfboard is built from full-sized patterns.

By Steve Ellingson

TIME WAS when surfers were a limited band of hardy males who needed muscle and endurance to handle the heavy boards that were a heritage from the ancient Polynesians.

have made the boards light and maneuverable and the devotees of surfing include many fans from the distaff side and from sub-teens to adults.

Today's miracle products

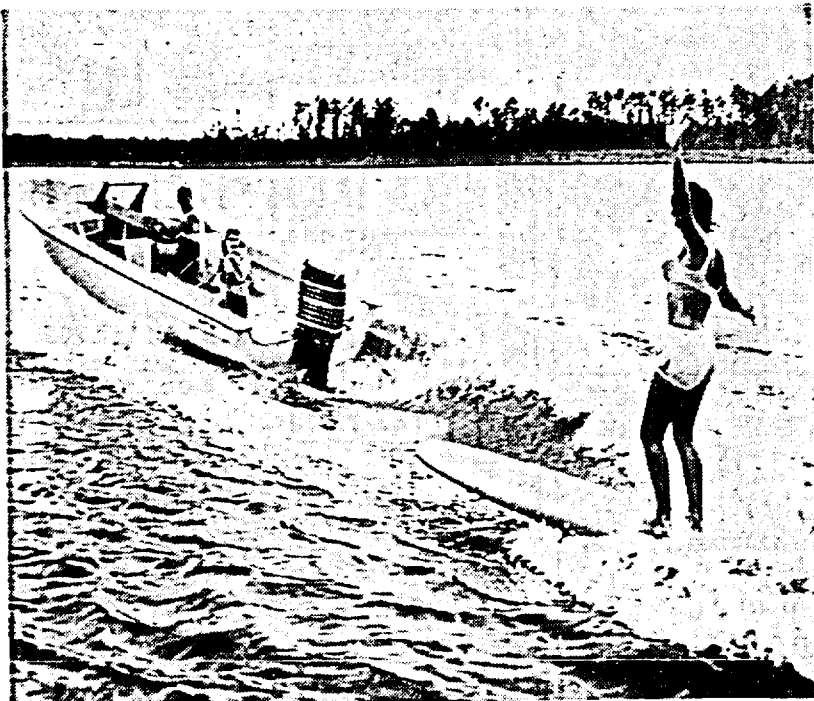

Surfing's attraction was widened not long ago when

It was discovered that surfboards could be ridden in the wake of power boats, thus spreading the sport to inland lakes and the calm of bays.

A whole industry has grown up to cater to the interests of surfers, not only in the making and selling of boards but in swim gear and other accoutrements of surfing.

SURFBOARDS are expensive to buy but inexpensive to make, and now is a good time to work on one. Surfing season is the year around but, in spite of that, many winter days are more comfortable and more profitably spent in the workshop. The board pictured with this article may be used either on the ocean or behind a boat. And, any amateur can undertake this project with success when he uses the full size pattern. A list of required materials along with lots of easy-to-follow illustrations and directions are included. The pattern also shows how to use the board after you have built it.

To obtain the full size surf board pattern No. 351 send $1 in currency, check or money order with name and address to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

Recent development in surfing is riding the wake of powerboats, bringing the board-riding sport inland, as this young miss is doing in calm waters.

Make Own Surfboard

Inexpensive when you make it yourself, this surfboard is built from full-sized patterns.

By Steve Ellingson

TIME WAS when surfers were a limited band of hardy males who needed muscle and endurance to handle the heavy boards that were a heritage from the ancient Polynesians.

Today's miracle products have made the boards light and maneuverable and the devotees of surfing include many fans from the distaff side and from sub-teens to adults.

Surfing's attraction was widened not long ago when it was discovered that surfboards could be ridden in the wake of power boats, thus spreading the sport to inland lakes and the calm of bays.

A whole industry has grown up to cater to the interests of surfers, not only in the making and selling of boards but in swim gear and other accoutrements of surfing.

SURFBOARDS are expensive to buy but inexpensive to make, and now is a good time to work on one. Surfing season is the year around but, in spite of that, many winter days are more comfortable and more profitably spent in the workshop. The board pictured with this article may be used either on the ocean or behind a boat. And, any amateur can undertake this project with success when he uses the full size pattern. A list of required materials along with lots of easy-to-follow illustrations and directions are included. The pattern also shows how to use the board after you have built it.

To obtain the full size surf board pattern No. 351 send $1 in currency, check or money order with name and address to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

Recent development in surfing is riding the wake of powerboats, bringing the board-riding sport inland, as this young miss is doing in calm waters.

"Uncle Sams" marching as volunteers.

Since the first "Uncle Sam" cartoon appeared many famous artists have created different versions to fit special occasions. The original was without goatee or star-studded hat. BUT THE PICTURE of "Uncle Sam" best known to the world was painted by James Montgomery Flagg in 1918, and first used as a World War I recruiting poster. The original of this painting now hangs in the Smithsonian Institution.

Tales of the Kentucky Hills

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

TODAY when I read about our delinquents I wonder what I might have been called if the truth had been known in my day and time." Jesse Stuart makes this off-the-record comment in the introduction to his new book of tales of the Kentucky hills entitled "SAVE EVERY LAMB." (McGraw-Hill Book Co. $4.95). The volume is beautifully illustrated by Jean George's pen drawings.

HANS HABE, distinguished European journalist, traveled through the United States, witnessed the forces of fanaticism and wrote "THE WOUNDED LAND" (Coward-McCann, $5.95).

Jesse Stuart, who was born in 1907 in W-Hollow, Greenup County, Ky., still lives on the old homestead amid the hills and blue grass of his beloved native state. Although his parents were hard working sharecroppers Jesse Stuart, with a brilliant talent for writing, put himself through school and has studied, taught and lectured around the world.

"Save Every Lamb," the title of the lead story in this new book, is an excerpt from Stuart's first novel, "Trees of Heaven." In it he describes the way his father, mother, brother and sisters saved their lambs from the bitter cold of a Kentucky winter. One of the best known and loved of Jesse Stuart's 21 books is "Taps for Private Tussie." Another is "Tales from the Plum Grove Hills."

Jesse Stuart loves every animal, insect and bird in the entire Kentucky hills area. His short story "Saving the Bees," one of the many in the new collection, deals with the so called juvenile delinquents of his day and how they took into their own hands the task of saving the honey bees from a life of captivity in beehives.

"We hill boys," Stuart says, "believed bees should be left wild among the trees and we did our best to free all domesticated bees and return them to their natural way of life. The author tells how he and his pals stole out of their homes at night and snatched hives full of honeybees and carried them over difficult trails to the hinterlands where they turned them loose, much to the astonishment and frustration of the owners of the bees."

Jesse Stuart comments wistfully that his world of the outdoors has changed woefully. "No one digs all his livelihood from the soil here any more," he states. "Everyone works in industry and drives to and from his work. Since we are paid by the government not to farm our corn land and no longer cut and shock corn in the valley and on the slope the food supply for wildlife is practically gone."

The author expands his thoughts on preservation of wildlife in the concluding story "Or They Perish," the last chapter in this heart-warming volume.

JOSEPH JOEL KEITH, California's internationally published poet, manages a wide range of subjects in his newest and best book to date "ACROSS THE DARK" (Windfall Press, 1572 N. Halsted St., Chicago, $3). All 61 poems in this handsome volume were published earlier in The Kenyon Review, The New Republic, National Review, and other U.S. and European magazines of high quality.

There are the satirical or merely forcefully ironic poems that some of the love poems themselves are—such as "The Game" (of love) and "By the Hearth," which projects some of the bitterness, in its drama, of Frost's "The Lovely Shall Be Choosers."

The moral force distinguishing this volume is a more deeply personal one. It is as though this poet has earned the right to a more personal statement, with "the pen poised and waiting to capture elusive words."

In the last section of the book, "Conscience" becomes a dog, a terrier, wonderfully rendered in the terrier's own terms; and later in "Major Theme," the dog lovingly appears again with a comment from the poet as morally exacting as Marianne Moore might be:

What is significant? The kindness and the tone are significant; not authority, unless authority is blended with the voice's known, persuasive interest.

If that sounds like prose, read the poem—and it will become poetry all right. Even as Conrad Buff's art in the book is poetic.

RULERS WHO are mad didn't, of course, start with the Hitlers, Stalins and Mussolinis. The Greeks, for example, had more than their share of power-mad men, especially in Byzantium of the 12th Century. Angle Vlachos, himself a Greek, in fact one of Modern Greece's best novelists, sets "THEIR MOST SERENE MAJESTIES" (Vanguard, $5.50) in the era of Byzantium's House of Comnenus.

A court official, well placed, narrates the turbulent events of the times of Emperors John, Manuel and Andronicus. Vlachos makes his narrator a devoted servant of the emperors, but a man with a sardonic mind, whose narration is therefore impartial. His emperors may have had their charms, but power and the lust for still more power has made them mad and corrupted them.

Manuel keeps his people in a constant state of war and uncertainty until he is finally crushingly defeated in Asia Minor. Andronicus distinguishes himself with appealing cruelties and slaughters. Vlachos has written a historical novel to place on a shelf alongside the Claudius works of Robert Graves, and the "Decline and Fall" of the great historian Gibbon.

Council Met Here

By Maymie R. Krythe

WHEN THE first Long Beach City Council held its first meeting on Jan. 30, 1883—67 years ago next Saturday—in the Tower Building, Ocean Boulevard and Pacific Avenue, civic history was made.

By a vote of 103 to 3, residents had voted to incorporate as a sixth-class city.

Five men were chosen as trustees: Thomas Stovall, John Roberts, L. D. Fetterman, George W. Bixby and M. H. LaFetra.

W. H. Nash was elected city clerk and W. W. Lowe, treasurer. H. A. Davies held two offices—town marshal and tax collector.

At the first meeting, the trustees chose John Roberts as president or mayor. And the trustees passed an ordinance prohibiting "saloons, gambling houses or other establishments dangerous to public health and safety."

LONG BEACH'S boundaries at the time were Hill Street on the north, the San Gabriel River on the west; Alamitos Avenue (boundary between Rancho Los Cerritos and Los Alamitos) on the east, and of course the ocean on the south.

Property valuation was $819,801, and the council expected to get $4,099 in taxes. However, many property owners could not be found, so more than 400 pieces of land were sold for taxes.

The council met twice each month to attend to city business. One of the first items of business was to set license fees, payable every three months, such as: banks, $15; butchers, $3; meat peddlers, $10; undertakers, $5; manufacturers of gas or electricity, $10; railroads, $25; water companies, $15; livery stables, $5.

JOHN ROBERTS served Long Beach five years as mayor, 10 years as councilman. According to a contemporary, he was "an energetic force in shaping the early history of our community."

A native of Ohio, he also had lived in Iowa and Nebraska, before arriving here in May 1884, when the village contained 17 cottages. In 1889, John Roberts opened a lumber yard at Third Street and Pine Avenue. He was a charter member of the Masonic Lodge organized here in 1896.

Although that initial meeting of the City Council started Long Beach's life as an incorporated city, considerable ground work had been laid.

WILLIAM E. Willmore started it as Willmore City in 1882, but his far-seeing plan did not materialize as he had hoped. So, in 1884, he had to give up his option on the land. Then the Long Beach Land and Water Co. took over, succeeded in 1887 by the Long Beach Development Co. By 1884, the name had been changed to Long Beach.

M. H. LaFetra was the first superintendent of the Long Beach Land and Water Co., which issued a booklet of rules for the government of the community.

One important rule was that all buildings were to be set back at least 50 feet from the front of the lot, in order not to obstruct the view of other property owners. Another rule provided that palm trees should be set out seven feet from the front of each lot—a palm tree for every 25 feet of frontage.

THE LAND and Water Co. passed Long Beach's first parking regulation: "No conveyance or animals will be allowed to occupy the streets, or Ocean Avenue, for temporary or permanent camping or stopping purposes west of Locust."

Another strongly-worded company admonition applied to beach wear: "No objectionable or inappropriate bathing suits will be allowed under any circumstances, and all attempts to use such will be promptly punished under the original laws of this state."

Drunk Test Rapped

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

LAWS WHICH set a blood alcohol level of 0.15% as the line between drunkenness and sobriety are unrealistic, a traffic-accident expert contends.

Dr. Horace G. Campbell, Denver, says that even blood alcohol levels of 0.05% produce impaired driving behavior in many persons.

Dr. Campbell is a former vice chairman of the American Medical Association's committee on medical aspects of automobile injuries.

Forty years ago, Norway adopted 0.05% as the dividing line between safe and impaired motoring, he says. Now there's a move in Norway to reduce the permissible limit to 0.03%, Dr. Campbell discloses.

Two drinks on an empty stomach bring the alcohol blood level to 0.05% in a 150-pound person.

PAOLINS, chemical substances found in clams, can inhibit the growth of certain tumors in hamsters, researchers report.

The substances, which are also found in oysters and abalones, specifically prevent development of or delay the growth of tumors induced by a virus.

Earlier research has shown that paolins display activity against certain bacteria and certain viruses, including two types of polio virus.

One of the researchers, Dr. C. P. Li of the Division of Biologics Standards, National Institutes of Health, speculates:

"It is possible that intake by man or animals of certain foodstuffs rich in paolins plays an important role in the natural defense against certain viral infections."

A PHILADELPHIA radiologist puts to rest fears of a lump that may develop on the inner surface of the lower jawbone.

Such a lump is nothing more than a benign overgrowth of bone which creates only a difficulty in denture fitting, says Dr. Edwin L. Lame in Radiology, a medical journal.

The growth, known technically as orus mandibularis, is rare in youth but occurs in 7% to 8% of adults in this country. It causes a clinical problem when its size and position interferes with dentures of the lower jawbone. Then pressure may cause soreness and swelling.

ALTHOUGH duodenal ulcers are usually caused by tension, ulcers of the stomach are a result of retained food, a noted surgeon says.

Dr. Lester R. Dragstedt of the University of Florida says that some stomach ulcers can be prevented by surgery that aids emptying of food from the stomach.

As long as food remains in the stomach, stimulation of gastric secretion continues, he explains. Eventually the buffering capacity of the food is overcome and secretion becomes sufficiently corrosive to break down the normal stomach wall and produce a stomach ulcer.

The surgeon, by creating an artificial opening between the stomach and intestine or by enlarging the existing opening, can facilitate movement of food from the stomach.

DENTAL patients allergic to the "caine" group of local anesthetics can be given the antihistamine drug Benadryl, researchers report.

A solution of Benadryl can be used as a local anesthetic to deaden pain during tooth extractions, according to a report in Medical Journal of Australia.

(The column frequently reports advances in medical research and opinions of medical authorities not yet accepted in general practice.)

Camellias: Shade Garden Aristocrats

By Joe Littlefield

CAMELLIAS are considered the aristocrats of hard wood shrubs of the shade garden, and rightly so, because they provide a continuing succession of flowers for about three months.

There is such a varied range of colors and forms of blossoms, the gardener sometimes is perplexed as to what varieties to choose. There are varieties to fit any gardener's specific landscape need, whether it is for a compact, slow growing, upright, full and bushy, or spreading and arching shrub.

One of the newer varieties is Guilio Nuccio that has beautiful, coral rose, semi-double flowers that measure five to six inches across. Blooms have 12 to 15 wavy petals and three to five larger petals that look like rabbit ears. The blossoms look more like reticulate flowers. The plant is a vigorous, bushy grower, and the foliage is large and of dark, rich green. It is an early to mid-season bloomer.

THIS CAMELLIA has won the British Horticultural Award, Margaret Herrick Award 1956 and John Ilges Award 1958. In fact it has won more blue ribbons in shows within the last eight to 10 years, than any other camellia.

It does well in anybody's yard, seemingly doesn't mind high or low humidity, and has grown well in cold spots, even in the Carolinas. (Japonica camellias are listed as standing cold from 20 down to 10 degrees above zero.)

Camellias may be planted on the east side of the house, northeast, northwest, north and west if partially shaded, also as container plants. Pre-moistened peat moss, leaf mold or planter mix mulch is ideal humus material to mix with soil as planting medium. A good decomposed humus having a slight organic fertilizer value may be used.

CAMELLIAS, planted properly and given normal care, have been known to grow for 150 years, some probably much longer than that.

If your camellia isn't growing well, seems stunted in growth, probably it is planted too deep, or mulch is smothering the plant trunk at soil level. The top of the root ball should be level with the surrounding garden soil level. The other factors that may cause stunted plant growth are too loose soil and lack of sufficient moisture.

Feline Elite in Show

By Eleanor Avery Price

EL DORADO Cat Club has a show today at Long Beach Municipal Auditorium with cats of all descriptions included. They may not look alike, but cats have many things in common. Each is proud, dignified, incontinent of insults, mistreatment, or enslavement. Each feels electricity in the air through its fur, and so often foretells a storm by his actions. Each needs good food, a comfortable home. And each has from 25 to 30 hairs in its whiskers.

Also, each cat has 30 teeth. Milk teeth are cut at about two weeks of age and shed around the sixth or seventh month. Strong second teeth will not come in unless the diet contains calcium. This should be fed daily until all the teeth have developed. During the entire teething time, kittens may have periods of being peevish and fussy about eating. They may even bite too hard in play because their gums are irritated.

A CAT'S TEETH are adapted to tearing flesh, and it is inadvisable to feed nothing but soft food or even just food he can grind. Alternate meals of finely cut meat with an occasional strip or lump of raw meat. Teeth of both upper and lower jaws will benefit, especially the six incisors, two canines, six premolars, and two molars of the upper jaw.

An early symptom of pyorrhea, or gingivitis (an insidious disease) is tartar, a brownish substance on the teeth. The gums become fiery red, the cat starts to dribble, and the breath is bad. Soon the teeth become loose. So check the cat's mouth often, and if you suspect trouble, clean the teeth with bicarbonate of soda or weak vinegar, using a swab or soft cloth. The cat undoubtedly also needs attention internally, as pyorrhea usually comes from digestive ailments and consequent infections.

Another problem is ulcerated teeth. Look for swelling and inflammation around the base of the teeth. Have a veterinarian check the sinus, as the abscess may throw its infection up there, or it may even work through the cheek. Extraction is needed.

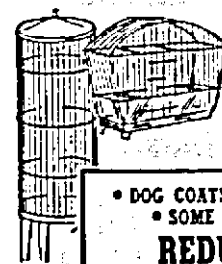

A cat with severe toothache will usually make his condition known. He will mope, hang his head, refuse to eat or at best eat gingerly.

Camellias: Shade Garden Aristocrats

By Joe Littlefield

CAMELLIAS are considered the aristocrats of hard wood shrubs of the shade garden, and rightly so, because they provide a continuing succession of flowers for about three months.

There is such a varied range of colors and forms of blossoms, the gardener sometimes is perplexed as to what varieties to choose. There are varieties to fit any gardener's specific landscape need, whether it is for a compact, slow growing, upright, full and buxom, or spreading and arching shrub.

One of the newer varieties is Guilio Nuccio that has beautiful, coral rose, semi-double flowers that measure five to six inches across. Blooms have 12 to 15 wavy petals and three to five larger petals that look like rabbit ears. The blossoms look more like reticulata flowers. The plant is a vigorous, bushy grower, and the foliage is large and of dark, rich green. It is an early to mid-season bloomer.

THIS CAMELLIA has won the British Horticultural Award, Margaret Herrick Award 1956 and John Ilges Award 1958. In fact it has won more blue ribbons in shows within the last eight to 10 years, than any other camellia.

It does well in anybody's yard, seemingly doesn't mind high or low humidity, and has grown well in cold spots, even in the Carolinas. (Japonica camellias are listed as standing cold from 20 down to 10 degrees above zero.)

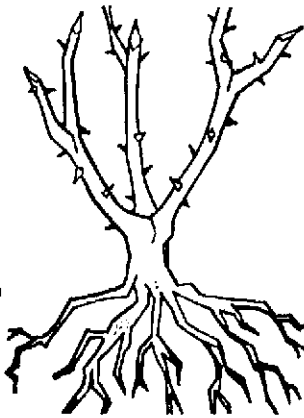

Camellias may be planted on the east side of the house, northeast, northwest, north and west if partially shaded, also as container plants. Pre-moistened peat moss, leaf mold or planter mix mulch is ideal humus material to mix with soil as planting medium. A good decomposed humus having a slight organic fertilizer value may be used.

CAMELLIAS, planted properly and given normal care, have been known to grow for 150 years, some probably much longer than that.

If your camellia isn't growing well, seems stunted in growth, probably it is planted too deep, or mulch is smothering the plant trunk at soil level. The top of the root ball should be level with the surrounding garden soil level. The other factors that may cause stunted plant growth are too loose soil and lack of sufficient moisture.

Gardening Tips

Garden tips for the week: If you haven't already pruned roses, now is the time to do so. At the same time strip off any remaining leaves that have not fallen of their own accord. Clean up fallen leaves around roses.

The perennial vegetables—artichokes, asparagus and rhubarb—are not only good eating, but are attractive in the ornamental garden. They can go in now.

This is bare-root planting season when your dormant plants such as roses and trees are least expensive and easiest to move. It's the best time to plant flowering trees to add to your enjoyment of spring bloom.

Fruit Tree Culture a Lost Art?

By Ralph Chacon

Is fruit tree culture in the home garden becoming a lost art in California?

Certainly — if present trends in landscaping home grounds continue. Only a united crusade by garden clubs, the Association of California Nurserymen, various landscape gardeners' associations, and other interested groups will save the color, glamour and beauty of California.

The total plantable area of residential lots is shrinking at an alarming rate. Subdividers and building contractors continue the trend to plan more square footage of floor space per acre, including bigger pools, bigger paved patios, and more cemented areas.

If a few square yards of plantable area remain, the average new homeowner hastens to fill it with ornamental crushed rock of varying colors from blinding white, bilious greens and yellows to anemic reds and muddy browns.

Family orchards with citrus, avocados, peaches, loquats, and berry bushes are becoming a thing of the past as urban communities go into multiple dwellings and the treeless backyard trend is accelerated. Along with fruit trees, flaming bougainvilleas, and brilliant ever-blooming red hibiscus, climbing, bush and tree roses are going the same route.

To make it easy for people to understand the principles of pruning fruit trees and spraying for insect pests, the writer has written an eight-page manual on pruning and spraying dormant fruit trees, roses, grape vines, and caneberrries with valuable information on plant nutrition and soil conditioning.

This book is available free in virtually every nursery and garden shop in California. Also free is a 36-page "Horticultural Guide."

Both publications are heavily condensed in subject matter and contain tremendous amounts of vital information ranging from breaking down clay soils and the most satisfactory methods of lawn and plant care.

Garden Clubs

Subject of interest in the current planting season, "Bare Root Rose Planting and Early Care" will be discussed by William S. Hillman Jr. of Los Angeles at a meeting of Orange County Rose Society at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Iva Meairs School Cafetorium, Trask and Newland Streets, Garden Grove. Hillman is a top rose culturist and repeat winner at rose shows throughout the southwest. A question box will be provided. Prizes provided by George and Florence Roy of Garden Grove will be awarded and a special table will be set up to display flower arrangements from any and all-comers.

Thomas Basick of Orange, membership chairman, says the society now includes members from 20 communities in Orange and Los Angeles Counties. Mrs. H. F. Henderson of Orange is historian and Mrs. Barbara Rogan of Huntington Beach is refreshment and social committee chairman. The public is invited to the meetings and to membership.

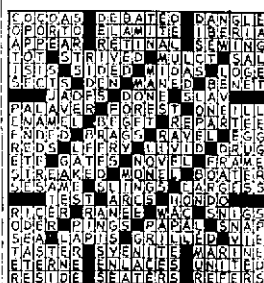

Lakewood Garden Club will plant roses in Memorial Rose Garden at a meeting at noon Thursday in Mayfair Park, Clark Avenue at South Street. Members and friends may bring bare root roses, planting tools and picnic lunches with them. Prizes will be awarded for best and worst dressed gardeners.

North Long Beach Branch, California National Fuchsia Society, will install 1965 officers at a meeting following a potluck supper at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in Houghton Park clubhouse, 6301 Myrtle Ave.

'Burning Bush'

The angel of the Lord spoke to Moses from a "burning bush" according to the Bible. When the sun shines in the fall on Euonymus alatus, commonly known today as the "burning bush," it appears to be on fire because of its brilliant red color, says the American Association of Nurserymen.

Troubles We Don't Talk About

What Troubles? Complaints so personal that few people talk about them—burning, irritation and itching in the sensitive perianal (rectal and genital) area.

What Causes Them? Many things, but especially the lack of hygiene. Doctors say that lack of proper cleanliness often prevents the condition from clearing up. This is true because the perianal area is repeatedly contaminated with potentially harmful bacteria and fungi.

What Do Specialists Recommend? Thorough and regular cleansing, particularly after each bowel movement. This halts the vicious "itch-scratch" cycle. In many cases, this alone will solve the problem of burning, itching, and irritation.

Why Not Plain, Ordinary Soap? Because soap washes away natural skin oils. Frequent and repeated use of soap can cause dryness and irritation, resulting in itching.

What Should Be Used? A new, foamy aerosol medication called ANNUL. It is a gentle but thorough cleanser to be used on toilet tissue or cotton. ANNUL is an antibacterial, antifungal cleanser—soothing, emollient and protective. Soothes burning and irritation. Helps to protect against secondary infection of raw, irritated skin.

The Best Way to stop itch-irritation is never let it get started. Begin regular use of ANNUL this week. Or if you suffer now, begin relief in seconds with ANNUL. It relieves itch-irritation without local pain killers that can mask symptoms and postpone sound medical treatment. If your discomfort persists by all means see your doctor. Ask your doctor whether it isn't wise to use ANNUL with other medications.

Effective Deodorant: Women especially, can be troubled with embarrassing odor. ANNUL is an effective deodorant foam because of its superior cleansing and antibacterial actions. Makes you feel fresher. Secure. Completely groomed.

Most people, after they have tried ANNUL, never use toilet tissue without it. And so inexpensive. You'll find ANNUL in your pharmacy.

Ski Snow

(Continued from Page 10) are using the areas covered by manufactured snow even when they have a choice. It has better qualities for good skiing."

"With 10 million people just down the mountain from us," enthused Strickland one chilly night recently as he watched the hooded workers spray white fluff that would lure the flatlanders up the highway come morning, "this is just the beginning of a whole new era of skiing in these parts. People used to ask what days our lifts operated.

Now they ask about its capacity and how long the waiting lines are."

LAST WINTER Americans spent $50 million on ski equipment from 100 U.S. manufacturers. There are 210 models of skis and 222 models of ski boots on the market. A governmental agency has estimated that the nation's ski population will double in the next three years.

"Skiing has been something that many were afraid to try for the first time," says Strickland, "but with the extra leisure time and added facilities and the advanced techniques that make learning so easy, we feel that the ski population of Southern California will grow much faster than the projection for the national average. Just a couple of lessons is all that it takes to put a total newcomer on the hill having a great time. He can go home from a two-day holiday boasting that he's a skier and it won't be an idle boast."

There's an open invitation to all beginners at every winter resort in the San Bernardino Mountains, just a couple of hours from the Long Beach-Orange County region by freeway.

It isn't the Alps, but it's nearly 10,000 miles closer.

Ski Snow

(Continued from Page 10) are using the areas covered by manufactured snow even when they have a choice. It has better qualities for good skiing.

"With 10 million people just down the mountain from us," enthused Strickland one chilly night recently as he watched the hooded workers spray white fluff that would lure the flatlanders up the highway come morning, "this is just the beginning of a whole new era of skiing in these parts. People used to ask what days our lifts operated.

Now they ask about its capacity and how long the waiting lines are."

LAST WINTER Americans spent $50 million on ski equipment from 100 U.S. manufacturers. There are 210 models of skis and 222 models of ski boots on the market. A governmental agency has estimated that the nation's ski population will double in the next three years.

"Skiing has been something that many were afraid to try for the first time," says Strickland, "but with the extra leisure time and added facilities and the advanced techniques that make learning so easy, we feel that the ski population of Southern California will grow much faster than the projection for the national average. Just a couple of lessons is all that it takes to put a total newcomer on the hill having a great time. He can go home from a two-day holiday boasting that he's a skier and it won't be an idle boast."

There's an open invitation to all beginners at every winter resort in the San Bernardino Mountains, just a couple of hours from the Long Beach-Orange County region by freeway.

It isn't the Alps, but it's nearly 10,000 miles closer.

EVER SO often, my palate rebels. It refused to do business with lobster, prime rib or other standard delectables.

It insists on savoring something completely different.

At a time like that I know exactly the right place to visit—Moreno's Restaurant, 3490 Long Beach Blvd., just north of Wardlow Road. Owned by Nolbert Moreno and his attractive hostess wife Doris, Moreno's is a strikingly scenic establishment which in the brief year of its existence has climbed to the top ranks of Long Beach restaurants. Much of its success is due to the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Moreno are able to offer their patrons classical Mexican dishes not found in other local restaurants.

One of my favorite entrees at Moreno's is the carne asada ranchero ($3.50), a steak topped with a delightful sauce that makes my tastebuds snap to attention.
The steak is a tender, choice sirloin which is not merely cooked. It is seared. This means the exterior becomes a thin dark delicious layer which seals in the natural juices and flavors. The sauce, utilizing a green chile base, compliments those flavors exquisitely. It is zestful —but not overly so.

The collection of such unique recipes has been a lifetime work for Nolbert Moreno who began his career at the age of 9 when he helped his father Norbert in the original Moreno's restaurant in Belmont Shore. Other classics he offers are enchiladas Sonora-style with sour cream ($2.95); camaron de la Parrilla ($2.95), which are giant marinated shrimp, and gallina a la Moreno ($3.25), marinated chicken in a superb sauce. Also served are fine, generous American dinners.

SUNDAY TREAT—There are many different ways of preparing teriyaki steak, a specialty first popularized in Japan. In my opinion one of the most authentic and tempting teriyakis is featured at the Leilani Restaurant, 5236 E. 2nd St., where proprietor Don May uses a recipe which originated in the Orient. The meat is mar-inated in exotic spices and then broiled until it is quite black on the outside. The interior, however, remains pink or red, according to whether the diner wishes it medium or rare. It is $3.50—and delectable.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

Spy-Master Illya Minimizes His Television Romantic Appeal

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

ALTHOUGH IT WASN'T PLANNED that way, fan mail to "The Man from UNCLE" indicates David McCallum is fast becoming a romantic image.

McCallum, who has the role of spy-master Illya, "couldn't care less about women."

But let's get the record straight.

The "careless" remark was directed at "women who fall for men in TV shows."

He doesn't understand why.

"It's absolutely fictional," he said. "It's a dream on their part because there's no contact."

FURTHERMORE, THE LEAD STAR of the show, Robert "Napoleon" Vaughn, is the one whom the scripts provide with romance appeal.

The fact that the mail shows McCallum not far behind in the romantic league is a bonus as far as the producers of the Monday night NBC-TV series are concerned.

McCallum prefers to think of himself as a dedicated spy-master.

"I don't want to only become a romantic image," he said. "If I do, I'm not worried about it. But I'm not going to change anything to further it."

McCallum thinks "The Man from UNCLE" is a series which has no parallel on television.

It has an element of satire, but still contains possibility and probability.

"When we lose probability, we fail."

HE DOESN'T SEE why the MGM series should be categorized as tongue-in-cheek. He doesn't understand why it needs any category.

"If you enjoy it, that's what counts."

There's one thing that McCallum doesn't enjoy.

"I hate everything I do—to watch it," he said. "It is the same with most actors. But I always do watch it."

Another thing about most actors, according to McCallum, is the paradox in the very nature of their profession.

"It is a precarious profession. When you're secure, you're insecure. When you're insecure, there's a certain amount of security."

REASONS for the insecurity while working:

1. No work goes on for very long. The moment you achieve a role, insecurity creeps in because you know it has to end.

2. When you're working, you present yourself as an actor. You're setting yourself up to be shot down by the critics and the public.

On the other hand, an actor who is not working

Spy-Master Illya Minimizes His Television Romantic Appeal

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

DAVID McCALLUM

ALTHOUGH IT WASN'T PLANNED that way, fan mail to "The Man from UNCLE" indicates David McCallum is fast becoming a romantic image.

McCallum, who has the role of spy-master Illya, "couldn't care less about women."

But let's get the record straight.

He cares much about one particular woman, actress Jill Ireland, his wife since 1957.

The "careless" remark was directed at "women who fall for men in TV shows."

He doesn't understand why.

"It's absolutely fictional," he said. "It's a dream on their part because there's no contact."

Sutton Joins Marines 'Easy Way'

JIM NABORS AND FRANK SUTTON
Situation out-of-hand for "Gomer Pyle"

By PEGGY POLK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Frank Sutton, the pugnacious drill instructor on the "Gomer Pyle—USMC" television series, is one actor with a healthy respect for the character he plays.

It dates back to his Army days in World War II when he was training at Camp Pendleton in California—outnumbered 200 to 1 by Marine recruits.

"I was turned down for the Marines because I'm color blind, so I went into the Army and ended up being trained by the Marines at Camp Pendleton," he recalled.

"There were 75,000 Marines, 350 soldiers and 100 sailors. When you went into town on a pass you'd walk on eggs because, brother, you had on the wrong uniform."

That he graduated to the rank of sergeant in a JASCO (Joint Assault Signal Company) unit and took part in 14 assault landings in the South Pacific hasn't diminished Sutton's opinion that it's the Marines who are the tough guys.

Sutton also has a couple of other qualifications for the role of Sgt. Carter.

THERE'S THE Little Theater experience he accumulated as a teen-ager in Nashville, Tenn., his bachelor of dramatic arts degree from Columbia University and his years in stock and on tour. He also has a Broadway show, several movies and a number of television dramas to his credit.

In fact, with time out for the war, Sutton has been doing little else but acting since he appeared in a play called "Romance in a Boarding House" in Nashville at the age of 13.

"It was an accident that stuck," he said. "I joined the Junior Hi-Y Club when the play was already cast except for one small part that they gave me. But then the boy who played 'grandpa'—the biggest part—got sick and I got his role."

"I came out on stage with talcum powder in my hair and I was so scared I got my first line completely reversed. It came out something like, 'I put the car upstairs and the shoes in the garage.'"

"It got a tremendous roar of laughter—and that was it. I found out then that I was going to be an actor, but no one else did for about 20 years."

'Oscar' Blackout in Southland?

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — How can ABC-TV's annual Academy Awards show insure the attendance of movie stars who stay away and thus deprive it of its full glamor?

Duck Dunlap, who has been guiding the event for the network, has a suggestion and says he is dead serious about it:

Follow the example of televised sports events that want to protect their attendance, and have the Oscar cast blacked out in its home territory—namely, the Southern California area.

DUNLAP admits it has been distressing to have so many stars stay away from the awards—especially those who are nominated.

Did he think a sponsor would stand for the elimination of a major market like Southern California in its Oscar pitches? He thought so.

Did he think Southern California area movie fans would stand for the blackout? He shrugged, and left no doubt he felt it was more important that the Academy Awards telecast maintain the prestige that is necessary to keep it a major event.

Dunlap also had a suggestion specifically aimed at insuring the Oscar attendance of nominated performers:

Every movie contract, he said, ought to contain a proviso that, if the performer is nominated for an Academy Award for a role in the film at hand, he or she is required to appear at the Oscar ceremonies.

GEORGE HAMILTON

Movie Star Contemplates TV Series

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA) — George Hamilton is suave, social, slickly handsome, a world traveler and a hard worker.

He guests 8:30 p.m. Tuesday on "Hullabaloo," channel 4.

So far, he has juggled a successful career in movies and television, but next season, if the fates allow, he may be occupied with only one—television.

He can presently be seen in MGM's "Your Cheatin' Heart," the movie which tells the life story of tragic and popular Hank Williams, the country and western artist who died in 1953 at the age of 29. Casting Hamilton in the role is not going according to type, although his talent is versatile enough not to be confined to type.

RESEARCHING the role, he spent long months in the South, talking to Williams' friends and family. He also masqueraded as a shiftless drifter so successfully that he was told to get out of one bar, "because we don't want your kind in here."

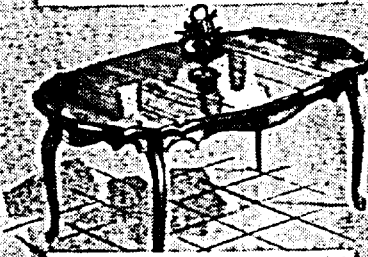

But now, he thinks he would like to settle down to the confinement of a television series. He has made a pilot called Hellcats. "It's a Route 66 in the air with a Gunga Din flavor," he says. "I want to do television because I love to work. I also think it is important for actors to get their own personalities established. An actor has to do this before becoming a good performer. The place to find your own personality is television."

Model Trains

Henry Morgan, "I've Got a Secret" panelist, puts in spare-time hours making and operating remarkably realistic scale-model trains.

GEORGE HAMILTON

Movie Star Contemplates TV Series

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA)

George Hamilton is suave, social, slickly handsome, a world traveler and a hard worker.

He guests 8:30 p.m. Tuesday on "Hullabaloo," channel 4.

So far, he has juggled a successful career in movies and television, but next season, if the fates allow, he may be occupied with only one—television.

He can presently be seen in MGM's "Your Cheatin' Heart," the movie which tells the life story of tragic and popular Hank Williams, the country and western artist who died in 1953 at the age of 29. Casting Hamilton in the role is not going according to type, although his talent is versatile enough not to be confined to type.

RESEARCHING the role, he spent long months in the South, talking to Williams' friends and family. He also masqueraded as a shiftless drifter so successfully that he was told to get out of one bar, "because we don't want your kind in here."

But now, he thinks he would like to settle down to the confinement of a television series. He has made a pilot called Hellcats. "It's a Route 66 in the air with a Gunga Din flavor," he says.

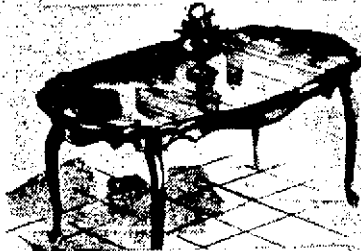

"I want to do television because I love to work. I also think it is important for actors to get their own personalities established. An actor has to do this before becoming a good performer. The place to find your own personality is television."

We have enough cartoons, soap operas and second-class shows now.

Such shows as the Vir-

Half-hour programs are "jerky." Furthermore, they have no attraction for people who spend $500 for a color TV or even less for a good black-and-white.

I love the hour programs.

I also love westerns. The more "shoot-em-ups," the Despite paradox and precariousness, McCallum will stick with acting.

"You see," he said, "there is variety and excitement and that's why actors are actors no matter how much they may say they hate it."

And if that "variety and excitement" incorporates becoming a fictional, romantic image, McCallum really isn't going to fight it too hard.

Long Beach Press (Jan. 2, 1909) —

The census of 1900 gave Long Beach a population of 2,252. Today, it is the third city in the county with a population of 18,000 to 20,000—grown from a summer resort to a thriving bustling city with commercial pretensions.

The Virginia tourist hotel, built at a cost of over $1 million, is regarded without equal West of the Rockies.

Castro was a political name in the news that same day: "While Venezuela shouts for Castro's scalp, that gentleman is buying neckties in Paris."

Despite paradox and precariousness, McCallum will stick with acting.

"You see," he said, "there is variety and excitement and that's why actors are actors no matter how much they may say they hate it."

And if that "variety and excitement" incorporates becoming a fictional, romantic image, McCallum really isn't going to fight it too hard.

Long Beach Press (Jan. 2, 1909) —

The census of 1900 gave Long Beach a population of 2,252. Today, it is the third city in the county with a population of 18,000 to 20,000—grown from a summer resort to a thriving bustling city with commercial pretensions.

The Virginia tourist hotel, built at a cost of over $1 million, is regarded without equal West of the Rockies.

Castro was a political name in the news that same day: "While Venezuela shouts for Castro's scalp, that gentleman is buying neckties in Paris."

Excerpted Reviews on Recent TV Shows

Program: "Allan Sherman's Funnyland," aired last Monday on Channel 4.

Judging from what the viewer is buying these nights, Allan Sherman shapes up as a threat in the comedy field. He and NBC elected this to be as different as any show since the late Ernie Kovacs and it was a rib-tickler if not an outright howler. Reduced to its simplest form it was more a nursery-rhyme than a sophisticated way-outer. It was targeted down the middle to catch all I.Q.'s and augurs well for a series of his own next season.

Critic Helm of "Variety"

Did you see that handsome new star on NBC-TV's one-hour musical special? Was it Cary Grant? Was it Richard Burton? No—but you had to look closely to realize it was not. It was Allan Sherman, who has shed so much of his avoirdupois in a hospital stay that he has trimmed down from a rotund dumpling to a svelte dumpling.

Before you know it, we will be seeing Allan in one of those slick magazine fashion ads in which the fellows wear red sport jackets, yellow shirts, striped ties, white trousers and straw hats. But I digress. The real subject at hand is whether "Allan Sherman's Funnyland," which was a tryout for a possible weekly half-hour series next season, has potential for such an endeavor. The answer is an unqualified yes, but even though few specials or series can be excellent all the way through, you have to look for the better concepts. If Keefe Brasselle can produce three series, then Allan can have at least one.

Critic Rick Du Brow of UPI

An offstage announcer proclaimed:

"It's 'Allan Sherman's Funnyland'."

To which the host comedian retorted:

"Gee, I hope so."

Well, it was—almost.

Program: "Peyton Place," aired Tuesday and Thursday nights on channel 7.

Ever since ABC's evening dramatic serial, "Peyton Place," turned into one of the season's hit shows, there have been rumblings about its spicy, daring themes.

LA trade paper coined a new word for the evening serial, "a sexual" and reported that a movement is under way in at least one community to persuade the television station to discontinue the program.

"Peyton Place" does have some situations rarely encountered in, say, "The Donna Reed Show" or "The Munsters."

But the ripples caused by the show's plots and subplots could only have been made by persons unaware of what has been going on for years in the day-time soap operas.

A friend who keeps an eye on a half dozen of them finds "Peyton Place" pretty mild stuff.

In one of the daytime serials, a girl graduate of reform school and prison has married a nice young man for money but continues to have an affair with the thief with whom she once lived and by whom she is having a child.

In another, a girl in love with a fellow who was acquitted of murdering his wife, lost the child she was having by him. Now she is showing signs of falling in love with another character.

And in another, the characters have had affairs, divorces, illegitimate children and been subjected to savage assaults. Scattered through most have been murder trials and there have been at least two handy cases of amnesia.

"Peyton Place" characters, if measured by the daytime soap opera yardstick, obviously are about as naughty as Elsie Dinsmore.

Maybe the critics had better take a look at day-time television before they get too excited about the evening version of the classic soap opera.

SPECIAL

DISCOVERY '65—Yuri Popov, 14, and Irena Tolstikova, 13, the two Russian children who served as guides for series' visit to Moscow, begin their two week-adventure in America at 11:30 a.m., ch. 7. Today's segment covers their arrival at Kennedy International Airport, goes with them on a helicopter ride over New York, and to a junior high school in Queens where they examine differences between their respective countries, with Yuri discussing his views on Khrushchev's ousting, the U.S. election, Beatlemania and a typical Russian school day.

BRANDED—Premiere. After a hit western series ("The Riflemen") and a flop as a lawyer ("Arrest and Trial"),
Chuck Connors climbs back into western garb as a West Point graduate and former cavalry captain, dismissed from the service on a coward charge and trying to clear his name. With a touch of "The Fugitive," Jason McCord travels the breadth of America, using his background as an engineer and map maker to lead him into many adventures.
The 8:30 p.m., ch. 4 opener guests Alex Cord, Robert Carriac and Janet De Gore, as McCord has the tables turned on him when he saves a stranger from certain death in the desert, only to be left stranded there himself.

MARTIN'S LIE—The American premiere of Gian-Carlo Menotti's new opera, commissioned by CBS in 1962, is seen at 9 p.m., ch. 2, starring Michael Wennink, William Mc-Alpine and Noreen Berry, with direction by Kirk Browning of the initial NBC performances of Menotti's "Amahl."
Story deals with a young orphan in medieval Europe, and of the dramatic choice he must make between truth and love. By lying, he saves the life of a man who perhaps is not worthy of his love and of his ultimate sacrifice. ("For the People," with William Shatner, debuts next week at this hour as regular series.)

SPECIAL

MARINELAND SPECIAL
—The first TV demonstration of how a blindfolded dolphin uses its built-in sonar system to locate five hoops in the water will be a highlight of a 90-min. show taped Jan. 9 for showing at 8 p.m., ch. 13. Bill Burrud, Chuck Jones and Bob Adkins will co-host the tour of the Southland attraction, including Bubbles and her friends in the whale tank, the dolphin games and college, the sea lion circus and Marineland divers (plus Burrud) feeding some 3000 kinds of fish in the 500,000-gallon tank (CBS annual Easter show from Marineland this year features The Munsters.)

THE JEWEL THIEVES—Robert Trout, in New York, and Hughes Rudd, in Miami, are reporters for a CBS News Special Report at 10 p.m., ch. 2, probing the complicated intrigues of gem thieves and fences and their effect on reputable jewelers, insurance firms and law enforcement officials. Focusing on the theft last October of the Star of India sapphire from New York's Museum of Natural History, hour examines the whole intricate business of the buying, selling, wearing and exhibiting of priceless gems, as well as their stealing and recovery.

STATELY GHOSTS of England — Oscar-winning British actress Margaret Rutherford makes her U.S. TV debut in an hour-long ghost-hunt through three of England's most-haunted stately mansions. A medium herself, Miss Rutherford is accompanied by her husband Stringer Davis and London's society clairvoyant Tom Corbett, with Joseph C. Harsch introducing the program at 10 p.m., in color, ch. 4. Tour includes Longleat, where the Marquess of Bath shows the "cold spots" in the corridor where family ancestors appear; Salisbury Hall, where Walter Goldsmith tells of the hauntings by the ghost of Nell Gwynne; and Beaulieu, where Lord Montagu tells of the ghostly monk in brown, accompanied by sounds of monks chanting Gregorian liturgy. (Show, somewhat ironically, pre-empted the haunting chills of England's Alfred Hitchcock.)

No Perfect Profiles, By Jove, for the British

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI)—The British are looking for international television stars but curly-haired young men with perfect profiles need not apply.

With a few exceptions the young fellows are not doing as well in the ratings—at least in this important television market—as the more mature actor somewhere around 40 years of age and often looking it.

The "cult of the middle-aged hero" as it is being described here has been creeping up the popularity charts in Britain for some time but it appears to be an international rather than a purely British trend.

ONE OF THE TOP SHOWS in the British ratings is an American import, "The Rogues," whose stars are Charles Boyer (65), David Niven (54) and Gig Young (47).

Raymond Burr, star of the Perry Mason show, another American product, is 47. Gene Barry of "Burke's Law" is 42 and Danny Kaye and Bob Hope are both on the other side of 50.

The list is long and grows longer—and older—every season.

One of Britain's hopes for big international television sales next season is "The Avengers" built around Patrick McNeen (42).

is 52. Jack Warner, central figure of the long-running police series, "Dixon of Dock Green," says: "I'll never see 50 again."

Stratford Johns, who is one of the stars of the most realistic police series on either side of the Atlantic, "Z Cars," is nudging 40. So is Patrick Wymark of "The Plane Makers," who won the television industry prize as best actor of the year.

No Perfect Profiles, By Jove, for the British

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI)—The British are looking for international television stars but curly-haired young men with perfect profiles need not apply.

With a few exceptions the young fellows are not doing as well in the ratings—at least in this important television market—as the more mature actor somewhere around 40 years of age and often looking it.

The "cult of the middle-aged hero" as it is being described here has been creeping up the popularity charts in Britain for some time but it appears to be an international rather than a purely British trend.

ONE OF THE TOP SHOWS in the British ratings is an American import, "The Rogues," whose stars are Charles Boyer (65), David Niven (54) and Gig Young (47).

Raymond Burr, star of the Perry Mason show, another American product, is 47. Gene Barry of "Burke's Law" is 42 and Danny Kaye and Bob Hope are both on the other side of 50.

The list is long and grows longer—and older—every season.

One of Britain's hopes for big international television sales next season is "The Avengers" built around Patrick McNee (42).

is 52. Jack Warner, central figure of the long-running police series, "Dixon of Dock Green," says: "I'll never see 50 again."

Stratford Johns, who is one of the stars of the most realistic police series on either side of the Atlantic, "Z Cars," is nudging 40. So is Patrick Wymark of "The Plane Makers," who won the television industry prize as best actor of the year.

Nigel Patrick of "Zero One" is 52. Other big names of British television are Michael Denison (49), Ruper Davies (48) and John Barrie (47).

WHEN DRAMA AND OPERA MEET

'Martin's Lie,' Airing Tonight, Demonstrates Compatibility

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI)—The latest of Gian-Carlo Menotti's operas will get its American premiere Sunday night via the Columbia Broadcasting System (9 p.m. channel 2), which commissioned the work about three years ago.

"Martin's Lie" had its world premier in Bristol Cathedral in England last June, and a performance was recorded on video tape after the opening.

"I always enjoy writing chamber opera," the Italian-born composer said, "but this is a new department for me as it is primarily intended as an opera to be performed in a church.

"Canterbury Cathedral was to have been the scene of the premiere, but when I sent the libretto to the dean, he didn't think it was suitable. I then offered it to Wells Cathedral, and the dean there thought it was too secular.

"Then Yehudi Menuhin, who runs the Bath Festival, heard about it, and approached Bristol Cathedral, where it was welcomed. So, the first event of the Bath Festival, 'Martin's Lie,' actually took place 15 miles away in Bristol."

Menotti, whose famous "Amahl and the Night Visitors" has been an annual television event since 1951, always writes his own libretti. "Martin's Lie" is the story of a boy who must make a vital moral decision between love and truth, involving helping a man who may not be worth the saving.

"I HAVE OFTEN BEEN ACCUSED of being too theatrical," said the composer, who admits to learning much from Shakespeare and the Greek dramatists. "But, to me, that is rubbish. Plays are full of drama, so why not opera?"

Menotti created "Martin's Lie" in six months at his country home in Mont Kisco, N. Y., working, as is his custom, at a table, with a piano nearby.

"Like 'Amahl,'" he said, "the leading part is for a boy, and I really think this is the last time I shall write a big role for a child. It is so sad that they cannot last more than a couple of years before they have to be replaced by a new interpreter, for obvious reasons."

Fourteen-year-old Michael Wennink has the role of the lad in "Martin's Lie." Of course, a video-tape performance can be used as long as the tape holds out, but Menotti was thinking of live performances.

THE COMPOSER FEELS that everything he writes reflects an inner conflict or is largely autobiographical. He considers that "Martin's Lie" reflects his own secret longing for a son. But he doesn't have time to dwell long on such things; his schedule is too hectic.

Menotti is working now on a new opera, has others in mind and, of course, is planning for next summer's Festival of Two Worlds, which he started in 1958 in Spoleto, Italy. This latter always has presented a money problem, and Menotti said he is seriously considering removing the festival to Bergamo, Italy, which has offered a larger subsidy.

"Once I thought I would rid myself of all earthly possessions and live in a cave, taking with me two suits, three shirts, two pairs of shoes and three pairs of socks," Menotti commented. "But I don't ever seem to have the clothes available, and besides, I haven't yet found a suitable cave."

Test Film

Van Johnson, who once turned down the starring role that made Robert Stack prominent in ABC-TV's "The Untouchables," has a test film for a possible series, coming up for the same network. It is based on the Broadway play "Take Her, She's Mine," and deals with a father whose eldest daughter returns from a college a changed girl.

SPECIAL

SLATTERY'S PEOPLE — Here's one series saved by last month's big switcheroo on CBS. Its ratings considerably improved in its new 10 p.m., ch. 2 slot, the legislature-based drama last week won its midseason renewal, and its set may be used by the California Assembly for its planned promotional film. Tonight a widely-acclaimed segment dealing with sex education is being reprised in response to viewer requests, with Lori Martin, one-time star of "National Velvet," playing a pregnant unmarried high school girl who became a central figure in a controversy over sex education in schools. Slattery steps in when the teacher (Charles Aidman) is suspended on a morals charge, and comes into bitter conflict with the girl's father (Andrew Duggan) and the chairman of the Board of Education (J. Edward McKinley).

with Robert Goulet, Phyllis Diller and British comedy star Victor Spinetti of the revue "Oh What a Lovely War."
7 12 o'clock High, Robert Lansing, Sorrell Booke. When a hospital bed shortage puts Savage in a ward, he's challenged by the desire to help a ward-mate sergeant who's lost interest in living.

9 Cinema IX: "The Law Is the Law," Fernandel and Tote (Fr.-59-1st run). After nabbing an Italian smuggler, French border guard learns he was born just over the Italian line and can't arrest Toto.

SLATTERY'S PEOPLE —

Here's one series saved by last month's big switcheroo on CBS. Its ratings considerably improved in its new 10 p.m., ch. 2 slot, the legislature-based drama last week won its midseason renewal, and its set may be used by the California Assembly for its planned promotional film. Tonight a widely-acclaimed segment dealing with sex education is being reprised in response to viewer requests, with Lori Martin, one-time star of "National Velvet," playing a pregnant unmarried high school girl who became a central figure in a controversy over sex education in schools. Slattery steps in when the teacher (Charles Aidman) is suspended on a morals charge, and comes in to bitter conflict with the girl's father (Andrew Duggan) and the chairman of the Board of Education (J. Edward McKinley).

MARTY ALLEN AND STEVE ROSSI

NEW YORK (UPI)—Marty Allen and Steve Rossi, who guest on the Ed Sullivan show tonight, have been waiting for a couple of years for television to catch up with their particular brand of comicality, and television has just about made it. Look for them in a network series next fall.

The tall, handsome Rossi with the good singing voice, and the short, stout Allen with the fright-wig hair and the soft-boiled-egg eyes, have filmed the pilot of a series that will be called—what else?—"Hello Dere!"

"We hope we will have a show that will bring a renewed popularity to action comedy," Allen said. "I don't mean out-and-out slapstick simply for the sake of slapstick, although that's certainly nothing to sneer at if it's properly done by the right people."

"BUT WE want to have a series with a definite story line that will depend more for its laughs upon action, movement, sight gags than upon dialogue."

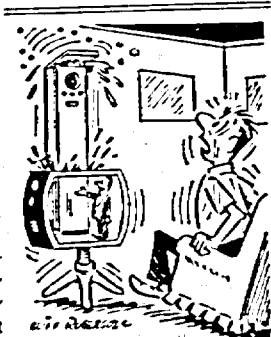

Rossi reached back into the past to back up this argument:

"Look at the popularity of the Laurel and Hardy comedies," he said. "They were movies, of course, but television has used them over and over again, year after year. Action comedy."

And Abbot and Costello, who actually made television shows in the early years of the medium. They're still being run over and over. And name anything more popular than the constantly repeated "Honeymooners" series with Jackie Gleason and Art Carney."

ALLEN AND ROSSI, a progressively popular night club team for half a dozen year, are, of course, well known to any video viewers who watch the big variety shows. They've been on all of the best many times.

"We thought we had a series deal a couple of years ago," Allen said. "Garry Moore's production firm had us under option and a property was being worked on. But various things happened, and it never came off. Others also had ideas for us."

"GLOB MAKES YOUR WASHER SEEM TEN FEET TALL!"

"But this one is the best," Rossi interposed. "We play a television news team working for a Los Angeles station. I'm the reporter, the commentator, and Marty is the cameraman, the technician. We go on all sorts of assignments, get plenty of action. If it works, the time will come when we'll even get all over the country or the world. There is no limit to the humorous situations that can develop."

OR

A LIFETIME OF REGRETS?

A FREE EXAMINATION, WITHOUT DELAY, COULD MAKE THE DIFFERENCE!

Four Steps in Treatment

We've given over a million scalp treatments (a record) to happy Californians in Turoff offices. If you have a hair-loss problem — see us for an amazing trial demonstration of the methods that have helped thousands.

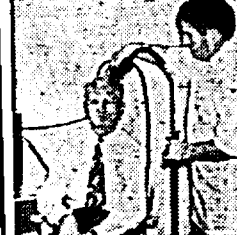

S. I. Turoff, director of Turoff clinics throughout California, announces a trial treatment in all offices.

Turoff Maintains 18 California Branches, with Further Expansion Planned Soon

1. FREE EXAMINATION by a Turoff trained specialist establishes your individual causes of hair loss.

2. EXCLUSIVE ELECTRO-THERAPY developed by Turoff technicians after years of research results are FAST!

3. EXCLUSIVE MEDICATION. Turoff formulae, laboratory produced, another step on the road to a strong healthy scalp.

4. PROFESSIONAL MASSAGE. A skilled and trained assistant reproduces James and Mason scalp so Turoff can grow.

"I find that the chief cause of baldness today is simply neglect! Failure on the part of a balding person to see a specialist before it is too late."

So says S. I. Turoff, one of the nation's leading hair experts. This specialist has helped administer over a million treatments in busy Turoff clinics throughout California. For many years hair worried Californians have brought their problems to him to solve. The satisfaction of these hundreds of thousands of clients reflect in the tremendous growth of the Turoff organization.

Hair Expert Speaks

And Turoff further states, "It is surprising the number of old-fashioned ideas people still cling to, regarding their hair. For instance, many believe that baldness is inherited. If this were true, why would a person have his hair for—say 30 years—before he started to lose it. We may inherit a tendency to baldness, not baldness itself. Some people believe it is natural to get bald with age. This too, is wrong. Science has proven that hair grows fastest between 35 and 60 years of age. However, the most foolish belief of all regarding baldness is that nothing can be done. Turoff records with thousands of clients prove that we can help 95 percent of those we examine. Hair can be thickened where the roots are still alive. If a person is slick bald, we do not accept him for treatment."

What to Expect

Turoff continued, "If you are accepted for Turoff treatment, the cause of your unhealthy scalp will be removed, we will save and thicken your hair. The free examination will reveal just how much thicker you can expect it to be. Your hair will improve wonderfully and you will see it do so quickly. Furthermore, we will teach you how to maintain a head of hair permanently! The cost for treatment is very reasonable. Remember, we cater to working people — Mr. and Mrs. Average Person. It is easy to make the time for treatment. Our hours are 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturdays. (Thurs. 4 to 8 p.m.) No appointment is needed—come in anytime!"

Don't wait! Baldness can get to be hopeless. No examination after 7 p.m.

Q. Is Bing Crosby really 65 years old? I understand that he's 40 years older than his wife, and that he is basically a cold fish.—R.J., Knoxville, Tenn.

A. Crosby's real age is 63. His wife is 30. Crosby has long been recognized in Hollywood as "a loner." He is not a man who quickly generates warmth or friendliness.

Q. Has anyone ever driven an automobile faster than 500 miles an hour?—Clark Jaffe, Newark, N.J.

A. Several drivers. Last October, for example, Art Arfons pushed his 17,000-hp "Green Monster" to a speed of 536 mph on the flats of the Great Salt Lake.

Q. Is it on the level that Doris Day will not act in a movie unless her husband is first paid $100,000?—Helen Klein, New York, N.Y.

HOW TEENAGE JURIES SMASH JUVENILE CRIME

by E. D. FALES, JR.

Hamburg, N.Y., teenage jury hears case questions

A new kind of approach to juvenile delinquency—first brought to public attention in the pages of PARADE—now is sweeping the country and may be providing a dramatic answer to juvenile crime. It's the "youth jury" system, and in 67 cities around the U.S. it has cut down sharply on teenage vandalism, drunkenness, thievery, reckless driving and assaults on older people.

Pioneered in Jacksonville, Fla., the teen jury system allows boys and girls to sit with judges as "friends of the court" and advise on cases of offenders 17 to 21. Although their rulings are not binding, they are generally accepted by judges and have given a whole new flavor to teen justice.

Generally tougher than adults, teen juries have put backbone into wishy-washy parents and put pride back into discouraged youngsters. They've cracked down on hardened offenders and given others large doses of ridicule. They've been particularly hard on wild drivers and kids whose parents buy them out of trouble.

One weapon teen juries have introduced into the courts is shame, holding teenage offenders up to public ridicule instead of giving them status. Recently, in Jacksonville, a husky 16-year-old boy was sentenced to be spanked by his father in front of the jury. In another city, a boy was sentenced to eat baby food and spend weekends in jail. In Hamburg, N.Y., offenders are sentenced to clean town property in public.

Actually, the youth jury idea was limited to Jacksonville until PARADE's article, "How Shall We Punish This Teenager?" was published on Aug. 25, 1963. Then, within hours, a wave of congratulatory letters, telegrams and phone calls swamped the Jacksonville Youth Council on Civic Affairs, whose young people had thought up the idea.

Messages poured in from judges, ministers, teachers, parents, civic clubs and teenagers themselves. "A breakthrough!" wrote a mother in Madison, Wis. Within days youth juries were started in four other cities.

Requests for PARADE's story came from all over the world—and as a result youth juries also were started in London; Johannesburg, South Africa; Sydney and Melbourne, Australia; and Lagos, Nigeria. In the U.S. itself 67 cities and towns adopted youth juries. Hamburg, N.Y., has two. While one deliberates, the other hears new cases.

No less sensational have been the results:

In Ironton, Ohio, juvenile offenses have dropped 12 per cent since teen juries were instituted. In Greensboro, N.C., in the year just ended they plunged 40 per cent. "Kid crime" dropped by 62 per cent in Jacksonville (where some officials had direly predicted the idea would never work). In Hamburg, and Hinsdale, Ill., it dropped 50 per cent.

And in Terre Haute, Ind., according to the Youth Council, which now has expanded nation-wide to sponsor youth juries, boy-and-girl offenses have been slashed by an incredible 75 per cent—in a single year.

"FRIENDS OF THE COURT"

In most cities, the system works as it does in Jacksonville: Five to eight young people are chosen by a local Youth Council to sit as a jury. (The law in most states allows any judge to seek the advice of any group designated as "friends of the court.") They usually are Headed for duty, members of teen jury mount steps to courthouse. So far, the U.S. boasts 67 teenage juries.

Many teen juries have adult advisors. Above, Mrs. Ray Pooley talks to members of Jacksonville, Fla., jury.

Hamburg, N.Y., teenage jury hears case questions . . .

Headed for duty, members of teen jury mount steps to courthouse. So far, the U.S. boasts 67 teenage juries.

Many teen juries have adult advisors. Above, Mrs. Ray Pooley talks to members of Jacksonville, Fla., jury.

... another teenager accused of speeding. In Hamburg, each defendant between 16 and 21 has his case heard by a judge in the presence of a 9-member jury.

limited to juvenile offenses and misdemeanors.

When a young person is questioned by the judge, the jury listens. Then the judge lets jurors ask their own questions of the defendant. If the judge finds the prisoner guilty, the jury, after deliberation, recommends sentence. Usually it gets the judicial blessing.

In many cases a defendant is given a choice by the judge: serving time, paying a stiff fine, losing a driver's license—or accepting the youth jury's sentence.

The juries take no nonsense from parents or defendants. Parents who beg off for young offenders or apply pressure on police and prosecutors get particularly short shrift. In one case, in Winchester, Tenn., two boys were accused of smashing windows.

"They are good boys and they were on their way to church," the parents said. The teenagers, however, sentenced the "good boys" to do janitor work until they could pay for the windows.

WELL-TO-DO SHOPLIFTER

In many smart suburbs boy and girl store-thieves go free because (1) parents pressure the police and (2) stores are afraid to complain.

Not so in Hinsdale, Ill., a Chicago suburb. There a jury made a well-to-do girl shoplifter work—in public—in the very store she'd robbed, until she paid for the loot.

One familiar U.S. town pest, the party-crasher, has parents so bullied that some now hire policemen when their children give parties. Not in Greensboro, N.C., since a youth jury began work.

One young drunk who created a disturbance at a party was cut down to size. "Why did you do it?" demanded the jury. "I just wanted to be a big shot," the prisoner confessed.

To gratify his ambition, the jury then ordered him to appear in public wearing a sign: "I AM 17 AND I WAS CAUGHT DRUNK." The same kind of punishment-by-ridicule was used in another city where a defendant was forced to wear, for two weeks, a sign: "I AM A SPEEDER."

Some juries crack down on parents, too. In Jacksonville, a father confessed to a jury that he "couldn't control" his trouble-maker son.

"The jury listened in astonishment," says Ernest P. Evans, 20-year-old head of the Youth Council. "Then the jury said, 'If parents can't discipline children in private we feel they should have to do it in public. We'll give this father a choice: spank his son here or see him in jail.'"

Young Hamburg, N.Y., offenders do penance by raking leaves. Hamburg "kid crime" has dropped 50 per cent.

The father stood stunned for a moment. "Then," says Evans, "he took off his belt and gave his big husky son six good hard licks."

The parent then stalked out of court in anger. But the boy confided to the jurors: "I'm sorry it took a judge to make my old man do what he should have done a long time ago."

A TOO-SOFT DECISION

Judges sometimes modify the sentences urged by the juries. But sometimes the young juries deal out too-soft sentences—and get disillusioned. In one city recently a boy thief seemed to show promise, so a jury let him off with a park-raking job. While working out his sentence he stole again. This time he went to jail.

Usually, judges say, the juries show great wisdom. Some prisoners are "sentenced" to work with local Youth Councils, helping other boys and girls. Many end up as responsible members of the Councils, serving on juries themselves.

To date 6,000 youth cases have been heard by U.S. teenage juries. Hundreds of youngsters who might now be in jail, or up to new offenses, have been helped.

The new national Youth Council, swamped with congratulatory letters from business men, teachers, lawyers, churches and parents, has drawn up plans to help hundreds of other cities start youth juries. These plans will be discussed at the first annual Youth Congress in Jacksonville, Fla., beginning March 4. (If your community is interested, write Youth Editor, PARADE, 733 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017. We will forward your inquiry to the Congress.) Like the first PARADE article, the Congress may provide new remedies for one of the nation's most troublesome problems.

A NEW PROPOSAL TO BRING MOTORISTS IN TROUBLE

H.E.L.P.

A dense, dangerous morning fog descended over the Detroit-Toledo Expressway. One fast-moving car ploughed into the rear of another, and a chain reaction of crashes was set off that did not end until 13 vehicles had piled up. Fourteen persons lay injured in the tangled wreckage. In the murk and confusion, it did not appear help could arrive very soon.

Then David Soncrant drove up to the scene as the fog lifted slightly. He grabbed the microphone of his radio transceiver (sender and receiver) off its cradle and radioed a distress message. It was heard by the Monroe County, Mich., Sheriff's Department. Within minutes, police cars, ambulances and tow trucks were racing for the location.

Soncrant's was not a typical motoring experience. But any driver at any time may need assistance on the highway or expressway, because of accident, illness or injury or car breakdown. Usually he must wait until a patrol car happens along or a considerate fellow motorist reports his trouble.

PARADE makes the first public announcement today of a new proposed nation-wide program designed to send aid fast—via radio—in such highway emergencies. The program's name, appropriately, is "H.E.L.P."—Highway Emergency Locating Plan. It calls for widespread installation of the small, two-way sending and receiving sets in private cars and in service stations, tow truck dispatchers' offices, hospitals and police stations. "Citizens Band" Channel 9 is designated for the broadcasting.

The voluntary program is the culmination of months of planning and organization by the Automobile Manufacturers Association, of Detroit, in consultation with safety groups and radio manufacturers.

EASY TO OPERATE

Some 2 million of the little radio sets already are in use, half of them in motor vehicles. The transceivers are available from radio supply shops for $50 to $75.

The most crucial uses for radio on the highway are in cases like these: A driver taken deathly ill. A family stranded when a vital car part gives out. A high-speed collision after dark.

Two-way radio highway alert systems already are in use on a small scale at a few places in the U.S. The auto industry proposes that these come under the new H.E.L.P. banner.

"If you want to provide this protection for your area," says Arch Doty of the AMA, "visit the police, hospitals and service stations to urge them to install Citizens Band radio, if they don't already have it, and to monitor Channel 9 around the clock. Then use available media to call on motorists to install the equipment, too."

SPANISH CHICKEN

by BETH MERRIMAN
PARADE FOOD EDITOR

This savory top-stove casserole, as Spanish as the heavy wrought iron around it, is a wonderful dish to serve the next time you're having company. A delicious medley of chicken, spices and oranges, this highly aromatic entree is best served with rice or noodles. Accompany the main dish with hot-garlic bread and a tossed salad.

SPANISH CHICKEN

2 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in serving pieces
½ cup butter or margarine
2 garlic cloves, crushed
1 can (6 oz.) sliced broiled mushrooms
½ cup diced green pepper
3 cups chicken broth • 4 oranges • salt
4 tbsp. flour • 1 can (1 lb.) whole tomatoes

Heat butter in large skillet or Dutch oven; add chicken pieces and brown on both sides. Add garlic, mushrooms and green pepper; cook a few minutes longer. Add chicken broth; reduce heat to simmer, add the shredded peel of 1 orange. Season with salt. Cover; cook gently for 30 minutes or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken. Blend flour with a small amount of water; stir into skillet. Heat and stir until boiling. Section oranges; add with tomatoes; stir until heated through. Return chicken to skillet. Heat to serving temperature. Makes 8 servings.

When the luncheonette failed, Bernie became a cabby. On the night of a mid-*le*weight championship fight, he picked up a fare heading to Yankee Stadium. The passenger was Rocky Graziano. By the time they arrived at the stadium, Bernie had the former middleweight champion rolling on the cab floor with laughter. Graziano insisted that Bernie accompany him to the fight. After the bout, Graziano further insisted that Allen go with him to a night club then owned by Martha Raye, the comedienne, and her husband. By the time that memorable night was over, both Rocky and Martha had convinced Allen that he belonged in show business, and Martha in fact made his first booking. Ever since that night Bernie Allen has been a fixture on the night club circuit, playing the Playboy Club in Chicago, the Palm Shore Club, the International, and other night spots, where he tells such jokes as these:

A few nights ago some guy broke into our house and stole the bathtub. My wife said, "I don't care who did it. They can keep the tub, the soap, and the washrag... I'd just like them to return my mother."

People ask me what's good for heartburn. Fried and starchy food—that'll give it to you good.

A friend of mine who was suffering from delusions went to a psychiatrist. After six years of treatment he was pronounced cured. "Congratulations," the headshrinker told him. "You're a new man."

"Big deal," said my friend. "For years I was Lincoln, Napoleon, Julius Caesar. Today I'm a nobody."

Maybe you haven't heard about it. But if you're clever you can now get color TV for only twenty dollars. The optometrist sends a guy to your house, and he paints your eyeballs.

I was talking to a Frenchman who was spending the summer in Miami Beach. "You Americans!" he said. "You are really crazy! You see a beautiful woman. You whistle. Why you give them warning?"

I just moved into an apartment house that's the last word. I mean it's really modern. In fact, it's so modern that the elevator stands still, and the building goes up and down.

A drunk approached me the other day and said, "How about five bucks for a cup of coffee?"

I said, "Five bucks? That's a lot of money for a cup of coffee."

Said the drunk, "Please, mister, let's not argue on the street."

One final word. Please don't drink liquor while driving a car. You can hit a bump and spill the whole thing.

ANECDOTE OF THE WEEK

● The London Daily Mirror's crack Washington correspondent, Donald Ludlow, still recalls the only action order he gave as a World War II captain in the British Army.

He and his men were dug in on the banks of the Moerdijk in Holland during tea time. Suddenly an enlisted man on the dike began banging away.

"What are you doing up there?" demanded Captain Ludlow.

"Firing at the enemy, sir!" called down the soldier.

"You get right down here," ordered Ludlow, "and don't make him any crosser than he already is."

ON THE LINE

ANECDOTE OF THE WEEK

● The London Daily Mirror's crack Washington correspondent, Donald Ludlow, still recalls the only action order he gave as a World War II captain in the British Army.

He and his men were dug in on the banks of the Moerdijk in Holland during tea time. Suddenly an enlisted man on the dike began banging away. "What are you doing up there?" demanded Captain Ludlow.

"Firing at the enemy, sir!" called down the soldier.

"You get right down here," ordered Ludlow, "and don't make him any crosser than he already is." ●

For the Mata Hari look: Apply one and a half sets of green and black fake lashes on each eye, black and green eyeliners on both upper and lower lids, connecting lines at each corner of the eye. Blend green and black eye shadow over lid.

● When it comes to eye fashion, ladies will do anything but wear shiners. Last year they proved it by sporting butterfly, kangaroo, avocado and discotheque eyes. This year, however, cosmeticians will be a little easier on the eyes. Eye make-up will be prettier as well as amusing. Spy eyes, featured on today's cover and on this page, are the look for modern day Mata Haris—and the big thing is green and black fur lashes by Eylure. Not all cosmeticians agree on how the eyes should have it, however.

Helena Rubinstein thinks the wide eye is the smart new stare. Charles of the Ritz would have women look like Modigliani beauties with demi-almonde shaped eyes. Max Factor is promoting a round eye with a squared-off edge, while Yardley advocates the big round eye—or Bette Davis look. Only Revlon and Alexandra de Markoff, fed up with the accent on heavy eye make-up, suggest getting women back to a natural look. Whatever eye style a woman selects, she'll look better this year.

Wide-eye look is achieved by extending brow line from bridge of nose to beyond natural brow, upward and out. Eyeliner starts little below corner of eye. Apply golden-brown shadow from center lid upward.

Round eye features curved brows, a gray or brown eyeliner on upper lid only, a touch of color on center of lid and natural length lashes for thickness only. The look is soft and very subtle.

For aristocratic demi-almonde eye, shape oval brow, add touch of color on upper lid and fade out color on lower lid with beige shadow. Paint black eyeliner in straight line across upper lid.

But... Would CHRIST Call You A Christian?

There is an amazing difference of opinion today as to what constitutes a real Christian.

One man regards himself as a good Christian because he applies the Golden Rule to everyday living. Another professes to be a follower of Christ even though he believes only part of the Savior's teachings. And some who call themselves Christian even go so far as to reject His divinity.

Too many people, unfortunately, are setting up their own standards of Christian character and Christian living... forgetting that Christ Himself set these standards for us.

The result is that many sincere people are confused... and are deceiving themselves with a minimum, or "so-so" kind of Christian living.

The Catholic Church teaches that the mere belief in Christ is not enough. For if it were, why did Christ take the trouble to show us by precept and example how we should live? Nor can we regard His teachings as just a social doctrine... subject to our individual amendments... when He made it so plain that our very salvation depends on living as He prescribes, not as we choose.

If you want to find out how good a Christian you really are, read—and read again and again—Christ's Sermon on the Mount. And if you read only the introduction... including the Beatitudes... you should realize how far short of Christ's standards are the standards which men set for themselves.

Perhaps you may feel that the ideals voiced by the Savior nearly 2,000 years ago cannot be applied in our modern times. And possibly you will not understand the practical meaning of Christ's references to "the meek," or "the poor in spirit," or "they who hunger and thirst for justice." In that case, we are happy to help you—without cost or obligation.

We shall be glad to send you free on your request an interesting pamphlet explaining the meaning of the words Christ used in the beginning of the Sermon on the Mount... and how you can apply them to achieve a fuller, richer Christian life. It will be sent immediately, and nobody will call on you. Write today for your free copy. Ask for Pamphlet No. PR-29.

FOR WOMEN ONLY ...LAXATIVE NEWS!

"When I think of the suffering I could have avoided if I'd known about Correctol sooner! Our druggist recommended it and we've found it fine for every age group from Grandma to ten-year-old daughter."

Mrs. Einar Haaland, Woodbury, Conn.

Correctol has been specially developed for a woman's delicate system. It is completely different from harsh, all-purpose laxatives.

Its secret is a non-laxative miracle regulator that simply softens waste. And, Correctol contains just enough mild laxative to give regularity a start.

Working together, these two gentle ingredients in Correctol give a woman relief more naturally than any ordinary laxative can. Even in pregnancy and following childbirth.

Why don't you try hospital-proved Correctol... today.

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BECAUSE OF LARGE MAIL VOLUME, PARADE CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES.

NORTH POLE IRON. One of the most fabulously rich iron deposits in the world lies in Baffin Island in the shadow of the North Pole. Minerologists claim the iron ore there is 50 pure, 70% iron, that it can be shoveled directly into furnaces for steel-making. Trouble is, man can work at the North Pole only two months a year—not long enough to make profitable the heavy investment necessary to mine and ship the ore and house the labor.

FAVORITE AIR COMMUTATION. Most heavily traveled air routes in the world are (1) San Francisco-Los Angeles, (2) Rio de Janeiro-Sao Paulo, (3) New York-Boston, (4) New York-Washington.

FACT OF U.S. LIFE. Approximately 93 of every 100 households in the U.S. have 1 or more TV sets.

DRUGS IN GERMANY. Relatively little has been carried on them in the American press, but raids by nearly 1,000 West German police and U.S. narcotics agents have been going on in Frankfurt, Germany. It's part of the plan to halt the sale of marijuana in bars and night clubs to American GIs stationed in Germany. U.S. authorities have infiltrated 200 civilian agents in night spots frequented by troops in an effort to trace the marijuana pushers and suppliers.

DORIS DAY AND TONY CURTIS TURNED UNCO-OPERATIVE WHEN THEY REACHED THE TOP.

SWEET AND SOUR. According to the Hollywood Women's Press Club, the most co-operative show business stars last year were two television stars, Donna Reed, of the Donna Reed Show, and Lorne Greene of Bonanza. The two most unco-operative: Doris Day and Tony Curtis. Ironically enough, both Day and Curtis started with practically no acting talent in the days following World War II. They owe their build-ups to the kindness of the press. Curtis used to wander from magazine office to office offering to pose for any kind of layouts. Doris was similarly co-operative. Today Curtis drives around Hollywood in a $21,000 Rolls-Royce, and Doris refuses to give interviews to reporters unless she can first censor their copy. For a day, a few weeks ago, Doris relaxed her censorship requirements and held a press conference with interviews and pictures, but it turned out she was on a sales pitch for some new records she had made, and afterwards reverted to her old no-interview-without-censorship right. Curtis' real name is Bernie Schwartz and Day's is Doris Kappelhoff. Both now have enough money to tell the press to get lost. The late Damon Runyon, who held film stars in withering contempt used to say of them, "They need you on the way up, and they need you on the way down, but when they get on top, watch out."

THE FASHION WORLD reports that one of its newest and most popular fabrics is beaded mesh. The problem of what to wear under the mesh is solved by women donning flesh-colored slips or basic little black dresses.
